HOOVER FOR NEW WAR DEBT CUT

Today

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

IF STOCK MARKET prices interest you, this is real news. The New York Central Railroad, one of the best and most ably managed in the United States, passed its dividend yesterday for the first time in 60 years.

The stock sold in 1929 above $250. It sold yesterday for $25. "He hath put down the mighty" with a vengeance.

THE UNITED STATES must do something ABOUT and FOR its railroads.

They have made mistakes. So has everybody else, from the top down.

For the nation to be indifferent to the troubles of railroads is as foolish as for an individual to be indifferent to hardening of his arteries. Railroads are the arteries and veins of the physical, industrial and commercial national body.

It is absolutely essential to the public welfare that railroads have whatever financial assistance they need; also important that they be managed by railroad men that understand railroads, and those men not held in bondage by official theorists.

THOSE FOR whom the words "income tax" have hitherto meant nothing, except the pleasant loading of national expense on to the bigger pocketbooks, will take an interest in those words hereafter if Mr. Mellon's proposals go through.

He would add 1,700,000 to the number of income tax payers, and income tax payers now "in the low brackets" will find their tax raised. The fact that it is necessary for those hitherto exempt to carry their share of the burden will not seem a good reason.

CHINA REPORTS two more air bombings by Japanese fighting planes. One village was struck by 21 bombs, another village, Tawa, was riddled by seven bombs, and raked by machine gun fire from the planes.

The Chinese are learning about modern war, and our government ought to be learning about it also.

There are three things important in war now, courage, airplanes and submarines.

GREAT IS the power of the armed. Twelve Chinese bandits, waving a red flag, held up the Peiping-Mukden express. Six hundred passengers, Chinese and foreign, including some Americans, stood humbly submissive while the bandits took their money, jewelry and overcoats.

There is a lesson in preparedness there. If the 600 passengers had been armed, the 12 bandits would have held up some other train.

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN, of late years the most powerful of England's old-fashioned newspapers, ardent, unceasing supporter of the League of Nations, has changed its mind suddenly. It now discovers that the league is a failure and the Chinese-Japanese trouble proves it.

It needs no ghost to come from the grave, or Manchester Guardian to tell us that.

JOHN J. RASKOB, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, tells a luncheon to appoint "minute men" to work for the Democratic party, that he foresees a long Democratic era in the United States.

Mr Raskob is very able, he proved it long before he went into politics, and he knows that what the Democratic party needs is not "minute men" but FOUR-YEAR MEN, able to look ahead, work hard and keep at it.

Democrats won't have any long tenure of national office unless they can stop fighting inside the party and come to the starting line NOT with their fingers entwined in each other's hair.

GERMANY HAS made up her mind to do things instead of merely talking. While she could borrow hundreds and thousands of millions from simple-minded bankers here and in England, everything was simple. She borrowed three billions, paid France two and one-half billions, spent the 500 millions on many things, including athletic fields and housing projects.

Now, easy money days are gone, Germany cuts wages, official salaries, appoints a commission to decide at what prices life's necessities shall be sold. Interest rate on bonds, mortgages, loans and even doctors' fees are reduced by law.

And no real estate sale can be forced by foreclosure or otherwise, unless the owner gets at least 70 per cent of the property's value. That will interest many Americans that find themselves "foreclosed" out of house and home.

Phlegmatic Calm Vanishes Under Bitter Attack of State and Defender's Plea

BULLETIN.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 10.—J. Ed Law, attorney for Harry F. Powers, sprung a complete surprise this afternoon when, instead of asking acquittal for his client, he pleaded for a life sentence instead of death. Law, himself near collapse, told the jury:

"I don't know whether I should appeal to your sympathies or not, but I am asking a life sentence instead of death."

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 10.—iFghting vainly to maintain the stoic calm which he has worn, with two exceptions, during his four-day trial on a charge of murdering Mrs. Dorothy Lemke, one of five persons he is accused of killing, Harry F. Powers, West Virginia's "Bluebeard of the Mails," gave way to extreme nervousness as prosecution and defense attorneys delivered impassioned pleas to the jury.

The oily, sleek-haired Powers was a changed man as he sat on the stage of Moore's Opera House, where Harrison County Court is in session, today, and heard Assistant County Prosecutor W. G. Strathers denounce him in vitriolic terms as the perpetrator of "one of the most heinous crimes in history" and demand that he

Shortages Confessed as Grand Jury Begins Its Inquiry Into Accounts

The much-heralded grand jury investigation of the City Treasurer's office started unexpectedly today after City Controller J. P. Kerr had revealed that three employes of that office were short in their accounts.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park said he would ask the grand jury to indict two of the three—John McKibbin, chief clerk in the delinquent tax division, and Albert Brandner, a clerk, who were arrested.

The third, David A. Rodgers, 48, whose accounts Kerr said were short $22,000, committed suicide seven weeks ago.

SPEEDS INQUIRY

The grand jury investigation, ordered after City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley had been fired by Mayor Kline, was not scheduled to begin until December 28. But Park, after hearing from Controller Kerr that McKibbin and Brandner admitted the shortage, quietly obtained permission from Judge James H. Gray and brought before the jury as first witnesses two auditors who have been working on Schooley's books.

The amount of the shortages attributed to McKibbin and Brandner, appointees of Schooley, has not yet been determined, according to Keer, who explained:

"The method of bookkeeping in the Treasurer's office is so poor it has been difficult to make a trace of various transactions."

Park refused to reveal whether the grand jury, after consdering the evidence against McKibbin and Brandner, would drop the investigation until the scheduled date. He did say that the two prisoners, now held on district attorney's detainers, would not be released, if indicted, until they post bonds.

SCHOOLEY ILL

Schooley, who has been under fire for allowing $125,000 city funds to remain in the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company without bonded protection, is reported still ill at his home. One report is that among several witnesses secretly subpenaed by Park is Herman Friedman, associate of Schooley.

Rodgers, who ended his life, had been in the city tax office for 17 years. He was married and the father of four sons. It was in his home at 861 Crucible street, West End, that he was found, a bullet wound in the head.

Curiosity also was aroused by Rodgers' bank accounts, which showed a balance of only $3. The possibility that the $22,000 shortage was not spent entirely by him was suggested.

Asks Moratorium Action; Senate Approves Probe Of Foreign Bond Sales

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Hoover advised Congress today that it will be necessary for the United States to make still further concessions to European nations that owe us approximately $11,000,000,000, and to that end he proposed to re-create the War Debt Funding Commission to deal with the problem.

Although not so stated in specific language, the impression was conveyed that the debts which Europe owes the United States Treasury must be further scaled downward—notwithstanding that the Treasury itself is facing deficits totaling $3,540,000,000 in the next two years.

Almost simultaneously with presentation of the President's message the Senate passed the Johnson resolution ordering a sweeping investigation into the sale of foreign security in this country. Leading Wall street bankers and heads of investment houses will be summoned by the Senate interrogators and questioned on their handling of foreign securities, both governmental and industrial.

ASKS RATIFICATION

Mr. Hoover's recommendations were contained in a special message addressed to both houses of Congress, requesting ratification of the one-year debt moratorium arranged last June.

This moratorium, he said, had reversed "the drift toward general economic panic." It was, he asserted, a necessary step. He asked ratification of the moratorium before next Tuesday when the for-

SNIPER SLAYS BRIDE IN BATH

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 10. (INS.)—Terror of a "phantom sniper," whose depredations already cost the life of a strikingly beautiful bride of five months, gripped inhabitants here today.

Death came through the window from an unknown source for Mrs. Grace Juliano, an expectant mother, who was mortally wounded when a bullet ripped through the glass and curtain of her bathroom as she was about to step into the tub last night.

Her husband of six months, Joseph, who was downstairs reading, heard her scream. She was unconscious when he reached her side and was dead before she could be taken to a hospital.

The shot that killed her was not the first fired last night in the fashionable neighborhood in which the Juliano home stands. As the husband, seeking help, ran from the house, he came upon a group of policemen who were investigating a shot fired through a window at the nearby home of J. C. Dorn.

BRAKEMAN DIES IN P. R. R. WRECK

By GRANT L. RIGBY
Staff Correspondent.

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 10.—A brakeman who remained at his post after other members of the train crew had leaped to safety was found dead today in the wreckage of 76 loaded coal cars that piled up last night five miles east of Gallitzin, on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

He was Matthew Allison, of Altoona.

Engineer M. J. Leasure, of Altoona, and others of the crew, who had jumped, reported seeing Allison clinging to the side of a car as it dashed wildly down the mountain side.

For a mile a half there was no hand at the throttle ,of the locomotive and Brakeman Allison was the only man on the train.

An investigation of the wreck was ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission, according to a Washington dispatch. Two inspectors of the commission will question witnesses in Pittsburgh tomorrow or Saturday, after a personal survey of the scene.

Leasure was slightly injured in leaping as were E. E. Wright, Altoona, conductor; Evans Jones, South Fork, brakeman and W. A. Hemphill, Juniata, flagman.

Failure of the brakes was believed by officials to have been responsible for the wreck. J. G.

UNDER FIRE, DRY SLEUTH QUITS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Frank E. Hertzig, special investigator for the federal prohibition bureau, assigned to Pittsburgh, has submitted his resignation to Director Amos W. W. Woodcock, and it has been accepted.

Woodcock explained today that charges had been made against Hertzig, and that during the course of the investigation, the agent submitted his resignation. The charges had not been established.

Hertzig was one of a group of 190 special agents who conducted investigations of the more important conspiracy cases. He had been in the federal service a number of years.

Hertzig, an attorney, came to Pittsburgh from Philadelphia, about a year ago to take charge of the Pittsburgh unit of the special agents of the Prohibition bureau, a branch of the Department of Justice. At the local headquarters it was said he had been called to Washington last Friday, but the reason for the call was not known here.

Kelly, Paroled Payroll Slayer, Greets Mother

A widowed mother, filled with tearful gratitude, opened her arms wide today to receive her son, Gilbert W. Kelly, paroled from the Rockview Penitentiary because of her pleas.

Kelly, serving a 20-year term for his part in the holdup and killing of a messenger for Boggs & Buhl in 1921, slipped out of the penitentiary at 2 a. m., and into a bus which carried him to his mother's arms in Pittsburgh.

Kelly's departure from the penitentiary was described by Deputy Warden Packey McFarland:

"Naturally he was feeling jubilant. He told me, 'My mother has a job for me and I'm anxious to get to work.'

"The boy's been on edge for several days to get out, just as anybody would. We had a letter from his mother and she wanted to be sure everything was set."

The reunion of mother and son culminated her efforts to win her son's freedom. Similar efforts failing, she wept as she pleaded be-

CONGRESS HITS DEBT LENIENCY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—President Hoover's veiled warning in his message today that an extension of the war debt moratorium probably would be necessary because of inability of debtor nations to "meet further payments pending full recovery of their economic life," aroused considerable opposition today as soon as his message was read.

Senator Borad (Rep.), of Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, immediately declared he was opposed to any extension of the moratorium, and Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, admitted "it would be very difficult" to persuade Congress to extend it.

RATIFICATION DELAY

In the House, Speaker Garner bluntly said that the present Hoover debt moratorium will not be ratified by December 15, the date on which European debt payments are due at the Treasury. Garner said the House could not possibly act by that time. There

Carol Ready to Crown Mme. Lupescu Queen

Associated Press.

Talk of Magda Lupescu as the possible future commoner Queen of Rumania entered the dispute of the royal brothers at Bucharest today and capital circles believed they saw indications that King Carol would not expel Prince Nicholas for the latter's recent marriage to a commoner bride.

Foreign diplomats arriving at Paris from Rumania reported Mme. Lupescu has forsaken Judaism and become a Christian with a view to qualifying herself to be Queen.

At Bucharest, Prince Nicholas was understood to have handed King Carol his renunciation of membership in the royal family, and it was said the document was a copy of Carol's renunciation, made under similar circumstances in 1926 when he was Crown Prince.

Premier Jorga denied the report, however, and the belief grew that Carol had determined not to exclude his brother.

Hitler Rushes Back to Berlin To Protest Iron Rule Of Bruening on Foes

International News Service.

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—Serious clashes between Communists and Fascists in various parts of Berlin today marked the opening of President Paul von Hindenburg's "Christmas truce" among German political parties.

As the result of the disorders one Communist was stabbed to death, two other Communists were shot and wounded seriously, six Nazis were stabbed and one was shot.

Two members of the Reichs Banner Organization were seriously injured when Nazis stormed the headquarters of the trade unions at Zittau, Saxony.

HITLER SEEKS PARLEY

Rushing to Berlin from the Fascist headquarters at Munich, Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialists, today sought an interview with President von Hindenburg to protest against the strong measures being taken by Chancellor Bruening to suppress political opposition.

Hitler and leaders of war veterans organizations and other political groups were incensed by the presidential decree prohibiting them from appearing in public in the military uniforms of their societies.

One of the first actions of the government under its new emergency powers was the suppression for eight days of the Fascist newspaper Angriff and the Communist newspaper Rote Fahne.

BLOW TO HITLER SEEN

Germany's moderate press today declared that Chancellor Bruening, who clamped the iron rule on the country yesterday, had given Hitlerism a decided and perhaps decisive blow by his latest radio speech and decrees.

Two days of meditation meanwhile, on the decree issued by President von Hindenburg Tuesday night, brought home to the German people the fact that two men, the Chancellor and Dr. Earl Goerdeler, whom he made "price dictator," now rule the country, economically as well as politically.

All danger has not been swept out of the path of the Bruening cabinet, however. It still faces the possibility that the Council of Elders might adopt the Communist resolution calling for convening the Reichstag and the decision on this may come as early as tomorrow.

In political circles, however, the belief was expressed today that if the council should call for a session before Christmas the determined scholar-chancellor would wield his dictatorial powers with and approval of President von Hindenburg, and dissolve the Parliament.

TAMMANY HIT IN N. Y. QUIZ

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Samuel Seabury, chief counsel of the Hofstadter Legislative Committee investigating New York City affairs, charged at a public hearing of that body today that the investigation was being obstructed at every turn by officials of the city administration.

Seabury asserted that the district attorneys were doing nothing with the facts brought to light by the committee. He reiterated a previous charge that an investigation by City Commissioner of Accounts James A. Higgins is an attempt to "whitewash" evidence regarding the distribution of relief fund checks in the borough of Richmond.

Seabury said every district attorney in New York City was "a Tammany Hall district attorney," and that the Attorney General was "ultra-friendly" to Tammany Hall.

fore the State Pardon Board in September to give her son the right to support her.

From another widow news of Kelly's release brought silence. She was Mrs. James H. Neal, of 3720 Wapello street, widow of the messenger slain in the store holdup on June 10, 1921. She refused to comment on Kelly's freedom but a son said for her:

"Since Kelly has been released we might as well become resigned to it."

Mrs. Neal refused to agree to the parole, pointing out that the loss of her husband—his companionship and earnings—had seriously affected her and her children.

Kelly was one of two "sent up" for the holdup. The other, Rufus Costner, is still serving a 20-year sentence in Western Penitentiary. A third, Benjamin Stokes, is a fugitive, although false reports of his arrest in other countries crop up frequently.

The holdup occurred in front of the Boggs & Buhl store in Federal street. Shot down at close range, in sight of pedestrians, Neal's satchel containing $59,000 in cash and checks was snatched from his hands.

GOSSIP EDITORS QUIZZED IN RAID

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Editors and employes of two magazines devoted to society chat were quizzed in the State Attorney General's office today following a raid yesterday.

The publications are Town Topics and The Tatler and American Sketch. Methods of selling stock are under scrutiny and if the Attorney General is not satisfied with them it was said he might seek an injunction.

When the offices of the magazines were raided yesterday, subpenas were served on Augustus R. Keller, editor of Town Topics; Robert A. Davidson, president of the American Social Registry, Inc., of the same address; John C. Schemm, editor of the Tatler and American Sketch, and several others.

The Attorney General wanted to determine whether there was any connection between the sale of stock and the editorial attitude of the magazines to society people. Keller is under indictment on complaint of William Brown, vice president of the Radio Corporation of America. Brown says his refusal to buy stock in American Social Registry was followed by publication in Town Topics of a scandalous paragraph aimed at him, but he will not directly connect the two happenings.

Mackey Fires Head Of Apple Selling

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Col. Charles M. Keegan, chairman of Mayor Harry A. Mackey's committee to sell apples to unemployed fruit vendors, last night was relieved of his job after a four-hour hearing of complaints that he had charged the vendors extortionate prices.

Mayor Mackey, in notifying Keegan by letter of his removal, made clear, however, that no testimony was produced to impeach the committee chairman's honesty.

Two Girls Steal Santa's Toys From Church

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—They didn't believe in Santa Claus, so they took matters into their own hands.

Two little girls, 10 and 11, yesterday broke into a cottage in which a church had stored its Christmas toys for poor children and removed a large box of trinkets which Santa had planned to distribute.

They told officers their parents were poor, they didn't believe in Santa Claus and wanted a Christmas of their own. After they promised "never to do it again" they were sent home.

RAIL MEN UNITE TO FIGHT CUT

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Leaders of 1,500,000 organized railway workers met today to formulate a program of resistance to the movement for reduction of wages.

Announcement of this contemplated action established a precedent in the history of American railroads. It meant that for the first time the 21 standard railroad unions were preparing to unite on a campaign against any move which might be considered inimical to their interests.

The decision of the union chiefs to evolve a definite program was revealed by David R. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen who is presiding at the meeting. He said the union heads will frame plans to guide their respective organizations in the anticipated struggle to prevent the railroad companies from effecting their suggestion of a voluntary 10 per cent reduction in wages. In attendance at the session are 1,600 officers and general chairmen of the unions.

Despite the fact that the railroad companies have as yet made no formal demand for a 10 per cent voluntary wage reduction, such a demand is anticipated shortly, Robertson declared.

COUNCIL TELLS KLINE TO QUIT MEDDLING

Members Want Playground Appointments Taken Out Of Ward Boss Control

Mayor Kline was requested to keep "hands off" in the appointment of employes in the City Bureau of Recreation at a hectic session of Council sitting as the budget committee today.

In the heat of argument incidental to the action Councilman W. Y. English quit his seat as budget chairman, giving the post temporarily to Councilman Robert Garland.

Mrs. J. O. Miller, representing the Allegheny County League of Women Voters at the budget hearings, started the fireworks by declaring she had been informed two supervisors in the Bureau of Recreation worked only two hours a day. Supervisors are paid $2,700 a year.

NO APPOINTIVE POWER

Councilman Garland asked Supt. W. C. Batchelor, of the Recreation Bureau, whether employes were under civil service.

Batchelor replied:

"Only technically so. There is no appointive power vested directly in our bureau."

Ward chairmen are generally credited with obtaining jobs for favorites.

Garland asked:

"What happens when you suspend any employes? Are they ever put back?"

"Yes."

Garland moved and it was approved that Council ask the Mayor to give Public Works Director E. G. Lang and Supt. Batchelor complete supervision in making appointments in the recreation Bureau "without interference."

Councilman John S. Herron assailed Batchelor for not informing Council that there were employes who worked only two hours a day.

Garland retorted:

"If he had done so he probably would have lost his job."

A delegation of civic leaders asked that $5,800 for athletic equipment, toys and games for playgrounds in the Recreation Bureau be restored.

MEMBERS WRANGLE

An argument arose as to whether Council should take up the points made by each speaker individually or as a whole. Herron's remarks were taken by Chairman English as an attempt to heckle him. He snapped:

"I'm sick and tired of this. If you want to be chairman I'll get up and walk out."

Herron refused the proffer. English left his chair and it was taken by Garland.

Action on the request of the civic leaders to restore the appropriation was withheld. Among those urging such action were Warren I. Bickford, chairman of the recreation committee of the Civic League; Harry Bastow, president of the Allied Boards of Trade, and Horace F. Baker, of the Federation of Social Agencies.

CONSIDERING PROPOSALS

MISS MARY CLOWES

Miss Clowes, New Eagle's "Auction Bride," reading some of the 400 proposals she's received in reply to her offer of immediate marriage for $10,000.

'AUCTION' GIRL ASKS ROMANCE

Miss Mary Clowes, the New Eagle blonde who has offered to marry for $10,000 (not so modern of commercial after all) she revealed today that there's a bit of romance wanted and for the first time since she precipitated a deluge of husband-seeking girls with prices ranging from $5,000 to $15,000 she made known that the man who wins her hand must do so on his bended knee.

The Monongahela River Valley girl said, with one or two exceptions, none of the nearly 400 proposals from all parts of the United States has been answered.

The young woman who desires to devote her $10,000 to the comfort of her aged parents in their remaining years, has spurned two offers to cinema-land. She has, however, consented to confer with a motion picture producer Sunday.

The latest aspirant for the "auction bride" title, Miss Pauline Lango, 23, of 7038 Franks-town avenue, has set the top price—$15,000—for her hand. Virginia Mae Parker, of Perrysville, placed a valuation of $5,000, and Marguerite Lennon, of Beechview, seeks matrimony with a man who has $10,000.

JAPAN, CHINA ACCEPT LEAGUE COMPROMISE

Agree to Armistice With Reservations; Chinchow Shells Tokio War Planes

PARIS, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Japan and China today accepted the League of Nations resolution on the dispute in Manchuria.

Both acceptances were with reservations.

Kenkichi Yoshizawa reserved the Japanese right to take measures against the bandits in Manchuria. Dr. Alfred Sze stipulated that China reserved "any and all rights, remedies and juridical positions" to which it is entitled under the League covenant and under treaties to which it is a party. He said:

"China understands and expects that the commission of inquiry in Manchuria will make its first duty to inquire into and report with recommendations on the withdrawal of Japanese forces if such withdrawal has not been completed when the commission arrives on the ground."

Chinese Shell Tokio Planes at Chinchow

MUKDEN, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Chinese artillerymen at Chinchow opened fire today on Japanese airplanes which flew over the city, according to a communique issued by Japanese military headquarters here. One airplane was damaged by the gunfire, but no casualties occurred among the Japanese fliers.

Japanese authorities said airplanes operating from Mukden were engaged in reconnoitering the Chinchow area to determine the extent and disposition of Chinese forces.

Extensive Chinese troop movements between Chinchow and Mukden were reported. Fears were expressed that a serious clash between the Chinese and Japanese armies was inevitable.

The Chinese government at Nanking has issued a statement declaring Japanese cavalry are advancing west of the Liao River in Manchuria and the Japanese have appointed 19 Chinese regimental commanders to organize "lawless elements" to disturb Chinchow.

Ford Accepts Japanese Control in Manchuria

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service.

MUKDEN, Dec. 10.—Accepting the realities of the changed business situation in Manchuria since the Japanese invasion, the Ford Motor Car Company today replaced its Chinese agents here by Japanese. It was the first American corporation represented here to take such a step.

Temporary selection of a foreign manager for the Mukden field is possible for the meantime, but re-establishment of the Chinese Agency is extremely unlikely.

CHINESE RIOT IN WAR DEMAND

SHANGHAI, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Rioting by thousands of Chinese students calling for war with Japan resulted today in the dismissal of Police Chief Chen Shih Theng after the students seized the city hall and made threats of violence against Mayor Chang Chun.

Removal of the police chief was demanded by the students on the ground that he failed to maintain order and had caused the arrest of some of their colleagues. The mayor agreed to release the students from jail and to take steps against persons who had interferred with their demonstrations.

More than 5,000 students took part in the attack on the city hall after they had wrecked the Kuomintang headquarters and precipitated widespread rioting in the Chinese section of the city.

Mary Given Fame by Lamb Dies in England at 90

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Mary Hughes, who many years ago had a little lamb that followed her to school, has followed the little lamb in death.

Mary was 90 and old and blind and lame before she passed on at her home at Worthing. But she continued to tell her story of how she was the Mary whose little lamb in the nursery rhyme became known around the world to children of three or four generations.

The story of the verses, as she told it, was this:

"Miss Sarah Buel, later Mrs. Horatio Hale, noted American ethnologist, wrote the verses. Miss Buel was visiting with her two sisters at Ty Issa, in Vale Llangollen, North Wales, where my father, John Tomlinson, was a breeder of Welsh mountain sheep.

"I was always fond of lambs and when the mother sheep died sometimes my father would often give me an orphaned lamb to keep as a pet. Sometimes I had a dozen of them and they would follow me around the farm and down the road when I went to meet the postman.

"One day, when I was 8, my oldest pet, Billy, followed me to the village school where he romped about, jumping over the desk and refusing to behave. He disturbed the school so much the teacher, Miss Coward, turned him out the door.

"Miss Sarah wrote the verses there and then. Later she married Mr. Hale and after she died her son wrote to an American newspaper in 1889 saying she was the author of the verses. I have no quarrel with my American friends, but the incident happened as I have described and not, as some Americans claim, in America."

Starr Faithfull Death Leap Kept Secret by Witness

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Secret investigation of the mysterious death of Starr Faithfull by the Nassau County District Attorney's office has revealed that the madcap beauty committed suicide by jumping from an ocean liner on the morning of June 6.

Assistant District Attorney Martin W. Littleton, Jr., has interviewed an eye-witness to her suicide. The witness was a member of the crew of a vessel on which Starr stowed away on the night of June 5.

He told Littleton that he had seen the frail figure of the girl creep to the rail of the ship when it was only a few hours at sea, climb up and leap overboard.

For a moment the man was so horrified that he could not spread the alarm. When he recovered his wits the vessel was forging steadily on through the darkness of early morning and he knew it was too late to attempt a rescue.

He reported the pre-dawn tragedy to his superior officer. Whether the incident was entered on the ship's log has not yet been determined, but at any rate no radio report of the suicide was sent out from the ship.

By the time the vessel arrived in Europe the unfortunate girl's body had been tossed up by the waves on the shores of Long Beach and her death was the mystery of the hour.

One of the officers of a competing steamship line was receiving columns of unfavorable publicity because of his friendship with the Greenwich Village play girl and the witness to her suicide was instructed to hold his tongue.

JANE ADDAMS AND DR. BUTLER WIN NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

SOCIAL WORKER GETS NEWS IN HOSPITAL

To Give Women's League Her Share of $40,000; Ceremonies Set in Oslo

International News Service.

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 10.—The Nobel peace prize for 1931 was awarded jointly today to two Americans, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and Miss Jane Addams, Chicago social worker.

United States Minister Hoffman Philip accepted the prizes on behalf of the American recipients in ceremonies attended by King Vaakon VII and Crown Prince Olav.

Announcement of the awards were made before a large audience at the Nobel Institute by Prof. Halvdan Koht, member of the Norwegian Parliament and historian of the Nobel committee.

RECIPIENTS LANDED

Dr. Butler and Miss Addams were described by Prof. Koht as "two representatives of American idealism." He said that Miss Addams was also a "representative of the great peace work done by women during the past decade," and praised her social work in Chicago.

Attention was also called to Dr. Butler's activities in connection with the Carnegie peace organization and his preparatory work leading to the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact. Dr. Butler was recommended for the peace prize, Prof. Koht said, by Sir Austen Chamberlain and Elihu Root, both winners of previous prizes.

Discussing American peace efforts in general, Prof. Koht said:

"To an American an ideal is a practical reality, and he believes it is duty to realize it."

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Miss Jane Addams was informed of the award in Baltimore, where she lay ill in Johns Hopkins Hospital. She declared she would give her share of the money to the Women's International League for Peace. She said:

"For more than 15 years the women of America have worked for peace. Our ideas spread abroad until now there are International League branches in 26 countries.

"Thousands of women in America and abroad have worked unceasingly in the interests of peace, and I know they will be happy to learn that two Americans—a man and a woman—have been honored by receiving the peace award."

WOULD PLEASE CARNEGIE

Dr. Butler said:

"It would indeed gratify Mr. Carnegie could he know that two of the intimate friends whom he selected to serve as trustees of that portion of his fortune which he devoted to the cause nearest his heart, the establishment and preservation of the peace of the world, had been thought worthy of this most distinguished honor."

The prize was established by Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite and gun-cotton, who built up an immense fortune from the sale of munitions.

Americans upon whom the award was bestowed previously are Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Root, Woodrow Wilson, Charles G. Dawes and Frank B. Kellogg.

WEST VA. MOB LYNCHES TWO PRISONERS

Murder Suspects Taken From Jail, Hanged to Pole; Bodies Riddled

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Two Negroes were taken from the Greenbrier County jail here early today and lynched by an organized mob of about 60 men.

They were hanged, almost nude, from the cross arm of a telephone pole on the Midland trail, and then, before death could come by strangulation, volley after volley of shots were fired into their bodies.

The two, Tom Jackson, 25, and George Banks, 27, had been arrested November 22, at Leslie, W. Va., in connection with the killing of Constable Joseph Myles and Jack Brown, a companion, who had gone to a Negro dance at Leslie to order the dancers to be more quiet. They had left the dance hall when they were shot down with a shotgun. Myles died instantly, but Brown lived for a short time.

State police were directed today by Gov. Conley to make "a very thorough investigation" of the lynching. In this state lynching is a capital crime.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Incomplete records available here today showed there have been five previous lynchings in West Virginia since the state was founded in 1863.

Heavy Tax Cuts British Beer Sales

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—The big decrease in beer-drinking in Great Britain since the tax was increased two cents a pint was revealed today when the Treasury announced the tax, which was expected to yield $2,625,000 monthly, was bringing in only $175,000.

'Ideal College Girl' Latest To Vanish in Mystery

BURLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 10.—(INS.)—While the hand of mystery was writing the third chapter in a story of missing New England college girls, search was widened today in an attempt to locate Miss Esther Pitts, 20-year-old University of Vermont co-ed, known as "the ideal college girl."

Miss Pitts was the central figure in an article on the "Ideal College Girl," written for a recent issue of a Christian Endeavor magazine by the Rev. A. Ritchie Lowe, of Colchester. The Vermont minister in his article, "The College Freshman," extolled the college girl who did not drink, smoke or "pet." He admitted today he had Miss Pitts in mind when he wrote the article.

Meanwhile, the unemployed of this city were being marshalled by Sidney F. Hinsdale, retired farmer, to aid in the search. Although he does not know either the girl or her parents, Hinsdale offered a reward for finding her or for information leading to her discovery.

E. B. Pitts, of Colchester, father of the girl, Lester B. Peck, her sweetheart, and private detectives engaged by University of Vermont, were also aiding police in the hunt for the vanished co-ed.

Dennis, freight trainmaster, said 76 of the 88 loaded cars and the huge locomotive left the track. The wreckage was scattered more than 900 feet, all four tracks were torn up and blocked, and crack trains made hours late when forced over long detours.

One westbound track was opened at 9:15 a. m. The others would not be cleared until tonight, officials said.

AID DISPATCHED

Wrecking trains were hurried to the scene from Altoona, Pittsburgh and other points. Among officials who boarded them were I. B. Sinclair, of Pittsburgh, superintendent of the Pittsburgh division; R. L. Chaney, of Galitzen, supervisor of tracks; James B. Phalan, of Altoona, superintendent of the middle division, and Edward Long, assistant road foreman.

Passenger trains tied up on both sides of the wreck were detoured over the New Portage cutoff to Hollidaysburg. The occupants were transferred to buses and carried to Altoona, where they boarded special trains for the East. Westbound passengers were transferred in the same manner.

Passenger traffic from the East through Pittsburgh was demoralized for several hours last night and early today by the wreck which blocked the trains west of Altoona. Detours were made from Altoona around the wreck via the freight line through Hollidaysburg.

Film Actor Faces Flying Field Quiz

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Ken Maynard, motion picture cowboy and amateur aviator, was cited yesterday to appear December 15 and explain a municipal airport complaint that he landed his plane there Saturday and refused to sign the register or give information required by ordinance.

R. B. Barnitz, manager of the airport, told Prosecutor Edward Kelly that Maynard said he "couldn't be bothered."

Finding of Skeletons Clears Ship Mystery

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The mystery of three missing men, who disappeared when the French barque Richlieu was blown up and sunk in the Baltimore harbor in 1927, was cleared yesterday with the finding of two skeletons imbedded in hardened pitch in the hold.

Workmen scraping the ship, which was raised more than a year ago, found the skeletons. Last year one body was found, and the two located yesterday accounted for all on board the training ship when she sank.

Two Holdup Men Given Long Terms

James Mason, 29, and Edward Douglas, 24, Arcena street Negroes, today began serving penitentiary sentences of 15 to 30 and 12 to 24 years, respectively, imposed by Judge Harry H. Rowand in Criminal Court, after they had pleaded guilty to three chain store robberies. They are to be tried later on eight other charges. They admitted using revolvers in their holdups, which caused Judge Rowand to remark:

Mob in Chile Bombards Congress With Onions

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—A mob "lobbied" the Chilean Congress last night with dried fish and a Mulligan stew bombardment of onions, other vegetables and crockery.

Unsuccessful in forcing the Congress to dissolve as they demanded, the mob retreated into the streets, stoned and wrecked street cars and store windows and had begun to lay down a barrage of pistol fire when the streets were cleared by a rush of 1,000 policemen.

Several persons were injured and 20 were arrested.

The mob was driven away from its assault on the Congress Hall by a charge of 500 mounted carabineers who surrounded the building after the protesters stormed it.

WOMAN GIVES BRIDGE WAR ANALYSIS

Mrs. Culberston Confident; Lenz-Jacoby Lead Laid To Higher Card Strength

This is another in the series of articles which Mrs. Ely Culbertson, noted bridge expert, is writing for International News Service on the bridge match being played by Mrs. Culbertson and her husband, Ely Culbertson, originators of the approach-forcing system of contract bidding, against Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby. In this article, Mrs. Culbertson gives an analysis of the cards played to date. With Lenz and Jacoby in the lead, the match will be resumed tonight.

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

(Copyright, 1931, by International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—I took advantage of the first pause in the bridge battle of 1,001 hands, in which my husband and I are engaged in a contest with Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby testing the respective merits of the approach-forcing and official systems of contract bidding, to attend the theater last night.

The play was interesting and I enjoyed the change of scene, but many times my mind wandered to the bridge table, analyzing the hands. So much so that after the theater, I stopped at the Cavendish for a few rubbers of bridge.

I have just completed analysis of the cards held in the first 10 rubbers which, by the way, required 59 hands. I find that in these rubbers we held, all told, 114 aces as against 122 held by our opponents. Peculiarly enough, the statistics revealed that in the 59 hands thus far held each side has held 118 kings. These figures are in a measure significant of the drop of the cards.

HONOR DIVISION

For instance, Tuesday night we held 74 aces and 73 kings, while Lenz and Jacoby held 70 aces and 71 kings. The difference in score on that evening was 360 points, which was accounted for by the fact that our opponents bid and made a slam. On the first evening of play Lenz and Jacoby had a marked preponderance of the aces, holding 52 to our 40, and 47 kings to our 45. We were fortunate indeed to escape with a defeat of only 1,715 points in view of this missing of the high honors in their hands.

Another study of the honor strength held in the hand is interesting. As most readers know, the generally accepted standard of valuing a hand for an opening bid, an overcall or raise, is the Culbertson standard table of honor-tricks, which is as follows:

("x" means low card.)

½ TRICK	1 TRICK
Any king x	Any ace
Any queen jack x	Any king jack x
Any queen x and jack x in two suits	Any king x and queen x in two suits
1½ TRICKS	2 TRICKS
Any ace queen, ace jack 10 or king queen 10	Any ace king

VALUATION METHOD

This has been called by many players, some of whom do not accept all the principles of the approach-forcing system, as the indispensable yardstick for the valuation of a hand. The use of this yardstick reveals the following facts:

Rubber No. 1—Lenz-Jacoby, 41½ honor tricks; Culbertson, 28½. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 920 points.

Rubber No. 2—Lenz-Jacoby, 15; Culbertson, 40½. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 690 points.

Rubber No. 3—Lenz-Jacoby, 48; Culbertson, 30. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 105 points. (On first hand of this rubber we took a set of 1,000 points to stop a grand slam.)

Rubber 4—Lenz-Jacoby, 15; Culbertson, 18. Rubber won by Culbertson with net score of 935 points.

Rubber 5—Lenz-Jacoby, 28; Culbertson, 30. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 455 points.

Rubber 7—Lenz-Jacoby, 13; Culbertson, 4. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 1,045 points.

Rubber 8—Lenz-Jacoby, 47; Culbertson, 47. Rubber won by Lenz with net score of 530 points.

Rubber 9—Lenz-Jacoby, 5; Culbertson, 12½. Rubber won by Culbertson with net score of 1,055.

CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

Play will be resumed this evening. So great is my confidence in the superiority of the approach-forcing system of bidding that I feel we will have no difficulty in overcoming the slight lead now held by our opponents.

The average value of a contract rubber is 930 points. Thus far we have won three rubbers, while Lenz and Jacoby have won seven. The net difference in the score is 2,075, which makes the value of the rubbers which we have won slightly less than 520 points.

I am quite convinced that when the balance of honor-tricks and aces and kings swings to our side that we can make the influence of these honors felt in the score.

POWERS WILTS UNDER ATTACK OF STATE

PLEADS WITH JURY

The defendant, during the most dramatic moment of the prosecution's case, much of the composure which Defense Attorney C. Ed Law exhibited during the afternoon vanished as he pleaded with

"Gentlemen, in God's name—in the name of honest justice—I plead with you to free your minds of any prejudices or opinions you may have and listen to the evidence presented here. There is no evidence that the defendant ever committed this heinous crime."

"There is another witness in this case—one we cannot see but whose presence and insidious voice and influence can be felt all around. This witness is public sentiment—don't let it sway you from justice."

The veteran and gracious Mr. Law's voice quavered as he berated newspapers for the city charging

"They have been filled with an overwhelming collection of truths and untruths."

It was quite apparent that Law has not changed the opinion which led him to ask that the trial be shifted to another county, for his belief that Powers cannot be given a fair and impartial trial here.

His theory was substantiated in the crowd which packed the opera house at least

TROOPERS ALERT

More than 1,200 persons jammed the theater-court again today, filling every seat in the auditorium and crowding into the theater pit, where seats are reserved for the scores of newspapermen.

State troopers marched down the aisles, service revolvers on hips, eyeing a crowd which made no concealment of its belief that "something will happen to Powers" if he is acquitted.

The stodgy Powers was his usual unperturbed gum-chewing self when he entered court this morning. Under the bitter arraignment from Assistant Prosecutor Strathers he squirmed, tapped his feet nervously on the supports of his swivel chair and ran his fingers nervously through his hair until when he quit the courtroom for the noon recess, he was a bedraggled and sorry figure.

MURMURS OF VIOLENCE

In the meantime, murmurs of the great crowd assembled in the streets before the opera house came faintly to the courtroom. It was a mob of more uneven temper than that of 1,200 within the theater, and the guard of state troopers outside the building was augmented shortly after noon.

The hundreds within the theater strained forward in the seats as Strathers launched his censorious argument against Powers by saying:

"Gentlemen, you have listened to the most sordid murder case in the history of the state and probably in the entire country.

"When you have finished your deliberations, Harry F. Powers, the defendant, either will stand acquitted or he will be found guilty of one of the most heinious crimes in history.

"This crime was not an ordinary one—the killer did not murder in the heat of passion—he did not kill to protect his honor nor his home.

"He killed for the lust of money—for profit."

His voice rising higher in heat of impassioned plea, Strathers pointed his clenched fist at Powers and shouted:

"This man is either guilty of murder in the first degree or he should go free.

"I think there is no question about the degree."

FIVE VERDICTS POSSIBLE

Judge John C. Southern previously had instructed the jury that a first-degree verdict means death by hanging unless a recommendation for clemency accompanies it. He told the jurors that there were four other possible verdicts: second degree murder, voluntary manslaughter, involuntary manslaughter and not guilty.

Throughout Strathers' vitriolic argument Powers sat half turned toward the jury, his face tense and his feet tapping nervously at his chair's legs.

His hair, smoothly brushed at the start of court, was mussed and straggly when the noon recess came with the prosecutor only partly finished with his denunciation.

Law, the defense attorney, nervously toyed with a pencil. He shoved his eye-glasses far down on the bridge of his nose. Now and then he leaned back in his chair, running long fingers through his stiff gray hair as the squeak of his swivel chair was audible in the pauses of Strathers' fervid oratory.

SCORED FOR WEEPING

Strathers again shook his fist toward the defendant as he continued:

"He is that breed of human, if one can call him such, that preys on middle-aged women.

"And I can show you where he has testified falsely in many instances."

Summing up his argument, Strathers thundered:

"This man is no ordinary criminal. Look at him. Do you remember how he wept when he told of his 'troubles' at home?

"Yes, he wept when he thought of his troubles—but what did he do when the death noose and Mrs. Lemke's graveyard dress were exhibited before him?

"You saw his smirk—his oily superior smile. He was not moved to tears only when he wanted to turn them on for your benefit."

QUICK VERDICT SEEN

With the arguments starting at 11:15 a. m. and limited to 1 hour and 15 minutes for each side, the case was scheduled to reach the jury by mid-afternoon.

A quick verdict was anticipated.

If convicted, Powers can carry his case to the Circuit Court by filing an appeal within 30 days after the verdict.

Two brief notes, addressed to "Dear Connie" and signed "Dorothy," and conflicting testimony of witnesses as to the weather on the night of July 31, when they, according to earlier testimony, had seen Powers and a woman on a lonely country road, were the center of a bitter battle as court opened this morning.

Through a bitter cross-examination yesterday and by half a dozen rebuttal witnesses today, the prosecution sought to show that the notes are forgeries and that "Cecil Johnson" and "Charles Rogers," unapprehended mystery men of the case to whom Powers seeks to shift blame for Mrs. Lemke's death, are characters founded only in his imagination.

CROWD HOSTILE

Charles Flemming, Mrs. Lemke's brother-in-law, was the first witness called this morning as the trial started its fourth day.

He gave his testimony before a crowd quite obviously hostile to the defendant.

Frequently murmurings have been heard in the audience, according to the state troopers who stand guard in the theater aisles, that "something's going to be done" if the jury acquits Powers.

Fleming testified the writing in the notes was not that of his sister. Then, under questioning from J. Ed Law, Powers' attorney, he admitted a resemblance between the signatures of the notes and those on checks written by Mrs. Lemke.

Powers won his first minor victory this morning as Law sought to contradict witnesses who had told of seeing Powers on the night of July 31—some of them saying he was accompanied by a woman.

BANDIT SHOOTS TWO DOCTORS

A Glendale physician and a dentist who battled a holdup man are recovering today from bullet wounds inflicted by the robber as county detectives search for the gunman.

Dr. C. E. Herman, dressed a bullet wound in his thigh after he had cauterized a similar wound in the leg of Dr. Earl DePoe, a dentist of 203 Caruthers avenue, who had rushed to Dr. Herman's assistance as the latter battled the holdup man in his office, 27 Hill street, Glendale, last evening.

As Dr. Herman opened the door of his inner office to let a patient out, a man who had been loitering in the waiting room entered with a gun in hand. Immediately the battle began and the physician swapped punches with the robber. In the struggle the gun was discharged, the bullet ripping through the physician's thigh and lodging in the leg of Dr. DePoe, who had just arrived. The man fled.

LONDON WRITER HOLDS POWERS' FATE SEALED

Sees Violence by Enraged Populace If Jury Frees 'Bluebeard' of Murder

Margaret Lane, star feature writer of the London Express and guest writer for International News Service, accustomed to the calm, deliberate movement of the English courts, in the following story gives her vivid picture of 'Bluebeard' Harry Powers' murder trial.

By MARGARET LANE
International News Service.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 10.—Excitement runs so high in Clarksburg over the closing scenes of the "Bluebeard" trial taht if the jury does not return the expected verdict today Moore's Opera House is liable to be a rough house, and the crowds troublesome in their anxiety for a fitting gallows curtain to their melodrama.

Perhaps never in the history of crime has a community so violently, so determindedly, demanded a life for a life. A policeman said:

"If they acquitted him today, we wouldn't be able to get him out of the town alive."

When Powers was lodged in the local jail, the prisoners were more violently against him than the town. The prison authorities were afraid to let him exercise with the other prisoners and he was kept practically in solitary confinement to protect him from their rough justice.

GARAGE FANS WRATH

Thirty-five thousand people visited the Quiet Dell murder farm on the first Sunday after the crime was discovered—an amazing number for this section of West Virginia. Ever since that time the mud road to Quiet Dell has been churned up by pleasure traffic. Hundreds of thousands have gone down into the four underground death cells of the "garage" to fan their righteous indignation.

A crowd gathered, muttering around the jail one night and had to be dispersed by the police with tear-gas bombs. Now, when Powers arrives each morning at the opera house the crowd hisses him and there are cries of "get him" as the police hustle him into the building.

Every successive stage in the progress of the trial has made it clearer that his fate is doubly and trebly sealed.

The audience has laughed in Powers' face when he told his own rambling story of defense, and they have leaned forward in tense excitement and all but cheered when some particularly damning piece of evidence has been given against him.

Powers is being sent to his death not so much by direct evidence as by the rage of thousands who believe, before it is proved, the story of his crimes. In any other case, no just man could listen to this trial without feeling sympathy for the stout, respectable-looking little man on the stand, but not in the case of Powers. His crimes—and there seems no loophole of escape from belief in them—are too horrible to consider sanely.

SCENE FOR MURDER

I went out late last night to the murder farm at Quiet Dell. The fields were dark and deserted. It was not a pleasant place to be. The "garage" stood open to the field, for the mob has torn down its doors. Inside was the gaping trap-door leading down to the lightless, airless cells that Powers had had built below the floor—each equipped with a door that locked and a mysterious gas jet.

There were bloodstains on the ceiling of one of the cells where the two women and three children had died. It is a remote, lonely place, where no one would hear their cries from underground. The wind was blowing through the broken wall over the open ditch grave outside in the dark. It is a place where a hundred murders might be committed, a hundred bodies destroyed, and no one be any the wiser.

I shivered and hurried up the cellar stairs under the beam where the noose hung over the trap, and was glad of the lights of my car shining into the dark place.

Justice or no justice, it is possible to understand the fury of the Clarksburg mob that will not be satisfied until Powers is sentenced to death or hanged from a rope by their own hands.

VETERANS' FUND EXHAUSTED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Veterans' loans outstanding will reach approximately $1,500,000,000 by June 30, it was estimated today.

Figures on November 31, showed that loans to veterans under the old and new provisions of the law amounted to 1,299,216,000 with 2,291,722 veterans receiving advances.

In his budget message, President Hoover said an additional $200,000,000 would be required for the "bonus" fund to meet the requirements for the fiscal year.

The adjusted compensation fund virtually has become exhausted as a result of the 50 per cent loan provisions of the amendment of last February.

Mexico Raises Ban on Shrine Broadcast

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Secretary of Interior Manuel C. Tellez has granted permission for radio broadcasting of the music from gigantic pipe organs in the basilica of Guadalupe during the religious anniversary festivities this week.

One of the pipe organs is said to be the largest in the world. The secretary specified that the broadcast be confined to the music, in compliance with Mexico's religious law restrictions.

It was estimated 300,000 persons visited the shrine of Guadalupe today. City authorities estimated there are 198,000 outsiders in Mexico City for a celebration, which reaches its height December 12.

SLAYER DENIES TRADING WIVES

MANSFIELD, O., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Henry Schwartz, 34, will be sentenced to one to 20 years in the state penitentiary for slaying the man with whom he was alleged to have exchanged wives.

The sentence was made mandatory when a jury shortly before midnight convicted Schwartz of manslaughter for shooting Paul W. Smith, 26, to death last October 18.

Schwartz heard the verdict calmly. Near him sat his wife, over whom he and Smith were alleged to have quarreled, and Alvina Smith, widow of the slain man. The state had demanded that Schwartz pay with his life for firing a shotgun at Smith as the latter emerged from the Schwartz home. The two men, it was charged prior to the trial, had agreed to trade their wives.

LAWYER LOSES $4,000 BAIL

Attorney Robert H. Leitch, of the Park Building, forfeited $4,000 bond in Criminal Court when he failed to appear to stand trial on two charges of embezzlement by agent. Judge James H. Gray ordered the bond of $2,000 in each case forfeited.

Leitch was indicted by the last grand jury and his case had been set for trial last week. He went into court then, asked a week in which to make restitution, and was granted a postponement. In one indictment he is charged with embezzling $1,164 from Elizabeth Postler, of 3200 Mitchell street, and in the other with embezzling $1,164 from Harry Graff, of 110 Wabash avenue.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park said if Leitch has not left the country he would be brought to trial.

TAX PROGRAM FACES DEFEAT IN CONGRESS

Democrats and Insurgents Unite to Beat Hoover And Mellon Proposals

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—The Hoover-Mellon tax program appeared doomed today, even before Congress has formally considered it.

Democrats and Insurgents in control of the House and Senate prepared to draft a rival program for financing the government and meeting the deficit.

The President's suggestions, ranging from a wholesale increase in income taxes to the imposition of miscellaneous taxes, developed so much opposition that few administration leaders hoped for their adoption. With the Democrats and Insurgents in control, it seemed certain that the President's program would be defeated and a substitute program written by the combined opposition.

PLANS OPPOSED

Three of the President's suggestions met with almost universal opposition. These were the retroactive feature of the income tax increase, the plan to balance the budget in two years and the proposal to reduce the amount of tax exemptions from income taxes.

The Democrats, who will commission their new policy committee of House and Senate leaders to draft a tax program, want to apply income tax increases to incomes earned next year, instead of those earned in 1931. They want to extend the balancing of the budget over three or four years, instead of the proposed two-year period. They want to save the impoverished classes of citizens from all taxes.

The Insurgents objected to any reduction in income tax exemptions. They also demanded the increase be levied principally against the rich. They joined the Democrats in opposing some of the miscellaneous taxes suggested by the President.

BOND ISSUE PLAN

The Democrats were reluctant to discuss their rival program, pending a meeting of the new policy committee. It was thought they would favor a bond issue for meeting this year's deficit, postponement of all debt retirement payments for a few years, limitation of income tax increases to incomes earned next year, imposing a few miscellaneous taxes and a total tax increase plan to balance the budget in three or four years.

Senator Norris (R.), of Nebraska, the Insurgent leader, said:

"We will oppose any reduction in income tax exemptions. We will have a tax increase program of our own, featuring two things—increased taxes on big incomes of individuals and increased taxes on huge estates. There will be a good deal of opposition to some of the proposed 'nuisance' taxes."

Tydings Bill Asks National Art Board

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(AP.)—Senator Tydings, who's well brushed up on such subjects, wants Congress to do something for American art.

The Marylander, who is a painter among other things, has submitted a bill to establish a national painting and sculpture board, with an annual competition for American painters and sculptors.

Congress Opens Battle Against Debt Extension

...a scant prospect. [illegible] the Senate debate, either, as Senator Johnson, Rep., of California, has served notice of his intention of opposing indefinite extension of the debt holiday. Speaking of further extension of the debts, Senator Borah said:

"I was in favor of the one-year moratorium. I thought it would give Europe an opportunity to adjust its economic affairs and get on a more sound basis. I am opposed to any further extension."

Borah, [illegible] was one of the [illegible] who [illegible] with the United States. He referred to the Geneva disarmament parley last month. He has frequently declared Europe must disarm before she can recast economic prosperity.

The Democrats also voiced opposition to the moratorium extension.

Senator Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, declared he would oppose even the one-year extension. He said:

"I am opposed to the one-year moratorium or any further extension of debt payments, first, because it's saddling on the American taxpayer a huge burden while favoring a special class who hold foreign bonds and investments; second, it is the beginning of visible cancellation of the debts. The President in his message initiates cancellation."

ATTACK IN HOUSE

The moratorium was sharply attacked from the floor of the House by Representative Rankin (Dem.), of Mississippi, as the forerunner of cancellation.

Declaring that one of the biggest fights during the present session would be on "reduction of the debt settlements or cancellation," Rankin charged that "the international bankers" were attempting to transfer to the taxpayers the financial burdens of Europe, he said.

"We have all the burdens we can bear now without assuming the debts of Europe."

Rankin declared it had been understood for 10 years that foreign debts had "nothing to do with reparations," He said:

"Now the international bankers are behind a movement for foreign debt cancellation."

Rankin turned from the moratorium to the tariff. He asserted:

"If President Hoover wants to stop hard times, why doesn't he send up a message to revise the tariff so the channels of trade won't be clogged up?"

Under a counter attack by Representative Simmons (Rep.), of Nebraska, Rankin said he favored reduction of the "whole tariff schedule" until the credit of the world was re-established.

Simmons asked if Rankin favored reduction of the tariff on wheat. Rankin stated:

"Wheat! You have ruined the wheat farmer already with your 42 cents tax. In Nebraska your wheat was 10 cents a bushel lower than in Canada despite the tax."

HOOVER URGES FURTHER DEBT REDUCTIONS

President Sends Message on Foreign Affairs; Asks Action on Moratorium

The President said:

"As we approach the new year, it is clear that a number of the governments indebted to us will be unable to meet further payments to us in full pending recovery of their economic life. It is useless to blind ourselves to an obvious fact. Therefore, it will be necessary in some cases to make still further temporary adjustments.

"The Congress has shared with the Executive in the past the consideration of questions arising from these debts. I am sure it will commend itself to the Congress, that the legislative branch of the government should continue to share this responsibility.

"In order that we should be in a position to deal with the situation, I recommend the re-creation of the World War Debt Commission, with authority to examine such problems as may arise in connection with these debts during the present economic emergency, and to report to the Congress its conclusions and recommendations."

OMNIBUS MESSAGE

Only a part of the President's message dealt with international debts. It was an omnibus message concerning foreign relations generally, and in the course of it he reported this government's concern over the Manchurian situation, renewed his recommendation for American adherence to the World Court, reported that negotiations were in progress with Canada for construction of the St. Lawrence waterway, stressed the need for further disarmament, informed the Congress of the Laval and Grandi visits, and took up various minor matters affecting Latin-American relations.

Chief interest, however, centered almost entirely in the recommendations concerning the European debts, for on this question congressional sentiment in the past has been strongly in favor of exacting full payment under agreements already existing.

In recognition of this sentiment, Mr. Hoover phrased his recommendations most carefully.

His reference to the visit of Premier Laval, of France, in October, during which it was authoritatively stated that an understanding had been reached that Europe's debts to the United States would be scaled down commensurately with the reduction granted Germany in reparations, was most casual.

LAVAL'S VISIT

Concerning Laval's visit, Mr. Hoover said "the informal and cordial conversations served to bring into relief the respective positions of the two nations."

Describing the joint visits of the French and Italian statesmen, he said they "have brought about valuable understanding of the nature of the problems confronting different governments which should aid in their solution."

The whole subject of the Laval-Grandi visits was disposed of in three paragraphs of little more than 100 words.

Recalling that the foreign debt payments are due at the Treasury December 15, the President said:

"It is highly desirable that a law should be enacted before that date authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, to postpone all payments due us . . . during the year ending June 30, 1932, and to provide for their repayment over a 10-year period, beginning July 1, 1933."

Although Mr. Hoover made no mention of an extension of the moratorium beyond next June, there is little doubt felt here that it will have to be extended. Even with the moratorium, Germany is tottering on the brink of economic collapse, and Great Britain is in serious difficulties.

MANCHURIAN POLICY

The President defended the administration's course in the Manchurian situation, over which, he said, "we have been deeply concerned." He declared: . . . . . .

"As parties to the Kellogg-Briand pact and to the nine-power treaty, we have a responsibility in maintaining the integrity of China and a direct interest with other nations in maintaining peace here.

"When this controversy, originated in September, the League of Nations was in session and China appealed to the council of that body, which at once undertook measures of conciliation between China and Japan. Both China and Japan have participated in these proceedings before the council ever since. Under the Kellogg-Briand pact all of the signatories, including China and Japan, have covenanted to seek none but pacific means in the settlement of their disputes. Thus the ultimate purpose of proceedings under this section of the Kellogg-Briand pact and of conciliation proceedings by the League covenant coincide.

"It seemed, therefore, both wise and appropriate rather to aid and advise with the League and thus have unity of world effort to maintain peace than to take independent action. In all negotiations, however, the department of state has maintained complete freedom of judgment and action as to participation in any measures which the League might finally be determined upon.

"Immediately after the outbreak of the trouble this government advised both Japan and China of its serious interest. Subsequently, it communicated its views to both governments regarding their obligations under the Kellogg-Briand pact. In this action we were joined by other nations signatory of the pact. This government has consistently and repeatedly by diplomatic representations indicated its unremitting solicitude that these treaty obligations be respected.

"In the recurring efforts of the nations to bring about a peaceful settlement this government has realized that the exercise of the utmost patience was desirable, and it is believed that public opinion in this country has appreciated the wisdom of this restraint.

"At present a resolution is pending before the meeting at Paris, with hopes of passage, under which Japan and China will agree to take no initiative which might lead to renewed conflict; in which Japan has reiterated its intention to withdraw the Japanese troops to the railway zone as soon as lives and property of Japanese Nationals in Manchuria can be adequately protected; and under which both nations agree to a neutral commission to meet on the ground, to which commission all matters in dispute can be referred for investigation and report."

WORLD COURT

The President devoted only a paragraph to the World Court, which promises to provide a protracted struggle in the present session.

He recalled that he had submitted the protocols last session. He said:

"Upon that occasion I expressed my views fully, not only of the wisdom of such action (American adherence), but that the safeguards against European entanglements stipulated for by the Senate had been in effect secured and the interests of the United States protected. I need not repeat that for over 12 years every President and every Secretary of State has urged this action as a material contribution to the pacific settlement of controversies arising among nations and a further assurance against war."

Other foreign matters reported by the President were:

St. Lawrence Waterway—"I am hopeful an agreement may result within a reasonable time enabling us to begin work on this great project, which will be of much importance economically to Canada and the United States."

Haiti—"Substantial progress has been made in carrying out the program for withdrawal of our activities in Haiti recommended by the commission which made an investigation of Haitian affairs in 1930."

Coal Men Discuss Consolidating Sales

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 10—(AP.)—Invested capital aggregating several hundred million dollars was represented here today at a conference of operators and coal wholesalers of West Virginia, Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee looking toward further steps to stabilize the bituminous coal industry.

Philadelphians Plan Tax Protest Parade

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10—(AP.)—Taxpayers indignant over a threatened 35½ cent increase in the municipal levy prepared to march on City Hall today to repeat on its historic plaza a protest demonstration he'd two nights ago in Broad street. The route of citizens who stormed City Hall in 1905 to halt a notorious "gas steal" will be followed by the marchers today.

From Councilmen, meanwhile, came no indication that they intended to reduce the tentative $101,000,000 budget and its attendant tax rate of $3.13 per $100 assessed valuation, the highest ever imposed.

NAME FARMERS ON DRAPER JURY

IDABEL, Okla., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Twelve McCurtain County farmers who seldom read the newspapers will sit in judgment of Charles Draper, 21, charged with killing Vernon and a boy in Dan Moore's home near Ultima Thule, Ark., last October.

The jury was completed late yesterday after three days spent questioning more than 150 veniremen in an effort to find 12 who had not formed opinions from newspaper accounts of the killings of E. S. Chappell, of Smithdale, Ark., Eugene Harris, of Antlers, Okla., and Jack O'Dell, Jr., who lived near Idabel.

Draper nodded his shaggy head when asked if he was satisfied with the jury. Draper's hair hasn't known a barber's shears in weeks. Not since the day of his arrest has he shaved although he shaved daily before. He smokes cigarets incessantly during the selection of the jury.

HEARST MERGES COAST PAPERS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10 (INS.)—Announcement was printed in the Los Angeles Evening Herald yesterday that Paul Block, publisher of the Los Angeles Evening Express and other newspapers throughout the United States, had sold the Express to William Randolph Hearst and Dr. Frank F. Braham, publishers of the Los Angeles Evening Herald. The Herald is one of the Hearst newspapers.

Dual statements were published by the Herald. One signed by Mr. Block said:

"I have sold the Evening Express to Mr. William Randolph Hearst and his associate, Frank F. Braham. I extend to the new owners my sincere wishes that they will make a great success in the plans they have for this newspaper.

"The circulation growth of the Express is one of the outstanding experiences of my newspaper career. In less than one year it has gained about 50,000 copies daily, reaching a total circulation of over 140,000 per day."

Mr. Hearst said:

"Mr. Block has made a fine newspaper of the Express and its circulation growth has been phenomenal. We are therefore proud to take over this property and combine it with the Evening Herald. I believe through this consolidation that the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express will be one of the greatest evening newspapers of the country."

By Mark Hellinger

The Meanest Man of All

THIS IS THE STORY of the meanest man in the world. Indeed, so low is the individual in question that the yarn is hard to believe. Yet I have a famous doctor and a municipal magistrate to back me up in my assertion that the story is only too true. And if it doesn't cause you to wonder how a man can get that way, I'm going completely haywire in my judgment of material.

Every once in so often I find myself growing soft. By that I mean that I listen to notorious crooks and liars and actually believe the stories of injustice that they tell. Then suddenly such a tale as this comes along. And boom! Hellinger is back to himself once again.

The story begins in a private hospital in the City of New York. The physician owner—one of the world's greatest specialists in diseases of the ear—was sitting in his office one afternoon when a nurse told him a woman had to see him on a matter of the utmost importance. He went down stairs to find the usual thing.

It was a mother and a baby. The child, about two years of age, was suffering from a terrible mastoid and needed an immediate operation. And the mother was without funds of any kind.

"Doctor," she cried, "you know my husband. He has been around show business for a long time. He left me two weeks ago, and I haven't heard from him since.

"He has money. I know he has because somebody saw him spending freely in a night club only two nights ago. But he left me absolutely without funds.

"You see the condition the baby is in. He's a very, very sick child. Won't you help me, doctor? Won't you do this operation for me and trust me until I am able to pay? Please, doctor, please."

She didn't have to go into that lengthy plea. This medico is such a generous bird that he will undoubtedly wind up with plenty of fame and a meagre bank account. So he merely smiled.

"I'll assign you to a room. You live here with the child until he is able to leave. I'll operate immediately."

No use telling you the woman's expression of thanks. She cried blessings upon his head until the doctor grew embarrassed.

Two days later, when the child was improving rapidly, the husband turned up at the hospital. Before he could go upstairs to his wife and baby, the doctor spoke to him.

"Mr. Jones," he asserted, "I want you to know that I only did this charitable thing because your wife is a very sweet woman. I don't know what type of man you are, but I know you'll excuse me when I tell you that I don't think much of you."

The husband interrupted him.

"Before you say anything more, doctor," he murmered, "Let me see my wife and baby. When I come down, I can tell you better the things that are on my mind."

He went up stairs. And when he came down he spoke to the medico as though he had seen a great light.

"I've been a terrible fool," he said softly, "and I give you my word of honor as a man that I'm changing my ways right here and now."

He went on and on along the same lines until the doctor grew slightly nervous. Suddenly, the husband went off on a different line.

"Doc," he cried earnestly, "I want to do something for you. I've been in different angles of the theatrical game for a long time and I'm just wondering if there isn't something I can do for you? Some seats for an opening night, perhaps? Or something like that?"

The physician thought for a moment and then nodded.

"As long as you mention it," he stated, "I want to give a theater party at the opening of the 'Scandals' next week. I have an order in, but I'm not sure it will pan out. Do you think you can get me 50 seats? As long as you get me a few down front, I don't care where the rest of them are."

The husband reached for his hat.

"I'll get them for you," he chirped.

In an hour, the husband was back at the hospital. He rushed into the medico's office.

"I made the connection, doc," he said, "but they're costing you a little premium. The box office price for the opening is $11, and I'm getting the 50 seats for you at $15 each. If you'll give me your check for $750, I'll go over and get the seats."

The physician made out his check for the $750 and handed it to the husband.

The husband left with the check and went to the doctor's bank. He identified himself and received the cash. The doctor hasn't seen him since.

About three days later, when the woman and child had been discharged from the hospital, the physician received a call from a municipal magistrate.

"Sorry to bother you, doctor," said the jurist, "but this is Judge B——"

"Yes, judge," replied the doctor. "What can I do for you?"

"I just wanted to get the address of Mrs. Jones," asserted the magistrate. "I want to send some flowers to the funeral."

"Funeral?" murmured the doctor. "What funeral?"

The magistrate seemed slightly surprised.

"Why," he returned, "the funeral of her baby. Don't you remember that it died in your hospital the day before yesterday."

The doctor swallowed hard.

"I think judge," he muttered, "that you've been the victim of the same game that hit me. That baby did not die. It left here in excellent health. What makes you think it didn't?"

It was the magistrate's turn to grow excited.

"What makes me think so?" he roared. "Why, that Mr. Jones came over to my house at midnight the night before last and told me his baby had died in your hospital. He said he needed $300 for the funeral expenses, and he begged me to advance it to him.

"I knew that he was something of a cheat, but I had always liked his wife. He seemed to be in such desperate straights that I couldn't refuse him. Even at that hour of the night, I dug up $300 and gave it to him.

"And now you tell me that his baby didn't die at all. Are you positive, doctor. Can it be possible that a man could be so low?"

The doctor nodded.

"It seems that way," he murmured . . .

The police are still looking for Mr. Jones. I hope he gets 90 years when they catch him . . .

MOTORIST BAER GIVEN PRAISE IN JINGLE

Brookline Man Awarded First Prize by Judges; Gets Christmas Cash

If there is such a motorist as Baer, who "drove with much caution and care," he will certainly be pleased with the nice things Sun-Telegraph readers have said about him in answering "Christmas Jingle" No. 22.

S. J. McClelland, 1116 Woodburne avenue, however, won the praise of the judges who awarded him the $5 first prize check for his Christmas shopping. He finished the jingle as follows:

An unselfish motorist, Baer,
Who drove with much caution and care;
His horn made no noise
To scare girls and boys
*He had tutored his "toot" to

The five $1 prize winners for No. 22 went to Mrs. J. W. Munsell, Fourth and Delafield avenues, Aspinwall; Sara J. Miller, 67 Dewey avenue, Ingram; Mary Elizabeth Crawford, 409 Warren avenue, Apollo; W. A. Swick, 1214 Cambridge street, Tarentum; Lloyd A. M. Corkan, 1602 Fourth avenue, New Brighton.

Try your hand on No. 29, appearing on this page today. The "last line" judged the best will win $5 and the next five $1 each.

All readers of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, with the exception of employes, are invited to enter the "Christmas Jingle" contest. You can send in as many last lines as you like. Equal awards will be paid to readers whose answers are tied in the judging. You do not have to buy a Sun-Telegraph to enter this contest. You may examine the files of this newspaper at the public library or at any one of the offices of the Sun-Telegraph, where you may make a tracing of the "Christmas Jingles" blank if you wish.

Each Sun-Telegraph "Christmas Jingle" will be consecutively numbered.

WIFE IN COMA, MINER KILLED

Frank Elkin, 24, coal miner, lay dead in his home, House 21, Harwick, today, because he failed to follow his own inclination.

Elkin told attendants he desired to remain at the bedside of his wife, Frances, 21, in a state of coma from diabetes in the Allegheny Valley Hospital, Tarentum, Tuesday night.

A physician dissuaded him, telling him his presence could be of no benefit and that if his wife took a turn for the worse he would be notified.

Elkin returned to work in the Harwick Coal and Coke Company mine at Harwick, was injured and died early yesterday in the Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington. His wife, still critically ill, had not been informed of her husband's death today. Two children are left without support.

Sleuths Begin Probe In Mystery Death

The death of John Wintis, 39, of 3457 Ligonier street, in St. Francis Hospital from injuries sustained in an unknown manner was being investigated today by detectives and deputy coroners.

Two men who took Wintis to the hospital early yesterday left without giving their names or explaining in what manner Wintis was injured, according to a coroner's report.

MAN AND SISTER FOUND SLAIN

TOLEDO, Dec. 10—(AP.)—A shooting in which a brother and sister were killed and the woman's husband was critically injured puzzled police today.

The dead are Mrs. Henrietta Basilius, 56, and Fred Warnke, 73. August Basilius, 57, husband of the woman, was reported near death with two bullets in his abdomen.

Basilius said two men did the shooting. Police said all of the doors of the home had been locked from the inside and a 38-caliber revolver had been hidden in the garage, which also was locked.

Mrs. Basilius filed a divorce suit two years ago, but later the couple became reconciled.

I. C. C. ASKS QUIZ OF RAILROADS' COMPETITORS

Annual Report Also Urges Fair Value on Carriers For Rate-Making Purpose

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Having granted the railroads freight increases which are expected to net them about $125,000,000 annually in additional revenues, the Interstate Commerce Commission today asked Congress to authorize an investigation of the unregulated competitors of the railroads.

In its annual report the commission recommended that Congress provide for an impartial and authoritative investigation to determine whether and to what extent motor, water and air carriers operating in competition with the railroads are receiving direct or indirect governmental aid.

SEEN AS SUBSIDY

It intimated this aid approached a subsidy. If such was the case the commission said Congress should determine what steps, if any, are necessary to correct this situation "with a view to placing competition on a just and equitable basis."

The commission renewed its recommendation for the elimination of the present recapture provisions of the Interstate Commerce act.

It also urged substitution of a modified rule of rate regulation "recognizing that because railroad earnings will inevitably fall below the standard level in times of business depression they may properly be permitted to rise above it in times of prosperity."

It stressed the need for an adequate national transportation system and the consequent need for maintaining railroad credit and recommended the substitution of a stable rate base which may be kept current by accounting methods "for a base reflecting what is termed fair value of carrier property for rate-making purposes."

RATE REGULATION

Another recommendation was that the desirability of further public regulation of port-to-port rates of water carriers should be considered by Congress.

It recommended as well the act be amended to bring within the jurisdiction of the commission for approval or disapproval any acquisition of control of a railroad which would result in bringing that road into affiliation with, in control of, or under the management of another railroad, whether the acquisition be by holding companies or otherwise. The commission said:

"It is also suggested that it may be desirable to authorize the commission to require the divestment by any non-carrier company of a controlling interest in a railroad subject to the act, if such stock interest has not received our approval and is found to be prejudicial in any respect to the plan of consolidation adopted by us."

Convict Mother, Free Ex-Husband In Rum Charge

Mrs. Mathilda Protheroe, mother of two children, 326 Linview avenue, Carrick, was convicted on a charge of transporting two gallons of moonshine today by a Federal Court jury that at the same time acquitted her divorced husband, Philip, of a similar charge. The case was tried before Judge Nelson McVicar, to whom the jury recommended mercy.

The woman protested that she was bringing a package to town July 6 for a boarder and did not know that it contained whisky.

Chinese Speculators Paid Gold Dollars

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 10 (AP).—American gold dollars declined sharply on the local exchange today following publication in the press of an anonymous dispatch from Washington stating that Senator Brookhart had announced that he would introduce a bill in Congress to abolish the gold standard in the United States.

Chinese speculators, believing that abandonment of the gold standard by the United States was imminent, sold feverishly and the dollar sagged.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

THE LOUDSPEAKER By Louis Reid

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. Books upon radio, its mechanics, its broadcasting, its fabulous figures — continue to come off the presses but in all of them there is little or nothing said of the desperate attempts of its overlords to keep pace with its progress.

Radio, today, has gone far beyond its vaudeville stage of a few years back when song and dance and story made up pretty much of its whole entertainment. Today it is the biggest show on earth, though the megaphone men in the studios have yet to appropriate the phrase. Being the biggest show it requires, if anything in this world requires it, a personnel of super-showmen. That it hasn't such a class is the chief reason today why people no longer pant to the armchairs.

And considering what radio embraces, its vast and ever increasing scope, its hurdle of all international barriers, its call upon the time and voices of most of the celebrated figures of our day, it should be more than ever a spur to the curiosity and delight of the public.

* * *

Yet, people are more and more regarding radio in a casual light, as something to be turned on or off like a water faucet. Save on rare occasions when some hitherto unmicrophoned world leader is heard or some superlative sports contest is to be aired, radio has lost its breath-taking, ear-thrilling, imagination-capturing aspect.

It must be because its overlords are too busy counting their revenues, selling their precious hours to manufacturers, listening to the advice of advertising agents. Under the system of broadcasting that prevails in this country such pursuits are, of course, necessary.

But the overloads, it seems to us, should not lose sight of the big show taking place right under their eyes. If they have not time to keep it in sight and still attend to their three major routines then they should scour the highways for those whose sole purpose will be to see that "the biggest show on earth" lives up to its name.

* * *

Radio, today, embraces not only the legitimate stage and the vaudeville theater, but takes in the concert hall, the opera, the lecture platforms, the sports arena, the political forum, the schoolroom and the church. Of such varied fields of expression is its scope the most tremendous scope that the machine age has yet developed.

Yet, radio's destinies are almost wholly confined to men whose experience and culture and background have been centered in minor phases of the amusement world—men who may know something of the theater, but who know little or nothing of politics or sports or music above the rank of Tin Pan Alley.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Events

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

Just when Pittsburgh society will entertain the Matthew T. Mellons is indefinite. As yet no definite plans have been made for their visit.

Mrs. Mellon was Gertrud Altegoer, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. William Altegoer, of Bochum, Germany, before her marriage December 1 at a simple ceremony at Bochum. Mr. Mellon is the son of the William Larimer Mellons, of Darlington road, who are just home from a New York visit.

The bride graduated a [illegible] American [illegible] at the University of Freiburg Breisgau, Germany. He took his advanced degree there after being graduated from Yale, and he and his bride will make their home in Germany.

Honorable Lucretia B[illegible] debutante daughter of Dr. [illegible] Mrs. Frederic T. Billings, Mrs. John L. Buchanan and Mrs. Mary C. Black will give a luncheon Tuesday, December 15 in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

Luncheon For Bride

After all, there's going to be some entertainment for the school set. A committee of Fox Chapel Golf Club members have arranged for two dances to be held at the club the evenings of December 26 and January 2, to be known as Junior dinner-dances.

On the committee are Mrs. George B. Berger, Mrs. J. Frederic Byers, Mrs. John Gibson, Jr., Mrs. Howard Heinz, Mrs. J. Hartwell Hillman, Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson, Mrs. Harry J. Miller and Mrs. Augustus K. Oliver.

This winter when more women than ever before must earn money to aid their families, the society women on the board of managers of the Woman's Exchange, Penn avenue, are holding many sales to increase the demand for goods sold for the consignors.

Sales at Exchange

Since the 10 per cent commission on sales does not cover the maintenance of the Exchange the board established the lunch room to help defray expenses, and it's this department that makes the Exchange go round, one might say.

Girls are soon to return home from school, and among them will be Patrice and Sara Marie Kelly, daughters of the James Bennett Kellys, of Parkman boulevard. Patrice returns from Trinity Cathedral, and Sara Marie from Sweetbriar, and they are arriving a week from Saturday.

* * *

A long time ago I heard that Anne Allen Rose would be maid of honor at the wedding of her sister, Margaret Rose, to William Hamil Trimble. Margaret, who's the daughter of the Don Roses, of Sewickley, will become the bride of Mr. Trimble, son of the Robert Maurice Trimbles, of Ben Avon, December 31.

Bridal Party

Now the complete bridal party has been named. The bridesmaids will be Jean Evans Rose, a younger sister, Katherine Collins, Margaret Holdship, Mary Franklin Robinson, Emily Frew and Helen Pendleton, Mabel Smithers, of Glencoe, Ill., and Jessamine Goddard, of New York.

John Harvey Trimble will be his brother's best man, and Robert Maurice Trimble, Jr., another brother, Blair Childs, Thomas E. Shaw, John Evans Rose and Don Rose, Jr., brothers of the bride-to-be; Ledlie Watt Young, Alexander Laughlin Robinson, William D. George, Jr., Frank Faber Brooks and Henry Hall Lloyd, Jr., will be ushers.

The wedding will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the Sewickley Presbyterian church, followed by a reception at the Rose home.

Field Club Will Remain Open For Winter

The Pittsburgh Field Club is remaining open this winter for the entire season, and many activities are being planned by the members, and indoor sports. There is a driving green erected in the ballroom, and a putting green. And on New Years Eve there is to be a large Dutch treat dinner and dance. Mrs. Walter Miller, of Negley avenue, formerly of Chicago, is planning to have about 40 guests at her table, and several other members are planning to entertain a large number at their tables. On New Years Day there is to be a tea dance for the junior members, and that evening will be held the club's annual Notre Dame dance.

Mary Kunkle Marries Wallace D Guthrie

Miss Mary Kunkle, daughter of Mrs. John E. Kunkle and the late Senator Kunkle, of Chestnut Hill, near Greensburg, became the bride of Wallace D. Guthrie, of Chicago, son of Speer Guthrie, of Indiana, Pa., yesterday at high noon, in her home. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. E. S. Bromer, of Lancaster, Pa., formerly of Greensburg, assisted by the Rev. Lawrence E. Bair, pastor of the First Reformed Church of Greensburg.

The bride wore a gown of ivory lace with a matching hat, and carried a white moire-bound prayer book, from which fell a shower of white gardenias and lilies of the valley. She was unattended. The home was decorated with palms, ferns and fall flowers.

The wedding breakfast was given in the Greensburg Country Club, with covers laid for 22 guests. Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie left by motor for New York and sail Saturday for Bermuda. They will make their home in Niles Center, Ill., upon their return.

Tells Congress Unit Purposes Of Reading

There is no such thing as a best book; what is best for one person is the worst for another, the selection of books is an individual problem and depends on one's objective. So Charles W. Mason, reader's counselor at Carnegie Library, told the educational department of the Congress of Clubs yesterday. Mr. Mason was speaking with "Reading For a Purpose" as his subject which he developed mainly from the second of two stated "purposes"—reading for escape from life and reading to gain enrichment of life.

Friends of books, he remarked, often hurt the cause of books with their overzealousness concerning their importance in the scheme of things. "Education is living the best today that tomorrow may be better," he quoted, as a preface to his very fine discussion of group thinking, which process he termed "the method of democracy."

Miss Elva S. Smith, also of the library, discussed "Open Doors to Literature." Reading good books, she said, is not only worth while but a highly desirable form of recreation, a habit which needs cultivation and direction. Reading interest is aroused by providing children with books suited to their individual stages of development, with due regard to manner as well as matter. There must be opportunity for browsing as well as individual choice, she pointed out and emphasized the fact that adult tastes should not be forced on children.

Librarian Speaks

Col. Morris Frank, blind managing director of the Seeing Eye and his guide dog, Buddy, were present. Col. Frank made a plea for understanding of the blind, and acceptance by the public of the guide dogs, which he said, are not dogs, but eyes. The loss of their sight is not so much of a problem to the blind as is the lack of understanding on the part of the seeing public, he said.

There was music by Miss Dorothy Fink, soprano; Miss Mary Pebecca Cashman, pianist, and Mrs. Clara Patterson Ruzza, accompanist. Mrs. J. Charles Wilson gave a group of readings and the discussion time was devoted to whether too large a proportion of reading time is devoted to magazines.

SMART PARISIENNES FAVOR EVENING FROCKS OF LACE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 10—Go into almost any showrooms, except those of Chanel, and you will find a dearth of lace evening frocks. But wander into any night club where smart people gather after coming on from formal functions, or dine and dance at any fashionable spot and you will find a good number of lace frocks on parade. Curious, isn't it? But just another evidence of the fact that women are not always swayed by the models shown by the couture, but order just what they want, regardless of the mode. This is a good sign, and one that makes for greater diversity in the mode. But to don our lace evening frocks and analyse them. Fine, delicate lace seems to be favored with here and there a frock in coarse thread and open patterns. Although there are some colored lace frocks, black or white or black with white continue supreme. Sometimes the lace is combined with filmy chiffon, always a good alliance especially for the dinner frock. Black and white lace used together makes some most attractive evening frocks, suitable to any type or coloring. Simplicity continues to be the dominant theme of the lace frock, thus giving the lovely texture of the fabric a chance to assert its fragile charm.

* * *

WE HAVE MENTIONED that Chanel favors lace frocks and so it is only right that we should show two of her newest models done in this medium. One glance at the frocks will show why they found ready purchasers, although we are informed that this is not a lace season. The model to the left is a dinner frock in lace and chiffon both black. The high neckline is edged with a soft chiffon scarf held by a pink flower. The sloping godet effect between the bands of lace at one side of the skirt is soft and becoming.

* * *

THE OTHER FROCK is of black and white lace in a very fine, delicate pattern. A large chou of lace in back suggests a bustle. The skirt is very wide, but straight hanging, and is shirred onto a snug hip yoke. The decolletage in back forms a deep V reaching quite to the waistline.

DIVORCED DUKE TO WED IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The Duke of Manchester, divorced from his American duchess-wife while he was voyaging toward Cuba to obtain freedom from her, reached New York last night with his fiancee, Miss Kathleen Dawes, announcing he planned to marry her at once.

The 54-year-old Britisher said:

"We will be married in New York, whenever certified copies of the divorce decree arrive. If they arrive in time we might be married today, probably at City Hall."

The Duchess, the former Helena Zimmerman, of Cincinnati, obtained a decree last May. The Duke sailed December 2. His wife's decree became absolute two days ago, while the liner Berengaria, battling terrific winter storms, was bearing him, nearly two days late, to this port.

Miss Dawes, formerly a London actress, attracted more attention when the steamer docked than did her titled bridegroom-to-be. She proved to be a slender, handsome young woman and the Duke said he had known her "a long, long time."

MINER LEADER GETS LIFE

MOUNT STERLING, Ky., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—William B. Jones, Harlan County mine union secretary, was convicted of murder and conspiracy by a jury in Circuit Court here today. The jury fixed the penalty at life imprisonment.

Jones showed no emotion as the verdict was read at 10:20 a. m. after six hours and 10 minutes of deliberation. The case went to the jury yesterday. After a trial lasting two weeks and with more than 158 witnesses describing conditions in the Southeastern Kentucky coal fields that led up to the killing last May at Evarts of four men, Jones was tried in connection with the death of Jim Daniels, a deputy sheriff, shot to death then, and he was the first of a score of other defendants to be tried.

The next of the miners' trials to be taken up here, on change of venue, is that of William H. Hightower, president of the same local union of which Jones is secretary. He is faced with the same charges.

India Will Deport Americans as Reds

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Bombay said police arrested Henry Lynd and his wife, Susanne Lynd, of San Francisco, today on a charge of promoting Communist activity in India and held them for deportation by the first available boat.

The Lynds were also accused of attempting to form a secret society, the dispatch said. They reached Bombay by way of Colombo several months ago.

Guard Saves Crew From Sinking Boat

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Coast Guardsmen, who battled heavy seas and a blinding storm last night, rescued the captain and his two crewmen from the sinking fishing schooner, Sigrid T. four miles off Absecon Light.

The rescue party reached the craft, which was drifting helplessly, and brought ashore Edward Jorgensen, skipper, and Mark Adelsel and Mandius Endresen, all of Brooklyn.

Clear Skin—

rich, red blood cells will help you . . . .

"I WAS determined to have a clear skin."

"Some one told me of S.S.S. . . . now I am so glad the last pimple is gone."

Whenever bad complexion or blemishes on the skin are due to a low blood count, or to a lagging appetite, the condition can be relieved or benefited by a course of S.S.S.

If you are pale, or languid, give S.S.S. a trial. It may help you as it has helped thousands of others.

Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

Builds Sturdy Health

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

FARMER HARRY F. JONES HARRY DEGLER, 14 MRS. ADA THOMPSON, 21

Farmer Jones, his grandson and his daughter, all of whom, at Clarksburg, testified that they saw Harry F. Powers, on trial for murder, at their farm, near Quiet Dell, scene of five slayings, on the night set by the state as that on which Mrs. Dorothy Lemke died. The defense contends he was in Hagerstown, Md., that night. (Read story of the Powers trial, Page 1.)

WELFARE AIDES FACE DEFEAT IN DRIVE

The Welfare Fund drive was lacking $736,477 in attaining its goal of $5,981,184, including the $750,000 conditional gift, Joseph Dilworth, general chairman, announced today.

Dilworth said the campaign would not be extended beyond next Monday noon when a final report meeting will be held in the William Penn Hotel.

He urged workers to a final spurt toward raising the amount sought. Today's meeting indicated that only supplemental giving by the larger previous donors can put the fund over the top. Today's total contributions were $93,993.

In striking contrast to the slow progress of the campaign here, word was received that Philadelphia has gone more than $1,000,000 over its quota of $9,000,000.

Included in the increases reported today were the following: Mrs. Henry Graham Brown, $3,000 to $3,510; Malcolm McGiffin, $500 to $700; estate of W. K. Nimick, $1,300 to $1,750; Eleanor Chalfant, $10,000 to $12,000; H. V. Blaxter, $500 to $600; A. K. Oliver, $5,000 to $6,000; estate of Virginia Dalzell McKee, $50,000 to $57,500.

Downtown Club Raid Nets Drys Big Rum Haul

Hundreds of bottles of assorted wines, whiskies and liquors and three and a half barrels of beer were seized by prohibition agents late yesterday in a raid at the Owls, one of the downtown district's most elaborate clubs, on the second floor of 637 Liberty avenue.

More than a score of men at the 16-foot bar and at tables through three large rooms were in the club, which is frequented by business and professional men. All were permitted to leave. The raiding squad arrested one man, the alleged doorkeeper, who gave his name as Dennis O'Donnell.

The seizure included two gallons of wine, three quarts of champagne, 87 bottles of gin, nine quarts of rum and 25 quarts of whisky, all of which was poured down the drain. Three barrels of beer, seized in a third floor room, and a portion of another barrel, on tap, were taken to a government warehouse.

The raid occurred at the peak of the afternoon's business. Several score of men were stopped from entering the club by agents while the beer was being loaded on trucks.

Clarence Darrow, criminal lawyer, spoke on agnosticism; the Rev. I. D. Spaugy, pastor of a Methodist church in McKeesport, gave an address on Methodism, while John F. Haggerty, Assistant District Attorney of Allegheny County, and Rabbi I. E. Philo, of Youngstown, spoke on Catholicism and the Jewish faith. The audience was non partisan and gave each speaker a warm reception.

U. S. DRY AGENT SUSPENDED IN PLOT PROBE

Pittsburgher Indicted In Conspiracy Charge To Violate Liquor Laws

A Pittsburgh prohibition agent, W. W. Shultz, was under suspension today, following his indictment in Harrisburg yesterday, along with a state legislator, federal, county and city officials, on charges of conspiracy to violate the liquor laws.

The suspension, ordered by Prohibition Director Amos Woodcock from Washington, was verified here by Deputy Prohibition Administrator Robert S. Krause.

A total of 49 persons were indicted for operating what government agents called a huge "shakedown" ring which obtained money from speakeasy proprietors throughout Eastern Pennsylvania.

The Assemblyman was John J. Heffernon, of Luzerne County. Others included James T. Ford, alleged ringleader, of Ohio; three former United States deputy marshals; Police Chiefs John Vance and Abe Morgan, of Chester and Mt. Carmel and James D. Bachman, Luzerne County detective.

$10,000 Bail Set For Three Held In Shoplifting

Two fashionably attired women and a man, alleged members of a nation-wide shoplifting ring, were remanded to jail following a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court, today.

Rothenberg fixed bail at $10,000 each, said to be the highest ever demanded on shoplifting charges, because, he said, he desired to warn those seeking to raid Pittsburgh stores during the pre-Christmas shopping rush.

The three are Mrs. A. E. Sellers, alias Ruth Malone, known in police circles as "Peroxide Ruth," 33, and Miss Marie Scott, 25, both of Tulsa, Okla., and the former's husband, A. E. Sellers, 38, of Detroit.

Detectives Robert Best and Joseph Barry testified they had found articles valued at $1,000 in the women's room in the Fort Pitt Hotel, tags removed, after the goods were alleged to have been stolen from downtown stores.

Mrs. Sellers, the detectives testified, jumped $2,000 bail in Cedar Rapids, Ia., after being arrested there October 8, on similar charges.

The women, wearing mink coats, denied the charges, saying the articles found in their room were Christmas presents they had purchased on their way to Philadelphia to visit relatives over the holidays.

HUNGER MARCH DISBANDS HERE

The 600 "hunger marchers," back in the city from Washington, where they appealed to governmental heads for relief, were returning to their homes today.

At three meetings held last night in Croatian Hall, 822 Canal street; Polish Falcons' Hall, 101 South Eighteenth street, and Workers' Center, 2157 Center avenue, speakers described their march as a victory.

They said that it demonstrated the workers could show a united front. Tentative plans were made to hold mass demonstrations throughout the county on February 4, and start another march to the capital.

Many of the marchers slept in the three meeting halls last night.

Leads Way to Still, Held on Rum Charge

Alderman J. J. Lundie, of the Sixth Ward, McKeesport, yesterday ordered Thomas Halaszynski and Giovani Spocco Sabbi held for court charged with violating the liquor laws after Constable Jerry McCarthy arrested the two men and reported he seized a 100-gallon still and 25 gallons of moonshine.

McCarthy smelled liquor yesterday at the rear of 811 Locust street. He asked Sabbi where the still was located. Sabbi, he said, led the way to the still and the moonshine.

Girls Selling Seals Miss Phila. Mayor

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Five pretty Philadelphia misses waited in vain in the rain yesterday to sell Mayor Mackey Christmas seals to aid the fight against tuberculosis. Garbed in the fashion of a bygone day, they were driven to the plaza of City Hall in an old-fashioned tallyho. They waited an hour before the report reached them that Mr. Mackey was tied up by official business.

WOODSIDE SAYS CUTS FAIL TO AID COUNTY

Several of 168 Employes Expected to Be Put Back On Payroll December 15

While Controller Robert G. Woodside was taking exception to the drastic reductions both in wages and personnel of county employes made by County Commissioner E. V. Babcock, the latter today announced a number of the 168 employes suspended last week will be reinstated.

Legality of Babcock's action was questioned today by Arch Powell, solicitor for Woodside, who said Babcock had no authority, individually, to cut the payroll. This, he said, was up to the county salary board including commissioners, treasurer and controller.

The payroll ut cannot become effective until Commissioner C. C. McGovern returns from Bermuda, it was painted out, as two commissioners' signatures are necessary.

WOODSIDE AROUSED

Woodside, in a statement issued today, referred to a visit of Babcock to his office yesterday, and said:

"I want it understood that I was, and am, opposed to the action taken by him in regard to the dismissal of county employes or the compulsory reduction in the December salaries of the employes at this time. The saving made by this act will in no way help the financial situation of the county."

Denying he had placed the responsibility of reductions in salaries upon Woodside or others, Babcock said:

"As far as putting the responsibility on the controller, I did not. I regret that he assumed that I held him in any way responsible for this reduction of salaries. I never stated to anybody that he was responsible.

"I did mention to the department heads that the controller had confirmed my decision that nearly all the code accounts we pay salaries with are greatly depleted. Transfers will probably have to be made to even clean up the 1931 payrolls and bills."

DISCUSSED CUT

Babcock, announcing his latest cut, declared he had discussed the matter by telephone with his colleague, Commissioner C. C. McGovern, in Havana on a vacation. The wage reduction, he said, means a saving of nearly $100,000. Both Commissioners plan to take a similar cut, Babcock said.

Woodside added:

"At this season of the year, preceding the Yuletide, all employers in my opinion should do everything in their power to make people happy instead of adding to the present sorrow and distress of the country."

In addition to the Department of Public Works, the cut will affect employes of the Commissioners' general office, the Deed Registry Bureau, Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, Automobile Division, Superintendent of Buildings, Purchasing Department, Statistical Department, Bureau of Elections, Airport Division and Bureau of Parks.

WITNESSES RAP RADIO STATION

Government witnesses at the second day of the trial in Federal Court of Lee Elton Spencer, Charles Robinson and Gene Etz, charged with operating a radio broadcasting station without a government permit or licenses by the Federal Radio Commission, testified that broadcasts from the Jeannette station interfered with licensed stations.

Ernest Peterkin, inspector of the Eighth Radio Division, which includes Pennsylvania, testified hearing broadcasts of the Jeannette station in West Virginia. He qualified as a radio expert with many years' experience in the United States Navy.

J. J. Kurtz testified hearing the Jeannette station in Syracuse, N. Y., and LeRoy Smeltzer and George Westover, of Greensburg, testified that the alleged unlicensed station interfered with other broadcasting. W. J. Cleerman, chief investigator of the Radio Commission, also testified.

Brackenridge Firm Accused at Trial

The Labor Products and Ice Company, of Brackenridge, and three employes, Frank Shoen, brewmaster; Frank Shoen, Jr., and Frank N. Miller, are on trial before Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, charged with violating the national prohibition law.

Prohibition agents testified that after raiding the plant last June they found high-test beer in the racking room and in a hose between a vat and the racking room. The raid followed the seizure of a truck loaded with beer, a short distance from the plant.

FACSIMILE OF THE LETTER NOT ADMITTED TO COURT RECORD . . . DEFENSE COUNSEL CLAIMS 'CHARLES ROGERS' WROTE IT

Fairmont
July 6, 1931

Dear pal.

I am penning just a few lines this morning. I am busy packing today. We are leaving here the 9th and I thought I would write you and tell you. Mrs. Eicher and the children are well and they look forward to that trip with great anticipation.

You will find the enclosed letter I am sending it to [illegible] because I know I can trust you and it contains very important papers. Please be sure to keep it for me and do not open the letter. I will call for it shortly. I will leave the things that you sent here to Quiet Dell. Keep an eye on them as they are valuable.

We will write again soon.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

KAIJO, Dec. 10.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, here we are in a whole different country, Korea, and this is the capital. Flew down the inland passage from Kobe to Nagasaki and it was beautiful. Then from Japan to the mainland of Asia across the Sea of Japan, about 150 miles. And, oh, say, I found people that have funnier hats than the Princess Eugenie kind you are wearing back home. It's the Korean men, the peasants. It's a sort of old black cab driver's derby, but it's made of screen netting like the thing we used to keep over cheese in the Claremore grocery store.

Yours, WILL.

Non-Smoking Students Hold Higher Ranks

High school students who smoke stand lower scholastically than those who abstain, according to Edward R. Van Kirk, of the University of Pittsburgh.

In a thesis on his investigations, Van Kirk said he took into consideration 80 subjects, half of them smokers. Among the smokers he made observations as to whether they inhaled, the amount of them smoking and length of time they had followed the practice.

Realizing that factors such as heredity, environment, differences in native abilities and others entered into the qualifications of making high school grades, Van Kirk explained that he could make no sweeping statements as to the effect of tobacco on students. He said:

"The averages are all slightly in favor of the non-smoker. Whether the boys fall down in school because they smoke or whether they smoke because they are delinquent students is a fact which cannot be determined. However, the results of this study seem to favor the non-smokers."

THE PANEL OF TWELVE MEN ON THE OPERA HOUSE STAGE AT CLARKSBURG . . . HARRY POWERS' FATE IS IN THEIR HANDS

Budget Badly Afflicted With Deficit Malady

—By Arthur (Bugs) Baer—

The budget has got the deficits.

The new Congress has aged in day.

President's message was sent collect.

Moses has a message too. Scared to open it.

Mellon also dropped in an annual communique. Navy should be made larger to accommodate so many oars.

Why not dig up the Wickersham document and the epistle to the Corinthians? Neither one has been answered yet.

Mellon's message on the deficit was optimistic right up until the time the adding machine exploded.

Well, it will all come out in the wash. But you won't be able to wear it again.

ASSEMBLYMEN SEEK VIEWS ON RELIEF BILLS

Upset Pinchot Program, But Move Toward Passage Of Revised Measures

By LEO V. DOLAN
International News Service

HARRISBURG, Dec. 10—Happily conscious they had moved definitely toward unemployment relief, members of the General Assembly today returned to their home districts to test sentiment on the temporary victory gained by critics of Gifford Pinchot.

After four weeks of fruitless bickering, House and Senate pushed ahead treatment relief measures directly opposed to the plans outlined by the Governor when he convened the special session. Whether the legislators would attempt to override a Governatorial veto which is virtually certain, depended largely on final passage in corresponding.

HOUSE STAMPEDES

A badly stampeded House that bolted the Governor's standard on Tuesday and maintained its truculent attitude yesterday is expected to make a gesture toward approving in part some of the Governor's proposals to avoid the charge of playing politics with human misery.

Two of the Governor's principal schemes, the gasoline tax and the prosperity bond issue, are expected to pass in smothered form in the House where political observers believe members were carried away by a wave of resentment against the Governor far beyond their original intentions.

One House leader of administration sympathies said he believed Gov. Pinchot would emerge from the present fight in a stronger position than before.

ACTION MONDAY

The amended one-cent gasoline tax bill sponsored by Representative Bart Richards of Lawrence was shunted to the postponed calendar when the anti-Pinchot stampede was at its height. Passage of the measure is forecast for Monday night and it is believed the bill will safely navigate the Senate.

Strong supporters were heard today that the executive's prosperity bond issue likewise would be given a helping hand by all factions. It was believed, however, that the original total of $35,000,000 would be reduced to $15,000,000.

Dr. McEwan as president of the board of trustees of the Pittsburgh Presbytery, will remain in active charge of mission work. He has been made pastor emeritus of the Third Church. He also is president of the Freedman's Board, vice president of Grove City College, and president of the Princeton Theological Seminary.

YOUNG CHILDREN AT THE FURMANS' PREPARING FOR SANTA

22 WORRY OVER SANTA'S TASK

Santa will have 22 stockings to fill at a certain farmhouse a mile off the Export-Freeport road near Delmont. The children who live there are worried, because they have no chimney, no fireplace—not even a mantel to hang their stockings on. They hope Santa will find a way.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Furman who raised six children of their own, have had as many as 42 children in their family circle at one time. Mrs. Belle Furman said:

"When I was a child I didn't have a home, and I've always felt sorry for children who didn't have any place to go."

Although a state charter has been issued to the Furmans and they are registered in Harrisburg as operating the Esther Home, the children are not "institutionalized" in any way.

MRS. KANE HELD VICTIM OF ILLNESS

Defense Witnesses Tell Of Heart Trouble; Death Believed Due to Shock

HAMPTON, Va., Dec. 10—(AP)—Mrs. Elisha Kent Kane was described today as an "unfortunate woman" with a gloomy outlook on life, especially when ill from a "tumultous heart action."

The testimony was offered by Dr. F. A. Abernethy, physician of the University of North Carolina, called as a defense witness in the trial of Prof. Kane, charged with drowning his wife in Chesapeake Bay. The physician said:

"Mrs. Kane would not have been able to take care of herself if she had suffered a heart attack on the rocks at Grand View Beach, where she was drowned September 11."

HEART EXPERT

The North Carolina physician said he had wide experience diagnosing heart trouble in examining athletes. He said he had treated Mrs. Kane for very definite heart attacks during the three years that the Kanes lived at Chapel Hill, before the professor left North Carolina for the University of Tennessee.

Dr. Abernethy was the third witness for the professor who claims the drowning was accidental. Dr. Paul Howle, physician who examined the body at a Hampton hospital, testified yesterday that death might have been caused by heart trouble plus water in the lungs.

Dr. Abernethy said Mrs. Kane's heart attacks did not render her paralyzed, but would leave her weak and unable to walk or exert herself.

The physician was preceded on the stand today by Hazel Fenton, 14-year-old girl, who said Mrs. Kane suffered a heart attack at the Hilton village home of her parents on the Saturday before the fatal swimming party with her husband at Grand View Beach. Miss Fenton is a neighbor of the Grahams, parents of Mrs. Kane.

On cross-examination Dr. Abernethy said he attended Mrs. Kane about 100 times at his office and about 20 times at her home. He said:

"The root of her trouble was that she was neurasthenic."

Answering a juror's question Dr. Abernethy said "continuous unhappy living conditions" would have a decided effect on Mrs. Kane's weak heart.

The physician was subjected to a rigid cross-examination for more than half an hour by Harry M. Smith, Richmond attorney, but he maintained that Mrs. Kane's particular kind of heart trouble rendered the patient panicky and would prevent any organized effort to save life in the water.

MEXICO'S ILLS LAID TO LACK OF ACCORD

Obsolete Farming Methods Also Blamed at Meeting Of Foreign Policy Group

Lack of modern agricultural machinery, and misunderstanding with its neighbor, were given as the causes of Mexico's ills at a meeting of the Foreign Policy Association in Hotel Schenley last night.

Speakers were Dr. Eyler N. Simpson, of the Institute of Current World Affairs, and Judge Florence E. Allen, of the Ohio Supreme Court, chairman of the committee on cultural relations with Latin America.

Dr. Simpson declared that although an agricultural country Mexico is retarded in its progress because of antiquated methods and machinery. Many agriculture products must be imported, he added.

Judge Allen said that there can be no pact between the United States and Mexico until there is an understanding between the two. The real barrier to understanding, she said, is a wall of prejudice built up between the two nations through the years.

Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, and chairman of the association, presided.

MILKMEN URGE INSPECTION

The Dairymen's Co-operative Sales Company, farmers' marketing organization producing the major portion of the Pittsburgh milk supply, has officially protested discontinuance of milk inspection at dairies by the city Department of Health.

When elimination of the inspectors was proposed in Council, as an economy measure, the Allegheny County Medical Society protested and declared dangers would result.

The dairymen's organization resolution forwarded to Council asked:

"That the director of the Department of Public Health be urged to protest against the abandonment of the dairy inspection and to protest against such a curtailment thereof as will make the inspection service ineffective in guaranteeing and securing the people of the city a proper and wholesome milk supply."

SQUIRES TO ASK AID IN WAR ON CORRUPTION

Park's Assistance Sought In Campaign to Purge Ranks of Lawbreakers

District Attorney Andrew T. Park is to be asked to aid in a campaign against justices of the peace and constables suspected of extortion and other unethical practices, officers of the Minor Judiciary Association of Allegheny County revealed today.

The organization, made up of justices of the peace seeking to oust lawbreakers from their ranks, will disclose to the prosecutor "a startling condition existing among these outlawed squires and constables," it was declared.

According to J. T. Halloran, first vice-president of the association, Margaret M. Morgan, treasurer, and Ralph N. Parkhill, chairman of the executive committee, a secret investigation had been conducted for some time of law officers engaged in "shakedown" methods.

Where the evidence warrants, the officers stated, criminal prosecutions will be brought.

The officers of the association made this statement:

"Our organization from its birth has had for one of its cardinal principles the outlawry of all justices of the peace and constables who directly or indirectly violate their oath of office or conduct themselves unethically.

"We will take action against any justice of the peace or constable who in the name of these honorable offices transgresses the law."

Here's Quick Way To Break Up a Cold

Makes You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry — with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hills goes back to first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a newfangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

BUSINESS HERE UNCHANGED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (AP.) Maintenance of previous business conditions in Pennsylvania's two largest cities during the last week was reported yesterday by the President's reemployment organization.

At Pittsburgh employers were said to be planning to maintain present schedules of employment during the remainder of the month, although immediate demands for extra products may not warrant such action.

Seasonal activity has seen a slight decline in wages and employment in the Philadelphia area. Wholesale prices there have reached a new low, while retail sales increased though the increase is not up to average seasonal advances.

Vassar Freshmen Admit Copying Others' Work

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Dec. 10. (AP.) The Vassar Miscellany News, a student publication, says 155 of 171 freshmen who answered a questionnaire admitted copying the work of others in a course in hygiene.

The paper says the freshmen contended that it was not cheating, but the only possible means of completing the work demanded in the course, and that even the copying required 12 hours. The copying occurred in a survey supposed to represent studies of college sanitation facilities.

The paper says the copying was considered a freshmen domination of excessive work required in the course.

DR. KERR URGES SALE OF SEALS

The Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, today broadcasts an appeal for support of the Christmas Seal campaign of the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh from Station KDKA. Dr. Kerr said:

"Wherever one goes throughout the world, one is brought face to face with the white plague. I have seen it in China, in Japan and in every part of the Orient in aggravated form. The situation is better with us, and we owe the cleansing that has come to tireless vigilance of just such organizations as the Tuberculosis League.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Smoke a FRESH cigarette

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

IT DID not take the public long to register how keenly it was wanting a fresh cigarette.

Camel sales started soaring almost from the day the Camel Humidor Pack began to carry air-sealed Camel quality fresh to the smoker.

But the Humidor Pack would mean no more to Camels than it would mean to any other cigarette if Camels were not made fresh to start with.

Camels are made fresh, their natural moisture and delicate flavor vigilantly safeguarded — because the fine Turkish and mild sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos of which they are blended are never parched or toasted — the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

Switch to cigarettes that are truly fresh for just one day — then leave them — if you can.

Mary Refuses to Postpone Trip With Marion

Mary looked at me oddly as I asked her if she did not think she ought to postpone her trip for a day because of Noel's impending arrival. Then she turned to Marion.

"I wonder if she really means it," she said impishly.

Marion, whose face had reflected sudden panic at my proposal, smiled uncertainly.

Marion, whose face had reflected sudden panic at my proposal, smiled uncertainly.

"I hope you don't, Auntie Madge," she said with an appealing look at me. "It would just spoil the party if Mary didn't come along."

"But dear," I pressed the point, knowing that opposition to a course was the one thing needed to set Mary forward in it, and I wished to get her away from the farmhouse before the Veritzens arrived — "after all, Mary is Noel's fiancee. He is just returning from a long absence, and when he comes—"

AN IMPERSONATION

"Let me tell you a little story, Auntie Madge," Mary interrupted, and the next instant she had thrown herself into one of the improvised impersonations with which she occasionally delights us.

"Lissen, all yoh chillens," she said, and magically I saw an old colored mammy with a group of awe-stricken children around her. "oncet dah wuz an ole colored man a settin' by de fiah in h's house, an' pretty soon de doah open, an' a great big black cat he walk in an' he go ovah to de fiah, an' he set down, an' he look at de ole man, an' de ole man he look back, pretty scared, 'cause dat cat he big as a dog, biggest cat de ole man evah saw, but he didn't say nuffin, and de cat he didn't say nuffin, and dere dey bofe sat, lookin' at each othah."

MESSAGE FOR NOEL

"An' when dey bofe had been sittin dah foh a long time," Mary went on, lowering her voice and making dramatic pauses between phrases, "de doah opened agin, an' 'nuvvah cat he come in. An dis cat, he big as a big calf—ole man nevah see nuffin like dat—an de cat he walk ovah to fiah, an he set down opposite first big cat—de one big as a dog, an de two cats look at each othah an' old man he have great cold shivahs runnin' down the back. An' de cat-big-as-a-big-calf, he say deep down in he throat to cat-big-as-a-dog. 'Has Martin come?' an' de fust cat he say, 'No. Martin hain't come yit.' An' de second cat, he heave deep sigh an' he say, 'Well! we kain't do nuffin till Martin comes,' an' he look ole man straight in eye w'en he say dat.

"An' dey sat an' dey sat an' dey sat, an' nobuddy say nuffin moah an' pretty soon doah open, an' in come cat big as a cow. An' he walk ovah to fiah, an' odder cats move ovah, an' he look at ole man, an' he look at odder cats, an' he say, 'has Martin come?' an' de odder cats dey say, 'No. Martin, he hain't come yit,' an' cat-big-as-a-cow he say, 'Well! we kain't do nuffin till Martin comes,' all time lookin' straight at ole man.

"An' den, chillen," Mary paused dramatically, "dat ole man, he got up an' he make low bow to all free cats lookin' at him, and he say, politely:

"'Genemen! w'en Martin comes, will yuh all please tell him I'se went?'"

She shook herself erect again, and the illusion of the bent old colored mammy vanished. But there was bitterness in the laughing, mocking voice which floated back to me as she accompanied Marion out of the door.

"Just substitute 'Noel' for 'Martin,' Auntie Madge, and give him that message from me."

The bitterness disturbed me, although I was relieved at her decision. I had read between the lines of Noel's letter, and realized the scheme, which, all unknown to the boy, his father was concocting, the scheme to throw him with the daughter of his old friend, in the hope that her charm might weaken his allegiance to Mary.

SCHEME KNOWN

It was a scheme which, however, could deceive no one of those who knew the circumstances of the tangled romance which was Noel's and Mary's. Phil Veritzen had pledged his word to me that he would withdraw the ban which he had put upon their marriage, and I knew that he tacitly included in that promise the abandonment of the vicious plot which had for its objective the discrediting of Noel in Mary's eyes and the pauperization of the boy himself.

My close knowledge of my former employer's traits made me certain that he would keep his word to the last syllable. But the contents of Noel's letter to Mary had made me realize how cunningly he was trying to gain his object of separating Mary from Noel, without doing anything which savored in the slightest degree of coercion.

For the first time since Noel had confided his love for Mary to me, I had a doubt of my course in actively aiding the boy's suit. Was it possible that he might be a living illustration of the old proverb, "Like father, like son"? If so, would happiness for Mary lie in a marriage with him?"

Fay King Advises All to Do Best to Relieve Depression Conditions

By FAY KING

Whether you go to movies or the opera, have tea for two or a grand banquet, it all helps put money into circulation.

Those whose entertainments and expenditures are condemned by some as being too extravagant for these hard times must remember that the places these persons patronize are manned by those who depend upon them for employment.

And it is as important to help the employed retain their positions as it is to help the unemployed.

Those who are fortunate enough to be able to help both are a very important factor in bringing things back to normal.

If we do all we can in every direction conditions are going to be much better very soon.

Tell It to Sally

By SALLY MARTIN

People Have Right to Try Again After Erring

"Is the girl who is in love with a married man always wrong? Can't her love be just as fine and true as if he were free?"

That's Dolly's question.

Is it wrong for them to see each other—to plan for their future together, when he has his divorce?

Maybe you will think it is.

Maybe you will think it isn't.

Read her letter, then tell us your answer.

"Dear Sally:

"Please tell me what you think about my problem, won't you? I have heard girls who fell in love with married men spoken of very harshly and called 'love pirates.' But are they, always? Are they always in the wrong? Don't you believe that such a girl's love can be just as clean and true as if the man weren't married?

"Well, anyway, here is my story.

"I am a girl of 18. I work in an office, make a good salary and live at home. I met Frank (I will call him that) at a friend's house, about a year ago. After going out with him three or four times, he confided to me that he was married, but that he was no longer living with his wife. She had left him and is now living in another city.

They were married only seven months when they separated. They haven't seen each other for over a year. Now he loves me and I love him. We are planning on getting married in about two years, allowing plenty of time to be sure we really want to marry.

"He is saving his money now so he can get a divorce, and as soon as he has it, he is going on a boat (his work), and will be gone about a year. When he comes back, we plan to be married.

"Do you think we are wrong to love each other when he is still married? He is 22. He is a nice, sensible lad, and we are trying to face the facts clearly. My people do not know that he is not free. We see other people, and have told no one about our plans. We don't want anybody to talk.

"Why shouldn't we love each other? Everyone makes mistakes, and regrets them afterward. He speaks very kindly of his wife, but he doesn't love her, nor she him. They both tried earnestly to make a go of it—and failed. Why should I give him up on that account?

"Please tell me what you think. I know you said a girl who fell in love with a married man was a poacher. But was that fair? Do you think I should be called that? "DOLLY."

It was fair for the kind of girl I meant when I said it, youngster. Any woman who knowingly walks in and tries to grab off another woman's man is a cheat and a poacher.

But you didn't do that, if what you say is true. You didn't meet Frank until after his home was already smashed. And people do have a right to try again, when they make mistakes.

But be very sure that he is trying—that he honestly means to get that divorce, Dolly.

Household Hints

To remove perspiration stains from clothing, soak the garment in water to which a teaspoonful of ammonia has been added. Then rub the stain with freshly-cut lemon and wash thoroughly.

Windows cleaned with paraffin remain bright longer than when washed with water; also, rain does not mark them so quickly. Marks can be removed from tiles by rubbing them with paraffin.

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wearing His Corsage

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When going to a dance and wearing the corsage that your escort sent you, should it be worn on the coat or on the dress and on the shoulder, or just where is the correct place to wear it? MISS E.

Wear this floral accessory just where it looks best . . and that will be the correct place for it. Often it is convenient to wear it on your coat going to the dance, transferring it when you arrive to your dress. And usually, at a dance, it is easier to wear a corsage, if it is small, on the shoulder of your frock.

Introducing Sisters

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me the correct way to introduce sisters? Do you introduce them separately or together, that is what is puzzling me? L.

Insofar as we can, we should always introduce people separately. This gives them the dignity and honor that is due people when we make the gracious gesture of an introduction. An introduction shouldn't be hastily done or casually done or "impersonally" done.

Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

The Challenge

Because many players hold different ideas concerning how high a bid may be doubled informatorially, some clubs allow players to inquire the meaning of doubles; sometimes tournament players are permitted to make similar inquiries; in some circles the doubler adds the words "informatory" or "business" to clarify his meaning; other groups of players say "I challenge" in case they wish partner to bid, using the words "I double" to mean that partner should not bid, either expression doubling the trick values of the adverse declaration.

The Knickerbocker Whist Club, New York, has the more complicated rules that follow:

1. Any player whose partner has not bid, doubled or challenged may in his proper turn, after either opponent has bid (or doubled), say "I challenge." It shall then be mandatory upon his partner either (a) to bid or (b) to double the opponent's declaration, unless the challenge is in the meantime overcalled by the other opponent. (c) If the partner of the challenger pass in error, the pass shall be regarded as a double.

2. If the partner of the challenger double, the latter must pass, unless there is an adverse bid, redouble or challenge.

3. The adversary at the left of the challenger may either (a) pass, (b) bid, or (c) say "Challenge accepted." This "acceptance" informs the player's partner that his holdings are stronger than would be indicated by a "pass." The partner of the challenger thereupon has the option of passing, bidding, or doubling; but if the accepted challenge be passed to the challenger, the latter must either bid or double.

4. A player who challenges after a bid, double, or challenge has been made by his partner shall be considered to have made an insufficient bid, and his side shall be subjected to the penalty provided therefor.

5. When a player's bid has been challenged and doubled, he may challenge in turn, whereupon his partner must bid or redouble. If the latter pass in error, the pass shall be regarded as a redouble.

You will note that the above use of the challenge does not change the trick value of the declaration, nor does the acceptance of the challenge in turn, whereupon a challenge and an acceptance, a bid of 1-spade still has a trick value of only 30 points. That trick value becomes doubled only in case the challenger's partner doubles, instead of bidding, or in case he passes in "in error." The idea of some distinctive word to show whether a doubler wants his partner to respond is good, but I consider it unfortunate that so complicated a process as the above should have been adopted by so prominent a club.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Heartburn Is Usually Symptom of Indigestion

One of man's many complaints is heartburn, but it is not a symptom or sign of trouble with the heart. Many people have the impression that it is, but this is not the case.

Dr. Copeland

It is caused by a disturbance in the stomach. When the distress call comes it is from the stomach and not from the heart. The stomach is located just below the heart. When there is an excessive accumulation of gas in the stomach, from any cause, the stomach becomes distended. As a result of this distension, the stomach presses upward and against the heart, giving the impression that the pain comes from that organ.

Those who do not chew their food carefully, but bolt it instead, are those likely to have this complaint. They forget that the stomach is not the chief organ of digestion. What the stomach does is to prepare the food so that it may be passed on to the small intestines. To have this done quickly, proper chewing of the food is important.

When food is chewed thoroughly in the mouth, saliva is abundantly secreted and added to the mixture. This saliva contains certain substances which aid in digestion. But when the food is swallowed without chewing, the important digestive action of the saliva is omitted.

Chewing does more than I have suggested. In addition, it stimulates the flow of the stomach juices. This is important, because the gastric juice further aids in preparing the food for proper digestion.

I am very anxious to make clear what is your duty about preparing the food you eat. When food is hastily eaten, improperly chewed and quickly swallowed, a greater burden is placed upon the stomach than nature intended it to have. This violation of the rules is frequently shown by gas formation, with all its discomforts.

One should never eat under undue excitement. Meals should be taken under pleasant surroundings. Pleasant thoughts as well as pleasant conversation, tend to stimulate the important digestive juices.

In heartburn there is usually a feeling of burning and distress in the stomach. One cause for this is the excessive secretion of hydrochloric acid.

Sufferers from this complaint have learned by experience that the taking of bicarbonate of soda relieves them of the discomfort. It is true that temporary relief is obtained. The excessive acid formation is neutralized by the soda.

These people continue abusing their digestive organs and continuing taking their own remedy. This is a foolish practice. It is far wiser to discover what is causing the distress rather than to be satisfied with temporary relief. If you can find the cause and remove it, there will be a permanent cure.

If may be difficult to locate the trouble. To do so may require thorough examination by a physician. In some cases the cause may be an ulcer or other trouble in the stomach, which may be determined by an X-ray examination.

If you have heartburn it is best for you to consult a physician. He will outline a diet and give you the proper instructions. Then you will be wise to follow these.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

If the lady with the feather bed shape isn't up to dieting and exercise, she should at least attempt good posture and select frocks and coats of lines and colors that disguise width, shade it down.

At the first sign of pimples on the face, treatment should begin. It is when acne becomes chronic, invades the deeper layers or tissues, that it is difficult to cure. Soap, being antiseptic and a killer of ordinary germs, should be used freely. Hot applications bring pimples to a head.

Hard water is an enemy to the skin. A safe softening agent is made by combining six ounces of rubbing alcohol, one-half ounce of ammonia, one dram of oil of lavender flowers. Add a teaspoonful to a bowlful of water.

If the boy friend is wondering what to give his best girl, he will be playing safe by purchasing for her a beauty kit for traveling. She will find use for it, even if she travels no further than to the office, and back again. Many manufacturers of high grade cosmetics put them up in containers, fit them in a leather case that resembles a purse.

Mrs. Shelley Was Only 20 When She Turned Out 'Frankenstein'

BY GEORGE SEIBEL

Few of the thousands that will see "Frankenstein," the picture in the Stanley, will know that it was written by the wife of the poet Shelley when she was only 20 years old. She eloped with Shelley at the mature age of 17. When they were together with Byron in Switzerland and Italy, telling ghost stories was one of their diversions. As a result of those evenings, Byron wrote a story called "The Vampire," which his doctor put into final form. Mrs. Shelley's "Frankenstein" was published in 1817 and immediately became one of the world's most famous tales of horror.

Few people also know that Mary [illegible] wrote the historic row Shelley was in [illegible] over the character of Shylock. William Godwin, [illegible] which made Jewish people view English authors and [illegible] as a vile race and an insult. I [illegible] the late Richard Mansfield who [illegible] that opinion nor did the late Edwin Booth. Mansfield who [illegible] apostle of [illegible] held that Shylock was the only [illegible] sympathetic character in the play, [illegible] because [illegible] the Christians are far more [illegible] treacherous, merciless, dishonest and [illegible] than Shylock.

[illegible] how [illegible] If we are to heed the protests [illegible] we may [illegible] Othello as a libel [illegible] upon the Negroes, while the Greeks have every reason to object to "Troilus and Cressida" and of course all the twins will protest against "The Comedy of Errors."

George Seibel

[illegible] died in 1851. But Frankenstein is the only one read nowadays.

In her story of student Frankenstein creates the monster eight feet high which has human form but the most inhuman instincts. It murders his friend and strangles his bride. Frankenstein pursues the monster to the Arctic regions where he perishes of hunger and cold amid the snow and ice.

In the picture the horror of the story has been considerably mitigated, and a happy ending provided. The best idea would have been, of course, to make the wastes of snow and ice out of sugar and cream, which Frankie could discover as he was perishing and absorb in order to revive him sufficiently to slay the monster.

But it's a grand and glorious thriller just the same—with the same sort of shudder we got out of "The Golem" and "R U R."

MONACTOR MAKES DEBUT

The tabloid tendency in everything has now struck the stage and in New York City one player who calls himself a "monactor" is presenting "Hamlet" and "David Garrick." His name is Philadelphia Rice, and his last is in the Town Hall. He impersonates 25 different characters in one evening, 16 of them in "Hamlet" and the other 9 in "David Garrick." He changes his personality by just walking around a chair. But his most remarkable feat, which should make Howard Thurston jealous, is the duel scene. As Hamlet he first slays himself; as Laertes he then repeats this suicidal assassination of himself as the King; and finally he dies heroically as Hamlet and pronounces his own funeral oration as Horatio.

One thing can be said about the "monactor"—that it does not require much railroad fare to transport the company from town to town. But how will that help railroad stocks?

The daughter of Otis Skinner, the very gifted and very charming Cornelia Otis Skinner, has been doing the same thing in an entertainment called "The Wives of Henry VIII." But it is not recorded that she chops off her own head in any part of the entertainment. So Philadelphia is ahead of her in that.

After I had seen O'Neill's play "Mourning Becomes Electra," in the Guild Theater, I knew it would have such a long run in New York City that another company would have to be organized for the road. This is now being done. Judith Anderson will play the role taken by Alice Brady and Florence Reed that of Alla Nazimova. The new company will start in January and is sure to be in Pittsburgh early during the coming year.

Congress in Metrotone Newsie

THE GLOBE TROTTER

With the eyes of the nation centered upon Washington, Hearst Metrotone News presents scenes of the opening of the Seventy-second Congress and the antics of the Democrats who are again in control after 12 lean years. Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, is shown presiding over the first session of the House, of which he was elected speaker in succession to his old friendly enemy, the late Nicholas Longworth.

The riot scenes attending the disarmament meeting held in the Paris Trocadero are shown. Former Premier Herriot presides and representatives of 30 nations are in attendance. The roar of the Nationalists interrupts the speech of Herriott, but it is not until former United States Ambassador Houghton attempts to speak that the interruptions break all bounds.

LIGHTS ARE DIMMED

Lights are temporarily dimmed to quiet the mob, but as soon as they are raised again a crowd rushes the platform, tips over the speakers' table and the fist fights begin all over again. Finally, gendarmes force their way through the struggling mass and quell one of the most disgraceful scenes of the kind ever witnessed at a public meeting.

The last test flight of Lowell Bayles, speed ace who met his death a few minutes later is shown. Bayles, seated in his plane, jokes with a friend and then starts off. In a short time the little machine is shown rushing through the air at 300 miles an hour. Then it disappears into the haze, never to return. There is a graphic description of the fatal test by the Globe Trotter.

LARGEST SHIP CHRISTENED

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the former president, christens the "Manhattan," biggest merchant steamship ever built in the United States. Swinging a bottle containing water from each of the 48 states, Mrs. Roosevelt sends the ship down its ways at Camden, N. J.

From Cuba are pictures of professional wine testers testing the new year crop. It isn't like testing tea. The object seems to be to see who can consume the most at one drink. The winner finally downs a quart and a half without taking a breath—nor batting an eye.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare, costs little, and saves money, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.

Romance has looked up in Hollywood in 1931. According to my count, there were 27 film weddings during the year, while only 16 marital barks hit the rocks.

It also should be worthy of note that one couple, the James Gleasons, celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary.

Some of the most glamorous stars in filmdom are now embarked on that notoriously trying first year. For instance, Constance Bennett and the Marquise Henry de la Falaise; Gloria Swanson and Michael Farmer; Winifred Coe and Richard Dix; June Collyer and Stuart Erwin; Carole Lombard and William Powell; Dorothy Mackaill and Neil Miller; Virginia Valli and Charles Farrell; Helen Twelvetrees and Frank Woody (they were married twice, March 21 in Reno and April 21 in Santa Cruz); Clara Bow and Rex Bell; Kay Francis and Kenneth MacKenna; Mary Astor and Dr. Franklin Thorpe; Lola Lane and Lew Ayres; Nancy Carroll and Bolton Mallary, and Mrs. Rea Langham and Clark Gable.

Dorothy Mackaill

Other film marriages of the year were: Janet Gattis and John McCormick (since divorced); Marjorie Moss and Edmund Goulding; Nan Sutherland and Walter Huston; Virginia Shelley and Frank Albertson; Beatrice Powers and James Kirkwood; Eleanor Merry and Tom Moore; June McCloy and Schuyler Schenck; Majorie Rambeau and Francis Gudger; Mary Nolan and Wallace Macreery; Dorothy Appleby and Morgan Galloway; Rita La Roy and Ben Hirschfield; Arline Judge and Wesley Ruggles, and Hazel Woolf and Lewis Stone.

On the other side of the ledger are the cooled-off romances of Helene Costello and Lowell Sherman; Estelle Taylor and Jack Dempsey; Janet Gattis and John McCormack; Frances Marion and George Hill; Grace and Lawrence Tibbett; Ann and Don Alvarado; Dorothy Lee and Jimmy Fidler; Irene Rich and David Blankenhorn; Loretta Young and Grant Withers; Ginger Rogers and Jack Pepper; Ina Clair and Jack Gilbert; Jeane Kent and Robert Armstrong; Edna Murphy and Mervyn Leroy; Edna May Oliver and D. W. Pratty (separated several years ago but divorce filed this year); Frances Beranger and Don Cook and the Cliff Edwards.

LATEST GOSSIP

Virginia Bruce (Ziegfeld took her East and M. G. M. hired her back) and Robert Young are that way. . . . Danny Danker is going with Drucilla Dunn. . . . Maureen O'Sullivan says she's between romances. . . . Warner Brothers are seeking doubles for Mayor Jimmie Walker and Grover Whalen. . . . Phillips Holmes is on his way to New York by boat. He continues on to England. . . . A fiery-haired Los Angeles girl got a screen test because she had a fight with her husband in a restaurant. Director Marcel de Sano happened to be in the next booth and was so impressed by her fervor that he asked her to come out to M. G. M. and try out for the role in "The Red-Headed Woman."

Sane Sex Interest Seen As Hollywood Need

Clean adventure and sane sex interest in motion pictures are the elements most in demand by the public right now, according to Edgar Wallace, England's most prolific novelist and playwright, who is in New York en route to Hollywood to work on a new picture.

Wallace declares that these two elements can never be divorced from any form of story-telling that pretends to reflect life.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Remaining true to romantic ideals, a young couple "carry on" in a world of changing viewpoints, materialism and temptation in "The House Beautiful," Channing Pollock's new play that will be given in the Alvin next week as the third offering sponsored by the Professional Players. In the play they are Archie and Jennifer, alias James Bell and Mary Philips. The box office is solving the seat problem now. The matinee trade will be catered to Wednesday and Saturday.

Small Timer says the man who always can find something to be cheerful about probably is laughing because he won't have to wrestle with an income tax statement next year.

Only three more days of "As Husbands Go" which figures up to a mere four shows, one of them the Saturday matinee, remain before the Nixon takes a sleeping powder. So yud better hurry.

Small Timer says it is true that he takes orders from his wife, but so does everybody else who has any new gadget to sell.

It is said our pitcher censors make 50 per cent more cuts than the boards of any other state. Cecelia (Cissie to older heads) Loftus has been engaged for "The Devil Passes," to be produced by Arch Selwyn. It is by Benn W. Levy. . . . Lillian Roth will step out of "Vanities" with the week-end. . . . The new G. Arliss pict., "The Man Who Played God," has just gone into production, with Violet Heming among the support. . . . Betty Bronson, of the fillms, will play the leading femme role in a stage production of "Twelfth Night". . . . Maurice Chevalier's "Love Me Tonight," to follow his "One Hour With You," will have music by those Broadway hit writers Richard Rogers and Lorenz Hart.

Walter Winchell On Broadway

(Copyright, 1931, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

That "X Marks the Spot" flicker at the Broadway does kindly by the craft, at that . . . I was under the impression that Hollywood would avenge itself in manufacturing that movie—and hurl back a brick or two at the columnars who cover the Broadway Scene . . . They "humanize" the type, instead . . . He is a hero! . . . Of all things! . . . Leave it to the West-Coasters to exaggerate What Really Goes On in the Editorial Rooms . . . Heheheh. . . . The managing editor has an affectionate regard for the columnist! . . . Yeh-yeh—in Reel Life, perhaps . . . The editor saves the boy from prison! . . . Haw! . . . Miss Pelswick, the moom-pitcher oracle for the Junnel, reports that the screen columnist isn't as handsome as any of the local Broadway scriveners "who may think themselves the original of the character" . . . Well, mebbeso, mebbeso . . . For Wallace Ford has a contagious manner, and he wears his clothes well—and he is a personal actor, too . . . The locals covering Broadway, however, give better performances in the theater foyers, or at the cafes . . . Maybe someday, when it can be arranged, a columnist will find time to jot down what actually happens . . . It'll be a howl a second! . . . The denouement will carry a devastating punch, too . . . The managing editor will be seen being pushed out of the top story of the tallest edifice with the columnist jumping after him to make certain that his editor doesn't break his fall . . . (Don't wake me up—lemme dream!)

A woman like that woman rates a salute . . . After a quarrel that parted her from her husband, they were reconciled, and she listened attentively to his problems and his heartaches . . . The most important of them being the first wife, who was threatening a term in the Yellimony Jail because he was in arrears . . . So what did the Mrs. No. 2 do? . . . She took her costly stones to the hock-shops and swapped them for ready currency . . . And turned it over to her husband to pay off the annoying frau . . . Greater Love Hath No Second Wife . . . That "Two-Gun" Crowley kid must be dizzy . . . He has his Sing Sing boudoir decorated with all the pictures of the Chair he can find . . . And when someone asked him why—he answered that he wanted to get better acquainted with the Hot Squat . . . The bankers who took over Hammerstein's are strictly business men, of course . . . Regardless of the sentimental tales told they dispossessed Vincent Youmans and his rehearsing players because of This and That . . . Sure! If you have the necessary What-it-Takes you may rent their temples of amusement . . . Wall street is like the night club hostess, after all. . . . "How much have you got?"—"How can I get it?" and "I want it!!!" . . . Yes, indeedy. The height of being friendless along Broadway is to be broke and look like it.

I always wondered what the significance was to that showfolk squelch: "Aw, I hope all your children become acrobats!" . . . Meaning what? . . . The full line should be: "I hope all your children become acrobats—and never give you a tumble!" . . . Nice of those kids from the Senate Boys' Ass'n to help me that way . . . Lucky for me they were good mechanics . . . Those hospitals that refuse to administer gas to injured children at the point of death until the fee is paid ought to be closed! . . . What sort of Humanity is that? . . . When Jimmy gets back—I'll ask him . . . Lamaze's amazes me—with the gag of charging diners $1 for bread and butter . . . And the place is crowded incessantly! . . . On week-end eves you pay an extra smacker for "couvert!" . . . And if you squawk, you are politely told that your check is torn up—but please do not come in again . . . The handsomest of the night-places, though . . . A tony atmosphere and tasty vittels . . . New York never saw a spot like it before . . . Except in the movies.

You're never missed on Broadway . . . I keep telling them—but they won't take me to heart . . . That stage manager friend of Bob Ames, frinstance . . . Ina Claire's brother, who wanted a committee of actors to be present at Bob's Last Ride . . . He called Jimmy Ashley on the phone . . . The phone didn't answer . . . He hadn't learned that his friend, Ashley, had died a fortnight before.

Funny about that new male star—who has two of his own teeth—one up and one down . . . The cameraman say he has the sort of skin they love to re-touch . . . Amazing tale that one about those renowned screen sweethearts—who have discovered too late That Is Was Love! . . . That newsreel which shows the local police burning $250,000 worth of drugs, including morphine, in a furnace, certainly reveals somebody's lack of economics . . . Why not turn that stuff which costs so much over to the hospitals? . . . And help relieve the tax sitch-ee-ay-shun?

Funny about John Mason Brown, the critic . . . He was lecturing on the draymah at Columbia University and one of stewies asked him what he thought of the recent suggestion here that newspapers ought to change their critics annually . . . John chirped: "Well, most of them do!" . . . I like Alex Woollcoot's sum-up on "Lady Chatterley's Lover" . . . He writes in his mag that a copy of it was solemnly bound in a pebbly and implausible black leather which soon began to warp, like a shoe left overlong on a cold closet floor by some careless fellow who thinks that "only God can make a tree" . . . Something ought to be done about Bess Conwell, of Cadiz, O., who now is here, having a most difficult time existing in a converted baggage room in the basement of a hotel . . . She rates rent free because of her patronage in the days when her late husband was a good customer—maybe her friends will help? . . . She is the widow of Dustin Farnum, one of the grander actors . . . She once was his leading lady in "The Virginian" . . . The stores are jammed with Yuletide shoppers, yet Art Jarrett still thinks times are so tough that many people will be wearing their Xmas trees in their buttonholes.

Old Dobbin as Film Aide

More silver is used by the motion picture industry than by the United States Mint, according to Max Fleischer, producer of Paramount's Talkartoons and Screen Songs.

One large manufacturer of picture film alone uses four tons of the precious metal each week. It is purchased in large bricks and ground into fine powder. This dust is sensitized and evenly coated over celluloid to make the picture that you see.

To make the powder stick, a solution, or bed, is flowed over the celluloid. This bed is made from ground up horses' hoofs and hides. It is hard to believe that such beautiful and sentimental scenes can be seen through the remnants of poor old Dobbin.

ASK ABOUT DOPE

Dear Little Girls:—

Rainy days do not seem to lessen the interest in my "Honeybu . . . distribution. Well, I suppose that's because when the cold and rainy day come along and little girls can't get out in the open, they all wish they ha a dolly for a playmate. So, to my mind, the children get their interest s on dolls—particularly just before the Christmas holiday. And I guess that why every little girl in Pittsburgh and vicinity has her mind set on gettir one of my lovable "Honeybunches."

They are easy to get—so eas hat no little girl need be withou ne. She's such a big adorable do that every little girl who h already been given one is hea over heels in love with it.

I never get tired writing abou Honeybunch." To me she's ju my own dear, sweet baby girl. Every time one goes out, and they are going out by the score every day, I am given a thrill of satisfaction almost as great as that of the little girl who takes her away in her arms.

We had an awful time with on ittle girl at the Doll Lady's headquarters yesterday. The minute "Honeybunch" was given to her she wanted to carry it home in her own arms. Well, the trouble seemed to be that this particular little girl, with her stamping little feet, was too small to carry her big "Honeybunch" and her mother just wouldn't let her do it. I guess the tears dried pretty quickly when she got home and she actually got her little arms around that big doll. I hope so, anyway.

All the little girls seem to have discovered that "Honeybunch" is different than any other doll, that "Honeybunch" is absolutely beautiful and that this lovable dolly can do a lot of cute things that real live babies can do. "Honeybunch" is almost as big as some of the little girls who have already taken her home—just about 20 inches tall. She has a smile that spreads sunshine and her eyes laugh with her. Yes, they open and close and her darling voice reaches your heart every time you hear it. "Honeybunch" is gorgeously dressed in dainty organdy with lace cap and shoes and stockings to match. She has rubber arms and hands that you can wash and she is as nearly unbreakable as a doll can be made.

There isn't space in this announcement to print the names of all the little girls who have already secured a "Honeybunch" doll. Here, however, are just a few who live outside of Pittsburgh: Mary G. Harris, California; Mary A. Gunn, Langeloth; Margaret Whitmore, Connellsville; Ruth Hollender, Pricedale; Shirley Winning, Uniontown; Gwendolyn Cunningham, Mt. Pleasant; Dorothy Gaffney, Punxsutawney; Mary Ann Barcany, Republic; Wanda Luce, Langeloth; Thelma J. Steffey, Blairsville; Catherine Gladd, Marianna, Pa.

CUB-CARD SWAP GAMBLE IN FUTURES

THE BIG BASEBALL trade whereby Outfielder Hack Wilson goes from the Cubs to the Cardinals along with Pitcher Bud Teachout in exchange for Pitcher Burleigh Grimes is one of that kind which can't be sized up at the time of the making. Nothing short of the 1932 season itself can determine which club, if either, got the better of it, because on both sides it was a gamble in futures, unless St. Louis, as reported, has a further step in mind and plans to ship Wilson along to another team in a second swap.

In the case of Grimes the gamble has to do with age. Burleigh, who has been with every club in the National League except the Phils and Reds, will be 39 next August 18, has been pitching professional ball 19 years, more than 15 of them in the big show, and he probably hasn't much farther to go. Just how far is where the gamble comes in.

Hack Wilson

In the case of Wilson, the question on which the club obtaining him takes a chance is whether he can, after a disappointing season in 1931, regain the batting form that made him home-run king in 1930 and one of the greatest sluggers and run-producers in the main tent.

ANY EDGE FOR either side in the exchange depends on the outcome of the respective gambles and nothing but the test of another playing season can bring the answer. If Wilson succeeds in making a come-back he may swing the advantage to the side of the Cards, as he is seven years younger than Grimes, and, with another star pitcher coming up in Dizzy Dean, the Redbirds could afford to let Burleigh go for the new offensive strength Hack would represent in the recovery of his former stride.

But until Wilson has actually made such a come-back there will appear to be an edge for the Cubs in the deal. For one year, at least, Grimes looks like a better winter gamble than Wilson. Besides, keeping Hack any longer was out of the question in Chicago. He would have been a total loss to the Bruins, so that anything obtained for him is that much profit. If you narrow it down, therefore, the Cubs have improved themselves in their pitching department to the extent of the difference in ability between Grimes and Teachout, which is considerable.

AS A GENERAL rule, too, when a club demands two players in exchange for one, it admits that it is giving up a better man than either of the two it receives.

And baseball is a sport, or a business, in which quantity of material will not offset or counterbalance quality. Dozens of mediocre players would not be worth as much to a club as one real star.

THERE'S ANOTHER ANGLE from which the Cubs are certain to profit by the deal. That is, in getting Grimes they are removing a thorn from their own collective side. They won't have to bat against Burleigh any longer, and, if you don't think that's going to help them, just take a look at the figures. Up to the end of the 1925 season, Chicago had an edge on Grimes, 18 games won from him against 14 lost, but since that time no other pitcher in the National League has done as much damage to the Bruins as the veteran spitballer. He beat them in five out of six games in 1926, in two out of three in 1927, in four out of five in 1928, in five out of six in 1929, in two out of four in 1930 and in five out of five last year. They haven't won a game from Burleigh since August 29, 1930, and in the last six seasons they have beaten him only six times, while losing to him on 23 occasions. So they're that much ahead, even if Grimes doesn't win a game for them.

Chick Davies

THE SCHEDULE OF 20 games announced today for the Duquesne University basketball team is one of the most attractive and difficult cards the Bluffites have ever attempted. Coach Chick Davies and his squad are now working steadily toward the opening game January 5 at Grove City.

The current Red and Blue basketeers are certain to be a fast-moving and quick-thinking aggregation, according to no less an authority than Coach Davies himself. And that's a strong statement coming from the peppery Duke mentor. Prospects are bright for the Bluffites if the practice settos already played mean anything.

FOR THE FIRST time the Dukes will meet both Pitt and Carnegie Tech. The Bluff lads have met the Tartans in basketball but this is the first time both Pitt and Carnegie have graced a Red and Blue schedule.

Coach Davies will show his team frequently on alien floors, no fewer than 11 of the 20 games being slated for cities other than Pittsburgh. And of the remaining nine contests only six are booked for the Duke floor, as one is to be played in the Stadium pavilion and two at the Carnegie Tech gym.

THE FIRST CONTEST in the Duke gym will be played on January 9 with West Virginia Wesleyan. That will be the Dukes' only appearance on their own floor in their first 12 games of the season, as the opener is to be played at Grove City and following the home curtain raiser the Davies passers will play one game at Pitt, one at Lewisburg, three in Washington, one at Carnegie Tech, and four in New York and Brooklyn. Then will come the remaining five games at home with Geneva, Adrain, George Washington, Grove City and Georgetown, after which the Dukes will go into the final stretch in enemy gyms against West Virginia, Geneva and Carnegie, winding up on March 4. That spells a lot of tough ball games, but Davies says he has a real club and he generally knows what he's talking about.

EARL SHEELY, veteran first baseman and former Pirate who has been commuting between the Coast League and the majors, probably has made his last trip over that route, as indicated by the announcement that the Braves have sold him, along with Catcher Bill Cronin, to Los Angeles.

The White Sox shunted him to the Pacific loop and the Pirates brought him back. The Bucs returned him to the same circuit and the Braves brought him back. Now the Hubites also have dropped him to the Coast league, and at the age of 37 he'll hardly get another chance in the majors. Slowness of foot, resulting from an injury, is Sheely's fatal flaw. As a receiver of thrown balls there's nobody in his class.

A PITTSBURGH BOY distinguishing himself in prep school football this year to such an extent as to be awarded state-wide honors was John M. Trainer, of 945 Ridge avenue.

He was captain and star tackle of the Hun School team, of Princeton, N. J., and played such a brilliant game throughout the season that New Jersey sports writers selected him as one of the tackles on the 1931 all-state eleven.

John M. Trainer

TRAINER WILL RECEIVE his letter at a victory dinner of the Hun School, to be held in New York Saturday evening. Under the Pittsburgh lad's leadership, Hun School enjoyed one of its most successful gridiron seasons in recent years, amassing 147 points against only 16 scored by their opponents, winning six out of seven games and blanking five of the opposing teams. Victories were scored over Newton Academy, Gettysburg Academy, Drexel College Juniors, St. Peter's Prep, Penn Military Freshmen and Valley Forge Military Academy. The lone defeat came in the game with Blair Academy and resulted from a safety, the final score being 9 to 7.

By CARL W. SHATTO

Fast and Gillie Jimmy Herperts and a few other rough-and-ready Olympics who mixed flat fighting with their hockey as they absorbed seven straight defeats at the hands of the Yellow Jackets last season, will have a new supporting cast in their battle to avert a repetition of their 1930-31 humiliation as the Detroit International Hockey Leaguers make their debut at Duquesne Garden tonight.

George Hay, who used to come here to do a little left winging against the Pirates when he was a member of the Detroit National League aggregation, was at the helm as the Olympics steamed into town today. George, still quite a nifty forward, is performing at center for his team, and he is flanked by Gillie and Roy Goldsworthy, the latter one of the fastest skaters in the paid brigade.

Goldsworthy performs at right wing, as does Frank Ingram, the Jackets speed star. When Roy and Frank skate out to open hostilities, the two fastest performers in the International loop will be on the ice at the same time.

OLYMPICS STRENGTHENED

When he took over the reins at the opening of the current campaign, Hay obtained Rockburn and Peters, former National Leaguers, to bolster his defense. Peters is one of the main cogs in the Olympics' attack, and Rockburn is perhaps the most pugnacious performer in the loop. Newman, a forward, is another former National Leaguer now on the Olympics' payroll.

Hay and his new talent succeeded in holding the Jackets to a 3-3 tie in Detroit recently, and they don't figure to give up without a struggle in tonight's battle here.

Gordy Fraser, defense ace of the locals, who has been used very sparingly since he injured his knee in the Windsor game here last Thursday, probably won't see a great deal of action tonight, but it is the mental condition of the officials, rather than the physical condition of his players, that has Coach Charley Reid worried.

In Windsor, on Tuesday, one L. J. Flozdale, a ruddy-faced, portly 200-pounder and a stranger to the Jackets, took over the duties of referee. Late in the first period little Eddie Rodden collided with Mr. Flozdale in making a quick pivot, and Mr. Flozdale sat down with no little violence. When the Windsor fans roared at Mr. Flozdale's discomfort he decided that he had to do something to heal his wounded pride, and handed Rodden a five-minute major penalty.

COACH REID PROTESTS

This sent Coach Reid's blood pressure soaring, but Charley retained sufficient presence of mind to point out to the official that he (Flozdale) was not a member of the Windsor team and that no penalty could be meted out, because the play, in so far as Windsor was concerned, had not been interfered with in any way. He also pointed out that Flozdale's proper procedure, if he sought balm and restitution, was to plaster a fine on Rodden, but Flozdale turned a deaf ear to Reid's sound logic, and the play proceeded. Windsor scored two goals while the Jackets were short-handed without reason, and the locals' success string was broken.

Whitey Fields will give Fraser plenty of relief tonight, and the Jackets are not worried on that score, but Coach Reid is going to have smelling salts at hand to pass around in the event an official is accidentally spilled. The probable lineup:

Pittsburgh		Detroit
Cox	G	Vesey
Fraser	L. D.	Rockburn
Berlett	R. D.	Peters
Rodden	C.	Hay
Arbour	L. W.	Gillie
Ingram	R. W.	Goldsworthy

Death Takes Former Lafayette Gridder

Dr. Conti, who graduated from the Pitt dental school after completing his course at Lafayette, played for Sutherland in 1921, 1922 and 1923.

Pat Malone Blames Failure on Golf

SANDUSKY, O., Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Golf was responsible for the losses of Pat Malone, pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, on the mound during the past season, he admitted here upon his return home from a hunting jaunt in Pennsylvania.

"I couldn't think of anything else but golf," he said. "But next season I am going to deliver the goods."

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: TOMMY DOWLER, OF COLGATE—Dowler played so spectacularly early in the season of 1929 that W. A. Reid, graduate manager of Colgate University, kept accurate record of his performance during the balance of the season. His season record is remarkable, but the most astounding part of it is that he scored within the first five minutes in every game he played—eight out of Colgate's nine games—five times on triple reverse plays, twice on passes and once from a punt received on his own 45-yard line. THE FUEL COST OF A TON-MILE OF FREIGHT—Scientific research of fuel consumption on railroads has shown that locomotives of the modern type, with pushers and tender-engines, burn comparatively little coal for the amount of freight they move. A one-and-two-thirds ounce lump of bituminous coal will move one ton of freight one mile, and at that rate it would cost only 48 cents for fuel to move one ton from New York to Los Angeles. THE PRISONER OF OAHU—The unusual prison record of Oriemon (Happy) Fujihara started at Honokaa, Hawaii, in July, 1900, when he was sentenced to be hanged at the Hilo jail for the murder of one of his fellow Japanese farm hands. On the day before he was to be executed Happy escaped—no one knows how—and he then spent eight peaceful years in Waimea. After his capture there the death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, and, in 1919, he was pardoned. But, on October 24, 1931, he was convicted of arson and again sentenced to life imprisonment—thus having been sentenced twice to life imprisonment and once to be hanged. OLD ENGLISH MONEY—Before the invention of modern coin, people's fortunes consisted of gold and silver formed into various ring-shaped ornaments which they could carry on their person. The horn-shaped money dates from that ancient period in the history of exchange. The wedding ring now placed on the finger of the bride is a survival of that period when the ring constituted the price paid in wife purchase.

TOMORROW: A REAL FAMILY OF NEWSPAPERMEN.

YALE RETAINS MAL STEVENS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Mal Stevens, who brought to Yale this season its first Big Three championship in four years, has been reappointed head football coach by the Yale Athletic Board of Control. The appointment, which is for one year, will bring Stevens back in 1932 for his fifth consecutive year as head coach. The board also reappointed Adam Walsh, former Notre Dame star, as line coach, and Charles Comerford as end coach.

Albie Booth, captain of the 1931 eleven, who was taken to a sanatorium before the end of the season, was named a junior varsity coach in line with a Yale policy of having the retiring captain return as coach the following season.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Despite the denial of Pop Warner that he is to leave Stanford University to accept a berth in the East, possibly at New York University, reports from the coast are to the effect that he will make a change, due to the fact that Stanford is being stepped up to such a point academically that it will be tough for any coach to turn out winning teams there . . . The material will not be available, and Pop is not the man to gamble his brilliant career recklessly . . . The proposal that tie games in the future be decided on a point basis, as was the Yale-Dartmouth-Brown round robin last Saturday, is not likely to get far . . . No matter how the decision might go in a tough game, the judges would be in a bad spot, with plenty of squawking following their verdict, and the situation would be worse than it stands now.

Regardless of the general inclination to pass over lightly the blasts of the Columbia University undergraduate newspaper against football, there is a great deal of truth in the contentions of the editor . . . He speaks plain language when he refers to the sport as "murder," insofar as it kills and cripples young athletes, and something will come of the hue and cry he has raised . . . Slugging has come to be an accepted part of the game, and there is too much of the "win at any cost" ideal of play . . . When you come to think about it, college football is pretty much of a racket at that . . . All the colleges have to do is to arrange a schedule of games and the newspapers, satisfying a demand from the public for news of the teams, build up the interest and set the stage for enormous gates, at no advertising cost whatsoever to the sponsors of the teams . . . Any merchant would give his left eye for the same sort of a break . . . Other sports are similarly well fixed . . . Baseball and hockey clubs and boxing clubs, for instance, do little or no advertising, yet get columns and columns of space promoting their activities . . . That is because of the reader interest . . . One of these days we may see all of this changed, and the huge, easy profits of the promoters will be a thing of the past.

The Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Professional Football League the last three seasons, are known as the professional team with the college spirit . . . Their small town of only 37,415 population, in Wisconsin is the greatest hotbed of professional football interest in the country and most of the players on the team, many of them former college stars, reside there . . . Carnegie Tech came in for the big rap because no advance announcement was made of the fact that 10-minute quarters would be played in its benefit game with the Dukes at the Stadium last Saturday but, in justice to the Tartans and Graduate Manager Buddy Overend, it

SERVICE TEAMS PRACTICE

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Because of a heavy snow fall which blanketed the post, Maj. Sasse was forced to conduct yesterday's football practice of the Army squad in the cadet riding hall. A steam roller, borrowed from a construction gang, worked steadily pressing down the loose tanbark in order to give a firmer footing. The squad would practice at one end of the floor while the roller worked at the other end.

MILLER DISSATISFIED

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The Navy put through two strenuous hours of scrimmage in its final preparation for the Army game in New York Saturday, despite a steady rain which drenched the players to the skin and made the field a quagmire.

The varsity and second-string elevens were sent through offensive work against the plebe squad, and in the end Coach Rip Miller was far from satisfied with the showing made on the wet field.

TO BROADCAST GAME

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The Army-Navy football game Saturday will be broadcast over the nationwide networks of the Columbia and National Broadcasting Company chains, Maj. P. B. Fleming, Army graduate manager of athletics, has announced. More than 150 radio stations will participate.

A substantial sum was donated to the relief fund for the unemployed by a manufacturing concern in return for the privilege of sponsoring the broadcast.

BADGER SPORTS INVESTIGATED

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Confronted with a legislative investigation, athletic affairs of the University of Wisconsin swirled about in a maelstrom today.

Beset by the alumni's demand for the abolition of Coach Glenn Thistlewaite's regime, a new cloud hovered over the Badger campus in the shape of an impending inquiry into the university's athletic department by a committee of five state senators.

Concurring with the previous action of the assembly, the state senate yesterday adopted a resolution ordering the investigation.

The removal of Coach Thistlewaite was expected to develop from the meeting of the athletic council and the athletic committee of the board of regents on the campus. It was also reported that these two bodies may decide to remove George Little, director of athletics, the entire coaching staff and other sports officials.

The university's athletic budget faces severe curtailment. It was regarded as almost certain that the customary trip of the Badger crew to Poughkeepsie for the annual regatta will be canceled this year.

ELECT M'EWEN CAPTAIN

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Sammy McEwen, of Duluth, Minn., quarterback on the 1931 Marshall College football team, was elected captain for 1932 at the annual football banquet here last night. McEwen was given an award as the team's most valuable player. He will be a senior next year.

WILSON SWAP GIVES TRADING IMPETUS

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—The player market was still wide open today as the majors met jointly to discuss common problems.

The Chicago Cubs' angle of the Hack Wilson question was settled by one of baseball's biggest deals which sent the former home run champion to the St. Louis Cardinals in exchange for Burleigh Grimes, pitching hero of the last world series. However, there was more than a slight possibility that Wilson would be used as trading timber by the Cardinals. Bud Teachout, the young left-hand pitcher, who also went to the Cards in the transaction, was said to be slated for a job with one of the St. Louis minor league farms.

LANDIS TO SPEAK

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, was reported to have something pointed to say as he presided over the joint meeting. His theme was expected to concern actions of several clubs in connection with the option rule.

The sacrifice fly rule and the reduction of the player limit were certain to be thoroughly discussed. It was reliably reported that no change in the sacrifice rule would be made, and a reduction of the player limit from 25 to 21 men, as has been suggested, was considered hardly likely.

Other trades were still on the fire today. Cincinnati offered Joe Stripp and Pitcher Larry Benton to Brooklyn for Dazzy Vance, Ernie Lombardi, Ike Boone and Johnny Frederick, while Detroit was after Joe Judge and hoped to make some kind of a deal for him today.

Several clubs, chief among them Cleveland, were after Ralph Kress, of the St. Louis Browns, but none appeared to have enough trading material to satisfy the Brown management. The New York Yankees were on a hunt for another good pitcher and were willing to include Infielder Tony Lazzeri in a transaction. Cleveland apparently had given up hope of using First Baseman Eddie Morgan as a trading lure.

BRAVES SELL KNOTHE

The Boston Braves accomplished some business with minor league clubs, purchasing Third Baseman Fritz Knothe from Seattle, of the Pacific Coast League, and selling First Baseman Earl (Whitey) Sheely and Catcher Bill Cronin to Los Angeles, of the same organization, for $15,000. Bill Dressen, an infielder, and Pitcher Harold Haid, went to Seattle in the deal for Knothe.

Both leagues yesterday voted to continue with the same type of baseball as last season. The National League voted down a proposal to re-establish the practice of naming a "most valuable player" each year and acted negatively on the question of numbering players. The elder circuit also voted to reduce the batting practice period of the visiting team from 30 to 20 minutes.

Manager George Gibson, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, announced yesterday that he had abandoned plans to trade Paul Waner and Adam Comorosky. Both will be retained for 1932 he indicated.

TEMPLE STIFF FOE FOR PITT INAUGURAL

Braves May Obtain Hack Wilson in Trade, McKechnie Says on Return Home

STRONG PHILLY QUINT HERE SATURDAY

By JESS CARVER

Those gents in charge of arranging the basketball schedule out at Pitt could have lined up an inaugural opponent for Dr. Red Carlson's harassed Panthers that would have been a trifle easier to get past than this Temple University outfit.

In fact, the more one considers the Blue and Gold's opening foe, the more one sympathizes with the locals. Temple rated right up among the best in the East a year ago, despite a setback at the hands of the Panthers. The Owls as they are jokingly referred to in Philly, will prove a tougher opening game than Western Reserve's Red Cats, which knocked off the Panthers in the first game of the season last year.

SIX REGULARS BACK

Temple won 17 games out of 21 played last winter, and has no less than six regulars back battling for starting positions this campaign. Of the half-dozen lettermen, three or four appear doomed to ride the bench, as the sophomore material turned over to Coach Jimmy Usilton is so strong that at least two of the boys are certain to break into the lineup before the chase has gone many games.

Leibensburger (a Pennsylvania Dutchman, I'll wager) and Dowbenko, a guard, loom as likely starters here Saturday. They'll replace Gudd, who was none other than the second high score man last year, and Co-Capt. O'Brien. Imagine how tough the battling for jobs on that Temple club must be when a guy named Dowbenko can beat out a gent named O'Brien.

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

One thing, Coach Carlson won't make the mistake in this year's inaugural he did in the last. In 1930, he used his varsity performers all day during his basketball clinic, showing their styles and plays to the high school, college and prep school coaches and players who were on hand. As a result, with the Reserve Red Cats looking on, the Panthers gave away one or two things they might have held back, and the players were tired out by the time they squared off against the Clevelanders. They took a neat lacing.

Temple offers to Pittsburgh basketball fans the right sort of opposition. Pitt and the Owls are putting on a major ball game right off the bat, and they'll likely play to a near-capacity house. At present, Carlson is making an attempt to whip a starting lineup into condition, and at the same time, to get his squad into trim for the long, hard grind to California, which will get under way Monday.

How'd you, and you, and you like his job?

Here they are—Dr. H. C. Carlson's hopes for the new basketball season at Pitt. Although he has only four veterans back from the team of last year, Co-Captains Willie Kowallis and Tim Lawry, and Steve Kowallis and Don Smith, the famous Panther mentor believes he has the makings of another star aggregation. Lawry was rated with the best forwards in the country last year. W. Kowallis is a dead shot and a fine floorman. After opening the season with Temple here Saturday night, the Panthers will leave Monday on a trip that will carry them to California and back.

COLUMBIA WINS, PENN BOWS

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—In a pouring rain that turned the gridiron into a quagmire, and all but washed out charity's benefits, four of the East's football Old Guard battled for an hour in the mud yesterday, with Columbia and Cornell gaining the honors.

Because of the weather and playing conditions that were the worst of the eastern season, the round-robin program originally carded was cut to a double-header, with each game consisting of two 15-minute periods.

Columbia furnished the only scoring thrills of the affair by skidding to victory over Princeton, 13 to 0, in the first game, opened by a sensational 80-yard runback of the kickoff for a touchdown by Manuel Rivero.

Cornell and Pennsylvania, renewing their Thanksgiving Day duel, waged a scoreless mud battle, but Cornell was declared the winner by the judges under an official point scoring system adopted for these charity contests. The points were 279 to 206 in favor of Cornell, which had beaten Penn by a touchdown in their regular season game.

Grid Deaths Probed By Rules Makers

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Whether the 40 deaths attributed to football this season were really caused by the game formed the subject of a nation-wide inquiry under way today by the intercollegiate football rules committee.

Efforts will also be made to determine whether certain plays are extraordinarily hazardous and the soundness or unsoundness of college football in general.

A letter was sent to members of the committee by Chairman E. K. Hall, of Dartmouth, requesting an investigation into the deaths reported due to the games.

William S. Langford, secretary of the committee, was reported engaged in a careful check as to the underlying causes of the 40 deaths.

Capezzuti Captains Slippery Rock Team

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Dec. 10.—Anthony Capezzuti, New Castle boy, was elected captain of the 1932 Slippery Rock State Teachers College football team at a meeting of the 19 lettermen. Capuzzeti, playing at center this year, hung up an enviable record in his third year of varsity competition.

A difficult 10-game card was announced at the same time by Faculty Manager E. B. Cottrell. It follows:

September 24, Westminster, away; October 1, Waynesburg, away; October 8, Grove City, away; October 15, (bye); away, October 22, Glenville S. T., at home; October 29, Clarion, away; November 5, Indiana, away; November 12, Edinboro, at home; November 19, Lockhaven, away; November 26, East Stroudsburg, at home.

Meehan Declines To Discuss Future

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 10.—(AP.)—Apprised of an editorial in the New York University News, student publication, advocating his removal, John F. (Chick) Meehan, head football coach at New York University has declined to participate in any discussion as to his future.

"I have not seen the editorial and would have no comment to make upon it, even after I did," said Meehan.

The football coach declared he had reached no agreement with N. Y. U. for 1932. He has had a preliminary discussion with university officials, but no decision has yet been reached.

Wolf May Gain Sports Control at Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 10.—Athletic authorities at Waynesburg College are confronted by a puzzling problem as a result of the recent resignation as faculty manager of athlectis of James W. Miller, and the only solution which may prove satisfactory may result in election of a new football coach to succeed Frank Wolf, with the latter taking over Miller's position and retaining the dual role of basketball and track mentor.

This arrangement is known to be satisfactory to Wolf, who is anxious to relinquish the duties of head football coach to assume complete control of all athletic policies at the Greene County college. In the event Wolf takes over Miller's duties there is little doubt but that the 1932 Yellow Jacket gridders will perform under direction of a new coach.

MELLON HORSE WINS ABROAD

HURST PARK, England, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—For the second straight day G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, little American gentleman rider, rode one of his own horses to victory in a steeplechase at Hurst Park today.

Yesterday he brought Busy Bee home the winner by three-quarters of a length in a two-mile race, and today he piloted Burglas to victory by about the same margin in the Thames handicap hurdle race, also at two miles.

Busy Bee was an 100-to-1 shot, while Burglas paid off at the longer odds of 21 to 1. T. Walton's Norman Abbott was second today, and R. Pearson's Anton third. Six others also ran.

Alike, owned by R. K. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, won the Lonsdale Handicap steeplechase over three miles and 180 yards to make it two for America for the day. Alike won by 10 lengths from W. Parsonagess' Fobra, which was eight lengths ahead of Victor Emanuel's Grand National jumper, Rhyticere. Another American horse, M. D. Blair's Great Span, was unplaced. Only five horses ran. Alike was 18 to 8 in the betting.

Morgan, Sr., president of the East Pittsburgh school board; Frank Schultz, president of the Chalfont school board; Carl Miller, East Pittsburgh Trust Company; Harry Jones, solicitor for the East Pittsburgh schools; Bert Munhall, Carnegie Tech trainer; Paul Reider, Mike Sebastian and Paul Cuba, of the University of Pittsburgh, Charles Kramer, and Charles J. Doyle and Julius Levin, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

An excellent dinner was prepared under the direction of Miss Anita Fickes, head of the Domestic Science Department.

The blonde youngster toured the difficult Lake Merced course four strokes under par, and set a new tournament record in doing so.

Sing Sing's Grid Star 'Graduated'

Red walked out through the big iron gates a free man, except that he will have to make periodic reports to the State Parole Board.

During the recent football season at Sing Sing, Red furnished plenty of thrills. Everyone agreed that Red was an expert when it came to throwing forward passes and plunging the line.

More than once last summer he won a ball game for his "alma mater" by batting out a home run.

JEFFERSON PARK MUTUELS

Basketball On Horseback New Sport

BOSTON, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Basketball on horseback.

That was the name today of a new sport thriller introduced at the Commonwealth Armory with Battery C "riding away" with the honors over Battery B of the 101st Field Artillery by a score of 14 to 2.

Most of the rules of basketball are observed although the game is a combination of polo, some football, ice hockey and rugby. When the ball—a soccer ball—is dropped, one of the players may dismount and pass it—but only to a mounted man, and only a mounted man can score a basket.

W. & J. COUNCIL GETS QUORUM

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 10.—The athletic council of W. & J. College was given a quorum with the announcement that D. C. Morrow and Dr. C. E. Tibbens, both of Washington, had been elected members.

Both have been in touch with athletic affairs for many years and are familiar with all angles of the situation concerning W. & J. sports.

Morrow played in the early days of W. & J. football and served three terms as coach, eight years in all. Dr. Tibbens starred in his undergraduate days and was captain of the 1911 team.

With the formal installation of the two new members, the council will be ready for business, having a quorum of five. Dr. M. A. Dickie of the college faculty; Judge T. Dom, of Greensburg, and Judge Howard W. Hughes, of Washington, are the other members.

Washington High Banquet Tomorrow

The undefeated Little Presidents, of Washington High School, will celebrate the close of their football season with a banquet tomorrow evening in the Trinity Episcopal Church, Washington, Pa.

Among the speakers will be Coaches Bill Amos, Wilbur Henry and Glenn Wild, of Wash-Jeff, and Julius Levin, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The Washington team went through a seven-game schedule without meeting defeat, rolling up 267 points to 6 for the opposition. The team finished third in points in the W. P. I. A. L. race.

TRIBE DICKERS FOR SERVICES OF SLUGGER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Back in his Wilkinsburg home on top of some strenuous days at the Chicago baseball battlefront, Bill McKechnie, manager of the Boston Braves, admitted to the Sun-Telegraph this afternoon that he had made an offer of a trade for Hack Wilson to the St. Louis Nationals. Wilson and Pitcher Bud Teachout yesterday were swapped by the Chicago Cubs for Pitcher Burleigh Grimes.

McKechnie is anxious to land Hack the Wharker in order to add to the Braves' attack. In this connection he said:

"Just before I left Chicago last night, Judge Fuchs, president of the Boston Club, and I offered a certain player to St. Louis for Wilson. Branch Rickey represented the St. Louis club at the conference. If the player offered is acceptable to them the deal doubtless will go through as we would like to have Wilson on our team."

Skipper Bill is the first baseball man to verify the report that Wilson would not remain with the Cardinals. As soon as McKechnie discovered that Wilson was to be used in another deal he proceeded to arrange a meeting with Rickey.

BILL WANTED ENS

The pilot of the Braves did not care to disclose the name of the player he had offered to the Redbirds, but naturally it would have to be a valuable performer as the Cardinals' management would have to be placated for the loss of Grimes.

McKechnie and his associates would insist that Wilson take a big cut in salary, but, regardless of Hack's destination in 1932 he will experience a reduction in pay. His contract of last season was second to Rogers Hornsby among the players' documents.

ENS WITH M'KECHNIE

Jewel Ens, new coach of the Detroit Tigers, returned with McKechnie. It develops that Ens had several good offers, one of which was from McKechnie. Said Bill:

"I am glad to see Ens get such a fine position as the one he selected, but I regard his move as a personal loss. I tried to induce Jewel to sign with the Braves in a similar capacity."

McKechnie hustled to the Pittsburgh Hospital to visit with Mrs. McKechnie and their new-born baby girl.

HACK IS SERIOUS

Wilson's exclusive statement given this paper yesterday from his Martinsburg, W. Va., home indicated that Hack is one serious gent regarding the coming season in baseball. After "panning" Rogers Hornsby, the Chicago pilot, Wilson expressed great pleasure over the swap that sends him into the St. Louis flock.

The scrappy Grimes is so valuable nobody, it appears, has been able to sound his true worth. He was a big hero in the 1930 clashes between the Athletics and Cardinals, but the somewhat weary veteran came back last season with a succession of world series feats that knocked those exploits of the previous October into a cocked hat.

GRIMES A HUSTLER

Burleigh generally is as good as he has to be. Moreover, he is very fond of The Rajah and will give till it hurts to win for the Texan. Grimes may not pitch as a regular for more than two or three years, but if he can come through with one banner season for Hornsby the Bears might ride to their goal.

The part Arthur Bud Teachout plays in the little drama may be trivial. The recruit lefthander, who changes from a Chicago to a St. Louis uniform, is a promising pitcher; if he comes through as a regular for the Cards his efforts might be the pivotal factor in deciding the merits of the deal.

COLLEGE FIVES IN ACTION TONIGHT

Three college varsity basketball teams and one collegiate reserve combination oppose independent outfits in practice games here tonight. Carnegie Tech takes a second crack at Y. M. H. A., after defeating it 36-15 last week, with the Tartan Reserves coupling against the "Y" second squad.

Geneva College moves into the city against the Ray Schneiders, battling on the North Side Social Hall court, and Duquesne University travels to the Sharpsburg K. of C. Hall to meet the Penn Five. Several of the boys in Ken Loeffler's squad formerly played with the Schneiders.

The Morrys oppose the Goose Goslins in the West Penn League; Bidwell plays Crafton in the Greater Pittsburgh circuit, and Goodwill meets the Penn Cadets in the Metropolitan League. The West Penn League roster was cut to five quints when the Duquesne Lafayettes Club announced it would drop its franchise. The Lafayettes beat the Morrys, 34-32, last night.

BERT MUNHALL MARRIED

It was a secret for almost a year, but it's out now. Bert Munhall, veteran trainer of the athletic teams of Carnegie Tech, is a Benedict. Bert and Miss Martha Clark, water daughter of the well-known billiard star, with whom she used to tour giving exhibitions, were married last December and are making their home in Wilkinsburg. Bashful Bert only admitted the romance when quizzed on the subject today.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Tumble | Local Market Firm

STOCK MARKET REACHES NEW LOW LEVELS

Declines Range From 1 to 5 in Leading Issues; Pressure Lightens Some

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—A broad selling movement swept through the stock market in the early hours of today's session, but subsided after mid-day.

The general level of share prices, as measured by averages, penetrated further into new low ground for recent years. Declines ranged from 1 to 5 points in prominent issues. Bonds however, displayed somewhat stronger resistance. In foreign exchanges the dollar weakened as against sterling and the French franc.

Although selling pressure lightened after midday the list failed to recover notable. Losses of 2 to 5 points appeared in such issues as United States Steel, American Telephone, North American, Consolidated Gas, Woolworth, Macy, National Biscuit, Allied Chemical, Eastman, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Norfolk and Western and others. Oils were sold in some volume but losses were largely moderate. General Motors sagged a point to a new low under 22.

The selling appeared to be largely a continuation of the movement of the previous session and brokers said there was a considerable amount of forced selling representing liquidation of impaired collateral loans. Some, however, felt that a technical rebound might be in the making.

Introduction of measures in Congress calling for investigations of such matters as international banking, short selling and the railroads, invoked considerable interest in Wall street.

The stock market remained under the cloud of uninspiring business news. United States Steel's report of a drop of 185,541 tons in unfilled tonnage for November was not unexpected in view of the lack of interest in steel buying during that period. While considerable purchasing from motor makers has been expected, they are still proceeding with extreme caution.

Selling of the oils was interpreted as partly reflecting a sag in gasoline prices. The advance of a few weeks ago has not been well maintained, as the industry has reached the season of low consumption.

WHEAT RALLIES AFTER DIP

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Grain prices averaged lower early today, influenced by stock market weakness. Unfavorable weather for the Argentine wheat harvest acted, however, as a handicap to bears, and so too did flood reports from Australia. Opening unchanged to ¾ lower, wheat afterward rallied. Corn started ¼-½ off but later scored slight gains.

Upturns from early low prices for wheat carried the market, at times, to above yesterday's finish. Argentine advices said wet weather prevailing appeared likely to delay the crop movement so that no large quantities of wheat would be available until well into January, and that there were prospects a large percentage of shipments would be of low quality. Reports from Australia indicated probably that half the wheat yield of Queensland had been destroyed by severe overflowers.

Silk Price Drops To Record Low Level

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Silk futures on the National Raw Silk Exchange went below $2.00 a pound to the lowest prices on record. The market was 3 to 10 points below the previous close.

COTTON PRICES HOLD STEADY

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 2 to 3 points on trade buying and covering which was promoted by relatively steadier Liverpool cables. January sold up to 5.91.

An idea that the technical position of the market may have been strengthened by the recent declines may also have had some influence, but the initial demand was supplied by renewed liquidation or selling on the lower opening of the stock market. A little southern selling of the later months was reported here, but there seemed to be a considerable demand for May at the 6¼-cent level, and the market at the end of the first half hour was fairly steady at about yesterday's closing quotations.

The buying which developed around 6.25 cents for May proved sufficient to steady the market later in the morning and trading was quiet with fluctuations narrow. At midday January was selling around 5.90 cents and the general market was holding within a point or two either way of yesterday's closing quotations.

ASKS SENATE PROBE R-K-O

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP.)—A Senate investigation of the refinancing of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation is proposed in a resolution introduced by Senator Dill (Dem.), of Washington. The resolution would empower the Senate Banking and Currency Committee to investigate the refinancing of R-K-O together with its ownership and the sale of its stock on the New York Stock Exchange in 1931.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 10.—(INS.)—Stockholders of R. K. O. Corporation, one of the largest theatrical and film producing companies in the country, held a meeting here today to decide upon a new management plan, but were unable to take action because of lack of sufficient proxies.

A receivership for the corporation outlined a new management plan whereby the Radio Corporation of America would issue $11,600,000 in debentures to permit refinancing over the present difficult period. Proxies are slowly coming in and another meeting was called for 4 p. m. today.

The Message Mirrors the Man Hoover

—By B. C. FORBES—

DID YOU EVER meet Herbert Hoover?

His message to Congress is a very accurate reflection of the man. He lacks sparkle. He doesn't capture the imagination—at least not of those who come into only casual contact with him. He is a most serious gentleman—far less disposed to indulge in humor than his predecessor, Calvin Coolidge.

Mr. Forbes

Weighed down by a sense of his overwhelming responsibilities, he works harder and longer hours than any modern president, not excepting the dynamic Roosevelt. Like Coolidge, he has a deeply religious side. His "humanest" characteristic is his innate, profound love of children.

THE FINANCIAL and business world discovered nothing in the President's message to arouse alarm. His new specific recommendations in regard to economics if they can be termed specific, are viewed by some as being along sound lines.

The financial world regards governmental aid for the railroads as more feasible than nation-wide succor for real estate. The need for improving the condition of real estate, of real estate mortgages, of real estate financing, is more clearly grasped than are the means.

WHILE PESSIMISM still rules in financial New York, the feeling gains ground that remedial developments are making progress. In time the corrective processes will triumph. But how much suffering will meanwhile have to be borne and how long it will last, are matters occasioning deep concern.

It is some consolation to reflect that pessimism today is as prevalent as optimism was just before the 1929 boom ended. The majority having been so completely wrong then, it is just possible that they may be equally wrong now. It is unthinkable that New York Central shares will never again sell above 27, Union Pacific above 75, Atchison above 87, Southern Pacific above 32.

Nor is it conceivable that the strongest industrial corporations in America will not again earn profits warranting very substantial improvement over the present market value of their stocks. Many bonds are selling at equally subnormal levels.

The hotel and restaurant business is suffering shamefully because of the unconscionable multiplication of speakeasies which attract customers by supplying meals at rates legitimate establishments cannot match.

Violation of the prohibition law has become so flagrant and fearless that columnists and others don't hesitate to mention names of the more "fashionable" ones. The latest one to incite comment because of its inordinate popularity was recently opened with a blare of trumpets by a Frenchman whose night-place was long famous in Paris.

HERE IS a little incident which, while it will cause not the slightest astonishment in New York, may amaze the rest of the country.

Said a restaurant owner I have known intimately for years:

"This prohibition is becoming more and more of a farce. As you know, we here do our best to avoid having anything to do with serving liquor.

"I was notified by a revenue agent that a complaint had been lodged against us. When I expressed doubt that anybody could have complained against the way we were conducting our business, I was told that it would cost money to have it 'fixed.' Later a district leader came in, represented himself as a lawyer. I paid him a small sum—not nearly as much as first demanded—and I have heard no more about it since."

Investigator Seabury has at last started to uncover this form of graft. Those in the know say that the revelations will be sensational if the money can be traced to its highest-up recipients.

I HEAR that the stock exchange has all but decided to start publishing short-selling data before many days have passed.

HOOVER HELPS BANKING LAW CHANGE

President in Message To Congress Focusses Attention on Problem

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The movement for modification of the banking laws was accelerated by President Hoover's focusing attention on the problem in his message to Congress.

Fortunately, the Glass Senate sub-committee has been gathering valuable data on the subject, and Congress in due course will be enabled to act in the light of actual conditions.

Mr. Rukeyser

Before the depression, revolutionary changes in banking got under way, with the development of group, chain and branch banking and the creation of vast department stores of finance in the financial centers. Meantime the laws lagged behind practical developments. The depression has caused thoughtful persons to stop, look and listen, and to reflect whether banking as at present organized was capable of rendering the maximum service.

SUGGESTS REFORMS

In suggesting reforms President Hoover does not go as far as Owen D. Young, for example, who testified that there was an evil in the dual jurisdictions over banks as between the states and the Federal government. However, Mr. Hoover indicated that he had in mind approaching units of command over banks in suggesting consideration of "methods by which enlarged membership in the Federal Reserve system may be brought about."

In dealing with the whole question the Chief Executive said:

"I recommend the prompt improvement of the banking laws. Changed financial conditions and commercial practices must be met. The Congress should investigate the need for separation between different kinds of banking; An enlargement of branch banking under proper restrictions; and the methods by which enlarged membership in the Federal Reserve may be brought about."

OMITS DETAILS

Mr. Hoover refrained from going into details, but his statement about branch banking indicates that he is apparently not far from Comptroller Pole's views that banks be permitted to open branches beyond state lines throughout their normal trade area. This runs counter to the old-fashioned political prejudice against doing anything to interfere with independent unit banks, but the record of closings shows that independent banks in one-crop, one-industry towns lack ample opportunities to diversify commitments.

As for the proposal to separate different kinds of banking, this may be interpreted as an attempt to prescribe limits to the post-war tendency of great banks to become vast unspecialized department stores of finance.

New Credit Plan to Meet Banking Objections

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

OPPOSING IDEAS ABOUT the desirability of extending the loaning powers of Federal Reserve Banks apparently have been reconciled in the administration bill to establish a Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the debentures of which would be eligible for discount with the Reserve System.

The original suggestion by President Hoover that the discount privileges be broadened to cover a wider range of collateral has been subject to considerable disapproval. At present banks have only two types of collateral upon which they can borrow from the Federal Reserve. These are United States Government securities and approved commercial paper. In addition, Federal Reserve credit can be placed into circulation through open market operations. The Reserve banks are privileged to buy bankers acceptances or government securities in the open market.

In some quarters it was feared that the dangers of inflation might be made too great if the issuance of Federal Reserve credit could be based on other types of collateral such as corporate securities or real estate mortgages. In addition to exposing the country to inflation, Reserve credit based on such instruments might be subject to unduly severe contraction at times when danger of shrinkage in value might be feared.

Administration View Modified

WHILE THE ORIGINAL administration view appeared to favor extension of Federal Reserve powers upon these lines, the President's message gave a more concrete picture of the plans under consideration and placed the proposed changes under sufficient control to meet the majority of objections. No definite change in the Federal Reserve powers was proposed beyond the extension of the rediscount privilege to the debentures of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

This new credit body will supplement the operations of the National Credit Corporation, whose operations are confined to the relief of banks. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation will have a proposed capitalization of $500,000,000 to be subscribed entirely by the United States Government. In addition it will be authorized to issue $1,500,00,000 of debentures which will be subject to rediscount.

Loaning Powers

THE NEW CREDIT organization will be allowed, under the bill introduced by Senator Walcott, of Connecticut, to make loans to banks, trust companies, clearing houses or other associations of banking institutions, building and loan associations, insurance companies or other financial institutions of the United States. In addition it may grant temporary financing to steam railroads in interstate commerce when, in the opinion of the board of directors of the corporation, the roads are unable to obtain funds on reasonable terms through regular bank channels.

The plan will indirectly extend Federal Reserve credit to fields where it can not be used at present but dangerous inflation will be checked by the provision that all loans must be adequately secured. In addition, time limits are to be placed on the use of credit. The maximum term of any loan, including the allowable extension periods is to be five years. The corporation is not to be a permanent institution but liquidation is to be started after two years. In other words, it is to be active in granting new credits for only two years although a longer time will be needed to ultimately wind up its affairs.

The proposal is designed to extend the Federal Reserve powers for the period of the present emergency only, after which the existing credit system will be restored.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Although the trend of the bond market was still downward today, some resistance spots developed and offerings diminished considerably as various loans sought new lows.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, sales (000 omitted), high, low and last quotations in dollars and (bid) asked quotations:

HIGH SPEED GIRL

A Story of Modern Homes And Unbridled Youth

By MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XVIII

Laurel's mother was on the porch when the girl and Bruce Harvey returned to the clubhouse.

There were glints of annoyance in Connie's eyes.

Where had Laurel been all this age? What was she doing with the handsome young doctor?

He had been invited here tonight as Connie's special guest. At the back of the older woman's mind was the idea that tonight she would play off Bruce Harvey against Diaz, the dancing instructor.

Not that she admitted THAT to herself.

But it was frightfully annoying that Laurel had grabbed off the guest of honor.

"Youth to youth," said a still small voice within her.

But in this age when it was fashionable for women to have affairs with men much younger than themselves—that was surely an exploded theory.

To be as young as that—thought Connie, envyingly—to have the whole of life in front of one—years and years of masculine attention—time to find the Right Man—what a wonderful thing!

But as Laurel and the young man came up the steps Mrs. Delahunt intercepted him on the veranda.

Said Connie very low: "Where have you been all this time, Laurel?"

CHARGES JEALOUSY

Now because the young man had hurt Laurel and she was feeling very sore and humiliated, and her heart ached wretchedly that made her doubly pert to Connie.

"What did you think we were doing mother? Honeymooning?"

"I've a good mind to send you home—"

"Connie, the matter with you is that you're darn jealous! You never give two hoots for anything I do — but just because tonight I have a tete-a-tete with someone you want for a pet lamb, you shoot off the fireworks!"

"Hello, there, is that you, Diaz?"

"Yes. I'm waiting for my partner. She was coming out from New York . . . but she is late. We are to give an exhibition number."

"Yes. And I cannot think what has happened to her!"

"Don't worry, Diaz. She'll turn up like the proverbial penny. Meantime I'll have a drink. You, boy—" to the steward behind the bar—"mix me a stiff Bacardi."

"Whoops! you said it, big boy! The first grain of intelligence you've exhibited!"

"Ah, Mees, you must not ke-ed me."

"Don't look at me like that—such a goose-flesh it gives me!"

He wasn't her type at all. But put in her place by Bruce—it might mend her vanity a teeny bit to tantalize this Diaz.

DANCES WITH DIAZ

A bright idea came to her. Suppose the partner didn't come, what a riot it would be to give that exhibition dance with Diaz!

To be in the limelight, so, would even things up a little!

She dropped the suggestion in his ear. "Wouldn't the old crabs sit up and take notice!"

He seemed a little dubious. "We have not practice moch—"

"But I can dance like a streak, especially when I've downed a couple of cocktails!"

"You have dance—often—in public?"

"I should say! AND HOW! The cheers rang the rafters!"

"But here—some of the ladies are so conservative."

"Not tonight. They're all whooping it up in the merry-merry." And indeed a tremendous buzz and gales of laughter and repartee were echoing through the place.

The manager came down. He seemed worried.

"That girl not arrived? And I hired the drummer and the concertina specially for your number . . ."

Then Laurel sprang her plan. She knew every step of that new tango. She would do it with Diaz.

To illustrate it she did a turn with him out in the passage. "You see, I can follow him perfectly—"

It was quite true. The manager gave in. A gong was banged upstairs to announce their coming.

Then faster went the music . . . wilder . . . they were whirling together like spinning-tops.

Then slow . . . staring into each other's eyes in view of everybody . . . rhythmic . . . so passionate!

Tom . . . tom . . . tom! That throbbing music from the Argentine caught at the heart!

Or senses, rather? Wasn't it something like what the young doctor had said to her tonight?

They whirled and dipped and stunted. Laurel and her partner. Once or twice she improvised, not Diaz. Then he would break away and she would follow him . . . oh close! . . . her head tilted provocatively on her long white throat.

"Isn't she too divine?" "Isn't she graceful?" "That fellow looks as though he was crazy about her!" The whispers went about.

After a last mad whirl Diaz swung her aloft. There was a bang of the drum, a long-drawn wail of the concertina and the "sax" . . . applause rang to the roof.

"Encore! Encore! Do it again!" There was clapping of hands and wahoos similar to those heard in the "Hot Feet" Club.

And at that moment of her triumph Laurel caught a glimpse of Connie. She had never seen such a look in her mother's eyes, nor her face so white . . .

I congratulate you, Mees Laurel. That was bew-tee-ful!" They were in the little dressing room below stairs, and Diaz was beaming on her.

The manager, too, was delighted. Laurel had saved the situation for him. And he wouldn't have to pay the fee of the missing dancer.

"They want Laurel, you mean," corrected Freddie. "Step on the gas, kiddo. Go to it!"

"She's stepping on her mother's corns," murmured Roger Sartoris—but no one heard him. He knew of Connie's craze for the dance instructor.

"The nymph-and-faun dance . . . what's the word? . . . the bacchante?" said the manager. "Weren't you planning to do it?"

"But my partner has not come," replied the South American, "and I do not know if Miss Laurel she can do it?"

"Where's the blessed old costume?" rapped out Laurel, all excitement. "You know my motto . . . I'll try anything once!"

But Imogen—Laurel's friend—stayed with her. Because she was flirting with a brand-new man she had "picked up," Imogen forgot to be jealous of Laurel's success.

"No, I'm, I'm okay as I am."

"Listen—with those red and purple draperies, and the grapes in your hair and all, you need more blue about your eyes and less rouge."

The lights were put out in the ballroom when Laurel and Diaz gave their rendering of the "bacchante." Only a few odd candles burned on the tables. The white "spot," worked by an electrician, followed them about.

Diaz wore a wreath of leaves about his forehead, and his garment was leopard skin. He looked handsome and lithe and vibrant.

Laurel was lovely in her diaphanous chiffons. Some one said, in a loud voice, that she was "Desire Incarnate" . . .

Twice Diaz caught her, and the second time he bent her backwards almost to the floor, his cheeks pressing on hers.

He hadn't told her so, but she knew there would be a long kiss at the finish . . . and then he would throw her over his shoulder (provided he were strong enough) and carry her out of the place . . .

Well, that would be a triumphant ending to the evening . . ."

"Somebody" wanted her . . . "somebody" thought her passionately desirable . . . even if it was only in an exhibition-dance . . .

Ha! Diaz had almost caught her now as she whirled, barefoot, and naked of lovely limb, past the little tables.

Laurel danced gaily towards Bruce Harvey, who was sitting next her mother. She looked directly, provocatingly at him, and not at Connie's jealous, disapproving face.

"Look out! The candles!" someone shouted as her flying draperies whirled about. She didn't hear the warning till the yell: "Laurel, your DRESS!" Then it was too late.

A frail end of chiffon had caught in the unshaded candle. There was a spurt of smoky flame as Laurel sprang back. It had all happened so suddenly that for a second everyone seemed petrified except Bruce Harvey, who leaped towards her. But Laurel blindly flew from him towards the exit, screaming in pain and terror as her dress blazed up.

Laurel and Diaz were staring into each other's eyes as they danced.

Synopsis

Laurel Oakes, "modern" to the minute, is invited by her friend, Imogen Gay, who is even more sophisticated, to attend a party in an old deserted farmhouse. When the party gets too wild for Laurel she leaves and meets Bruce Harvey, a young physician, who takes her home. Laurel tells her mother that pleasure means more to her than love or romance. Laurel, attracted to him, fails to make a favorable impression on Dr. Harvey. Harvey tells Laurel that she ought to stop seeking pleasure and get married. Laurel goes to a party at Timmy Tewson's. Imogen wins a bet by plunging in Tewson's pool and then he asks her to leave the place. Laurel's mother arranges to meet Diaz, a Spanish dancer 20 years her junior. He tells her that he loves her. Laurel follows her mother to the country club, because she knows Harvey is there. Laurel and Harvey walk out in the grounds. He repulses her advances.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Little Johnny Burnett, Grand Jester of the Belmar Chapter, who represented the Belmar Theater in the Stanley Theater Talent Hunt last season, has distinguished himself as a master of ceremonies. Since he was elected Grand Jester, the Saturday morning Junior Komic Club programs at the Belmar have taken on a professional air. Among the boys and girls who appeared last Saturday were Mary Alice Hallgren, Dorothy Mae Riedl, Gilda Colaizzi, Clara Mae Hallgren, Alice Colombo, Helen Mae Conner, Cristel Engels and Eleanor Gratzmiller.

CAMERAPHONE CHAPTER

Members of the Cameraphone Chapter are reahearsing a Christmas play, with dancing under the direction of Florence C. Dunn, of the Dunn School of Dancing. The Lapertsche Orchestra, made up of members of the club, will furnish the music. There are a lot of talented children in this chapter and plenty of material for a good show.

Saturday promises to be a big day at all the Warner neighborhood theaters. The big feature of the day will be the giving away of electric trains at each theater. While electric trains generally are classed as toys, there have been "big boys" galore standing in the lobbies, looking with admiration and longing at the sample trains on exhibition. Thirty of them will be found under Christmas trees in as many different Pittsburgh homes this year with compliments of the Warner Theaters.

ANOTHER BIG STANLEY SHOW

Some time between now and Christmas there will be another big joint meeting and special show at the Stanley Theater for members of all chapters of the Warner Theaters-Sun Telegraph Junior Komic Club. Boys and girls who attended the big Stanley meeting last month, remember what a good time we had and will not miss the one that is now being planned. Watch the Junior Komic Club News in the Sun-Telegraph every evening for the announcement of the date.

Points of the President's Message

Number ONE

"If we lift our vision beyond the immediate emergencies we find fundamental national gains even amid depression . . . There has been constant gain in knowledge and education."

—From the President's message to Congress.

It is difficult to understand how Mr. Hoover came to the conclusion that this depression is aiding education.

As a matter of fact, few public causes have been as hard hit by this particular economic disturbance as education.

Furthermore, in PREVIOUS national emergencies we ENLARGED the public educational opportunity that we are so UNWISELY RESTRICTING during this depression.

Prof. Edgar W. Knight, of the school of education of the University of North Carolina, paints a dark picture of what this depression is doing to discourage and retard education.

Writing in a recent issue of the Outlook and Independent, this authority says:

"In the last regular sessions of 44 state legislatures it was evident that not only would advanced school legislation be impossible to enact, but that the schools would find it difficult to retain the financial support they had gained in recent years.

"The legislatures seem to close their eyes and swing the ax and ONE OF THE FIRST PLACES IT HIT HEAVILY WAS EDUCATION.

"Appropriations to schools, colleges and universities were greatly REDUCED, salaries of teachers were CUT from 5 to 25 per cent, the teaching load of the teachers and the size of classes were increased, school terms were SHORTENED, building programs were held up or ABANDONED ALTOGETHER, the annual increments in the salaries of teachers were denied; and many teachers returned to their work in September without contracts, not knowing the amount of salary they would receive or the length of the school term.

"Some legislatures even failed to provide revenue for the appropriations which they made for education, and at least one declined to do so 'with full knowledge of its consequences.'

"Cities that formerly had nine or 10 months' schooling annually may this year find it impossible to provide more than six or seven."

What a pity it is that Mr. Hoover did not inform himself regarding the setback to education which this depression has brought before he assured the Congress that "there has been constant gain in knowledge and education" since the depression set in.

Possessed of accurate information about this vital question, he might have sounded a warning in his recent message that would have halted this raid by reckless legislatures and school committees upon the rightful heritage of our youth.

Instead of rendering a public service of this source, however, Mr. Hoover's inaccurate information misled him and caused him, unintentionally but none the less unfortunately, to lull Congress and the country into A SENSE OF FALSE SECURITY regarding the present plight of public education.

Vote Fraud Convictions

Another election cheater has been found guilty by a jury in Criminal Court.

The convictions in the election cases are gratifying as evidence that notwithstanding the widespread use of dishonest methods by gang politicians the public conscience has not been dulled to the seriousness of the offense.

There are or have been communities in the United States where it was almost impossible to secure convictions for certain crimes—bootlegging, for example—because the crimes were so common that the community did not look upon them as criminal, or because it disapproved of the law under which the prosecutions were brought. Juries simply disregarded the evidence and found the defendants not guilty.

Election cheating is an exceedingly common offense in Allegheny County. Thousands of persons are believed to have voted illegally in the recent elections. Scores have been indicted.

Cynics might have supposed that with fraud at the polls so prevalent, and carried on with the connivance if not at the instigation of powerful and popular political leaders, juries would not take a serious view of it.

Health First!

Abandonment of Meat and Dairy Inspection Is an Undesirable Way to Cut Municipal Expenses

The protest of the Allegheny County Medical Society against the proposal that meat and dairy inspection be abandoned by the city should be sufficient to kill the plan.

Discontinuance of the sanitary service has been advocated as an economy measure.

The doctors say in their letter to Council that abandonment of the inspection "might quickly result in the appearance in epidemic form among the children, as well as the adults, of this community of such grave diseases as scarlet fever, typhoid fever, diptheria, streptococcic sore throat, ptomaine poison and other infections transmitted by unclean food."

No one is better qualified than the physicians to say whether or not meat and dairy inspection is necessary. They declare it is, and their word should be accepted.

Health must never be sacrificed to economy.

Defying the Storm

(Copyright, 1931.)

For twelve years, anti-prohibition sentiment has been gathering momentum. The storm is due to break over the Seventy-second Congress. It will be the first time in the lifetime of the "noble experiment" that fanatical drys have not been able to stave off a record vote on the success or failure of the Dry Laws.

The sane, sober majority of the American people are tired of prohibition that does NOT prohibit, disgusted with the attempts to "put it over," tired of the crime, corruption and racketeering that followed in is wake.

This majority of TRUE TEMPERANCE advocates demands a change.

Marry-Go-Round

Love's Marathon

Love never stands still, these days. By the time it ceases to have growing pains, it is beginning to get hardening of the arteries.

Before marriage, when a woman says "What do you MEAN?" it embarrasses a man into telling a lie; after marriage, it frightens or bores him into telling one.

The only road to a man's conscience is through his heart. You can't rule him by making him afraid of you or sorry for you or even grateful to you—only by making him love you.

Marriage may be a dull stretch, but nothing else can make a cheap table d'hote dinner and balcony seats at a Broadway show seem like an exciting adventure.

A girl can marry almost any man she wants—simply by persuading him that she DOESN'T want him. But don't imagine that's easy—it's a feat!

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Intruder

I did not ask that he should come
Into my lonely heart;
Long had I calmly, safely lived
From all the world apart.

Yet, unabashed he came; he took
A place beside my hearth;
He wove a net about my life;
He taught me song and mirth.

I did not choose to have him mar
The quiet of my days,
The hours of solitude and peace,
The ease of dream-filled ways.

Yet, all unasked, he thrust aside
My childish dreams untrue,
And to my wondering gaze he bared
Wide realms, alluring, new.

I did not wish that he should come;
But now, at last, I know,
How cold, how dark the world would be
If he should ever go!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Broadway, from Herald Square to the Circle, has a nightly parade of beggars as varied as those fringing the Appian Way. In the opulence of boom days, mendicants almost vanished save those tottering, benumbered creatures who spend every penny for the lethal concoction called "Bowery smoke."

But now they are back—the throwers of fake fits, crust divers, Crying Marys and such. At every stop of motor traffic they swarm out, like flies to sugar. The police are showing laxity because they know that among the undeserving are many deserving.

Deserving such as the two legless men, propelling themselves on portable platforms and escorted by faithful dogs, a Boston and a wire haired terrier. Around the corner from Roxy's is the fellow whose bared artificial limb bristles with a porcupine display of pencils. In 57th street the armless harmonicist.

Trudging through theater throngs are a blind saxophonist and guitarist, led by a white-haired sightless woman. They render cowboy tunes and croon the laments of the pampas. Here and there little bands composed of musicians once of the Broadway orchestras.

Even the organ grinder and his moth-eaten monkey are back. Also the shivering acrobats in patched tights who tumble on a frayed strip of carpet in apartment courts. Too, are many who have obviously never before resorted to this humiliating expediency.

For instance, the neatly dressed fellow who stands at the curb during theater intermissions and sings in a voice adequately cultured for morning musicals. Also the clever magician, once on the big time, who executes evanishments from restaurant to restaurant.

The most prolific source of revenue for panhandlers is the entrance of the private residence speakeasy in early hours when stayouts debouch of taxis. At such time there is a mellow, generous mood. Slimmest pickings are around the Metropolitan marquee after the opera.

* * *

On Fourteenth street an old beggar, with a pudgy body and Falstaffian face, sits on a camp stool at a subway kiosk holding out packets of gum. If you stop to chat he will usually turn to poetry. Mournfully he declares there are no real poets today sate Edwin Arlington Robinson. The rest, he says, write only for adulation and not to express a stirring emotion. Keats is his idol. "He had only one rule for good verse," he avers, "and he expresses it with: 'If a sparrow comes before my window, I take part in its existence and pick about the gravel.'"

* * *

The Waldorf's new Peacock Alley, like an enormous marbled scarp, is more spacious than the old but not so clogged to me with human interest. It is more the genteel treadmill for refined looking people, conscious of their sureness in the world and expressing an efflorescence to blend therewith. In the old alley one saw along with visiting European royalty, famous confidence men, ladies who dropped handkerchiefs in paths of visiting Elks, Diamond Jim ablaze with emerald fire, Lily Langtry, Steve O'Grady, professional Southerners and Tod Sloan. It was jumbled, polyglot and oddly confused but more enticing than the superficial rhythm of post-war aristocrats.

* * *

But apple-cheeked Oscar hurries about with customary energy. Oscar can be in more places in a given time than Jules Glaenzer. He is the rubicund rivet clinching the suffocating grandeur of the new with the mellowness of the old.

* * *

And Gus Edwards, too, circulates around the Rialto, a rare old timer, who continues to bring theatrical discoveries out of obscurity as magically as the rabbit from a hat. If Gus could command 1 per cent life royalty from stars he shunted to success he could retire to a castle on the Hudson. He is rich, however, in firm friendships but I often wonder just what his thoughts are about gratefulness.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Flaming Youth—I wouldn't give a hoot for youth that didn't flame. Youth and its flame—the hope of the world. That flame of youth—it makes a lot of soot but it also burns up a lot of silliness.

That soot shocks you? Shocks me, sometimes, too. But I always come back to thinking of the small, clear flame that is burning beneath the smoke.

You don't believe there is a clear flame? You think these youngsters are plumb bad?

"Look at how we lived, back in in the nineties." Is that what you're saying? "Look at the interest we took in Sunday school and church when we were youngsters. Our clean, simple fun. No hip flasks then—"

All right. Let's look at how we lived in the nineties. I was a youngster then, too. Just such a youngster as you're remembering. Went to four church meetings every Sunday . . . Sunday school, sermon in the morning . . . Young People's meeting, sermon at night. Prayer meetings on Wednesdays. Took an interest? Sure I did. Sunday school was the biggest interest in my young life. Everything centered around that plain, board church, with the old cypress trees crowding the shabby wall and the ragged-robin roses tumbling across the door. Y. P. S. C. E. "Sociables"—Sunday School Picnic—annual Church Fair—Easter Morning Service—Christmas Eve Party—they were the high points in my young life. And in Yours. But why?

Answer me honestly—why?

Was it because, out of a world of interests, we picked the church?

NO, IT WASN'T.

Let's be perfectly frank—we olders, who boast of our superior honesty. Why was the church our first interest when we were kids? It wasn't because we chose it as our first interest. It was because it was our ONLY interest—THERE WEREN'T ANY MORE. There weren't any movies . . . any automobile Sunday rides . . . any golf links . . . any swimming tanks . . . any public dances that a decent kid could attend. There was just the church. It was not only the sole source of religion, but also of amusement and SOCIAL CONTACT. Where'd we wear our best clothes? Where'd we meet our new beaux? That was where.

And now there are a hundred places beside the church where a youngster can find beauty and friendliness and healthy pleasure and excitement. And they go those places. As—don't kid yourself—you and I would have done if we had had their chances. But that doesn't mean that they are worse than we were. It doesn't even mean that they are not religious. There are, of course, glaring examples of young indecency. There were young people who contrived to be glaringly indecent in our day, too—even with our meager opportunities.

BUT I HONESTLY BELIEVE THAT THIS PRESENT GENERATION OF YOUNGSTERS IS THE MOST DECENT THE WORLD HAS EVER SEEN AND THE MOST RELIGIOUS.

For what is the essence of religion—the true worship of God? A set of gestures? A fixed program? No. A DESIRE FOR TRUTH.....A HATE OF SHAM.....A REBELLION AGAINST ALL THAT IS FALSE AND WEAK AND UNCLEAN.

And this desire, this hate, this rebellion, burns in the heart of Youth today. It is the secret of Youth's flame. Plenty of soot in that flame.....many a mistaken clutch at truth.....many a false and foolish rebellion for freedom. But somewhere, deep within the smoke, a clear, white point of flame, flaring against the ancient darkness of the human soul.

BELIEVE IN THAT FLAME.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

It is well to be cheerful but to be in one mood all the time is tiresome as a companion.

The person who is smiling all the time smacks of insincerity for it is not possible for a human being to feel like smiling perpetually.

An older person who smiles continually gives the impression of having never assumed burdens which normal persons must accept.

In the younger person the beholder wonders if he or she has realized the seriousness of life and will ever "settle down."

Perhaps you desire to be the hail-fellow-well-met sort and so you use the jovial care-free manner for effect.

In a workaday world there is too much of a serious nature to make it possible for a man or a woman to live absolutely overflowing with good nature.

Only the irresponsible, only those who refuse to accept their share of life's burdens can be jolly every minute.

Serious thought and sober moods are to be expected but is it not necessary to be in a melancholy, irritably nervous mood to be deep in problems?

Reporting Progress; Politics, Human Misery

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Now that the administration is so bent on the "suspension of partisanship," we ought to have a definition of just what that means. The orderly operation of our form of government depends on the party system; the theory is that opposing policies and principles are submitted to the people through parties at the polls; and that the policies and principles sanctioned by the people shall be put into operation.

We hear much of the viciousness of bi-partisanship in politics. It usually means that leaders get together and agree to disregard everything but their personal convenience and advantage. That leaves the purposes of the people in elections out.

There is another interpretation of the meaning of the present proposal for the suspension of partisanship. There are pressing problems that go to the economic welfare of the people and, just now, to the relief of millions who are dependent on the bread of charity, that need have no partisan slant at all.

Perhaps it would be well to put this to the test early when Senator Wagner reintroduces the employment bill which Congress passed last year and the President killed by a pocket veto.

* * *

Mr. Rainey Makes A Proposition

And what is meant by undesirable "obstruction?" There have been policies of the President during the last three years that have contributed to the present depression; these were opposed by the Democrats at the time; the people have since voted to sustain the opposition of the Democrats and have put them in power in the House.

Would it be "obstruction" for the Democrats to oppose such policies during the present session?

The present tariff act, which most business men and almost all economists agree is destructive of foreign trade, on which our prosperity depends, was forced through by the President over the opposition of the Democrats. That which these Democrats warned would come to pass has come to pass. As a result we are now confronted by the Chinese tariff walls of other nations, and the whole world suffers. Now Mr. Rainey, Democratic leader in the House, makes this proposition:

"Our tariff must be substantially lower. Lower rates can only be put into effect with safety to our industries by resorting to reciprocal duties. We should pass a bill with the support of both parties, lowering tariff rates with a reciprocity clause providing that none of the rates can be called into effect until, as to some item or group of items, some foreign nation shall establish the rate or lower tariff rates."

Here is an appeal to the President and his party for the "suspension of partisanship." It is an appeal that business men will support. Is the President ready to suspend partisanship?

* * *

No Other Road To Victory

We shall soon know precisely what this plea for non-partisanship means. Of course the Democrats, having a mandate from the people, will act on their own judgment, in conformity with the principles and policies on which they received their mandate, but will refrain from partisan opposition in the mere spirit of obstruction. Never before, not even in 1911, have they entered upon their duties more harmoniously. This is because they have buried minor differences in the will of the majority. There is no other road to victory.

That is the reason we have a recurrence of the demand for the abrogation of the two-thirds rule in the national conventions. Periodically the demand comes, but unhappily only on the verge of a convention when the interests of candidates are involved. Yet there have been but three times in a hundred years when the candidate receiving a majority on any didate was not conceded the nomination. In each instance the defeat of the man having a majority on any ballot through the two-thirds rule left bitterness, and in one instance snatched defeat from certain victory.

There never was a reason for the rule that could be reconciled with Jeffersonian principles. A convention adopted it to satisfy a momentary purpose; a convention can abrogate it; and we hope to live to see it wiped out. We are thinking of no candidate or candidates, persuaded that whoever gets the majority in the next convention will be the nominee.

Even though a nomination be made upon the first ballot, the convention should at least abrogate the rule for future conventions, because it is un-democratic and is a constant source of irritation and a breeder of dissensions.

* * *

Unemployment Is Grave Problem

There is no graver problem before the Congress than that of unemployment and the prevention of suffering among women and children. The national government cannot ignore this human problem.

In New York City, private charity, through supreme exertion, will raise $18,000,000 for the purpose; but it is sheer mockery to assume that this will be enough. That is the reason that the Board of Estimate is being asked for an appropriation to meet the actual demands.

It is asked for $20,000,000—which is $2,000,000 more than the amount asked by the President's committee.

It is not every city that can respond to this demand; or every county and community; and where it is impossible it is the manifest duty of the national government to treat a national problem in a national way. There is nothing of partisanship in that, and that is something for Congress to consider.

* * *

Problems Of Humanity

After all, something more is involved than the prevention of starvation. Women and children die from exposure, too; and in the midst of the self-satisfaction over the collection of charity funds hundreds of thousand of women and children are being evicted from their homes, set upon the street. We have often wondered what becomes of these. Are they to be fed out in the wintry rain?

The condition of millions is beyond the reach of private charity; there is work for the federal government as well.

Dean Bonham, of the Harvard School of Business Administration, calls upon the government at Washington to do its part, to make its contribution. Money? He answers:

"In the greatest crisis we have had since the Civil War I am not worrying about borrowing a billion or two when you consider we have paid off 10 to 12 billions of our national debt in 10 years."

Whatever is needed, in addition to what private charity has contributed and local communities and governmental units can afford, must come from the national Treasury; it is a national problem; and this human misery about us is due, not to the misdeeds of local governmental units but to the stupidity of national policies. And the national government cannot stand aside and ignore its human responsibilities.

Yes, the serious problems confronting Congress are not partisan: they are the problems of humanity; and in the midst of human misery most of us are weary of platitudinous chatter from high places about "the American way."

ESTEP TO SEEK U. S. PERMIT FOR SPAN

Introduction of Bill Speeds $1,500,000 River Project With County's Indorsement

Representative Harry A. Estep, of Pittsburgh, has prepared a bill asking for the approval of a new bridge to connect Pittsburgh and Homestead, which will be introduced in Congress soon, according to Washington dispatches. The bill will ask authorization of construction of the Homestead high level bridge by Allegheny County.

Already approved by the County Commissioners, the new span would be built at an approximate cost of $1,500,000 to replace the antiquated Brown's Bridge over the Monongahela River. The new bridge would be several blocks distant from the present structure, and would provide a direct connection between West street in Homestead and Beechwood boulevard and Hazelwood avenue on the Pittsburgh side of the river.

Plans for the new bridge call for a roadway 56 feet in width with space enough for four lanes of traffic. It would be constructed on a high elevation so as to pass over railroad tracks on both sides of the river.

Brown's Bridge, built in 1894, carries only two lanes of traffic and its location has been pronounced a hazard to traffic because of nearby grade crossings.

Canary Sings Irish Jigs And Bob-White Call

Harry B. Lohr, of 423 Mountview place, Wilkinsburg, stirred by published reports of a Kentucky canary that sings "Yankee Doodle," came forward today to claim honors for "Lindy," a little, yellow canary that not only sings an Irish jig, but warbles through the Bob-White's call as well.

Born the day Col. Charles A. Lindbergh completed his trans-Atlantic flight, "Lindy" has been singing the "Irish Wash Woman" since he was a few months old.

Discussing his bird, Lohr said:

"I have a habit of whistling the 'Irish Wash Woman,' while I'm working around the house. One day Mrs. Lohr told me I'd have to change my tune because the bird had been picking it up.

"I then made it a habit to whistle the Bob-White's song and before long "Lindy" had picked it up. That Kentucky bird is a piker alongside of Lindy."

Lohr said he had difficulty convincing his friends of the truth of his stories until one night he invited them to one of "Lindy's" concerts. The bird begins to sing either song as soon as he whistles it.

Mrs. Lohr said that if the bird sees her husband returning home from his employment, it always begins to sing the jig.

MERCY SISTERS TO MARK 100TH ANNIVERSARY

Pittsburgh to Take Part In World-Wide Observance With Services Saturday

Pittsburgh Catholics and humanitarians will join Saturday in a world-wide observance of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Mercy Order in Ireland by Catherine McAuley. The Pittsburgh observance will begin at 10 a. m. with high mass in St. Agnes Church, attended by Sisters of Mercy, church dignitaries and students of Mt. Mercy Academy and College.

One hundred years ago Catherine McAuley made her profession of faith as the first Sister of Mercy. Saturday, more than 30,000 sisters of the order throughout the world will pay her honor.

Pittsburgh is the home of the first Mercy Order group in the United States. In 1843, it was begun in the old Speer House, in Penn avenue, by seven nuns.

Its work has expanded during the intervening years and today the order occupies Mt. Mercy, purchased from the Ursuline Order in 1900, and St. Xavier's Academy, Beatty, Pa., besides being in charge of numerous schools in the diocese.

Engineer to Speak At College Club

"Housing the Worker, a Social and Economic Problem," is the subject of a talk to be given tomorrow before the Pittsburgh College Club by Nathan B. Jacobs, engineer with Morris Knowles Company. The meeting will start at 3 p. m. in the clubhouse, North Craig street.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Samuel K. Cunningham, Mrs. F. F. Rohrer, Mrs. Alexander P. Lindsay, Mrs. Curtis C. Mechling, Mrs. J. Willard Anderson and Mrs. J. French Robinson.

Swissvale Rotary Club Hears Textar

Clifford Textar, of the National Tube Company of McKeesport, was the speaker at last week's meeting of the Swissvale Rotary Club in the social room of the First Methodist Church. His subject was "Corrosion of Pipes." H. N. Wood, vice president, presided.

The First Brass and Iron Worker in America
Records show that a certain Joseph Jenks at Lynn was the first worker in brass and iron on the North American continent. According to tradition, the first implement actually cast was an iron quart pot, in 1642, but, actually, many common tools and household articles were also made.
Our sympathetic helpfulness is born of sincerity, and the tactful manner in which we conduct our service is most reassuring to those who seek our assistance.

WILKINSBURG POINTS FOR SCOTT HIGH

Carroll's Passers to Engage State Champions at North Braddock Tomorrow

By JULIUS LEVIN

The football campaign brought to a fitting climax with a 33-7 victory over Greensburg, Wilkinsburg High School has turned its attention to the basketball season, which looms as one of the toughest in the history of the school.

That basketball is popular at Wilkinsburg was demonstrated by the large squad of candidates that turned out in answer to Coach Carroll's call for material. 35 players participating in the initial workout.

Coach Carroll

The Carrollites inaugurated their campaign in a non-league battle with Coraopolis last Tuesday. While the boys did not show up as expected, a big improvement is certain as the season progresses. Tomorrow night Wilkinsburg faces its first big test of the season when it invades North Braddock to meet Johnny Reed's Scott High quintet, winner of the state championship last winter. All told, Wilkinsburg will play 22 games, including its league program in Section XI, of the W. P. I. A. L. The league campaign will be ushered in on January 5, when Aspinwall is met at Aspinwall.

Season Closed

East Pittsburgh High School enjoying its most successful football season in its history under the coaching of Johnny Coleman celebrated last night with a banquet in the high school dining room.

Coleman

Among the honored guests were Paul Reider and Mike Sebastian, Pitt football stars, and Charles J. Doyle and Julius Levin, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The East Pittsburgh gridders won five games and lost three against some of the best opponents in the district during the past gridiron season. Considering that Coleman had one of the smallest squads of any Class B school in the district, the record of the team is remarkable.

East Pittsburgh started its season by scoring a 6-0 victory over Pitcairn, nosed out East McKeesport, 19-14, defeated Trafford, 14-7, and then suffered its first defeat at the hands of Braddock, 6-0. Rankin was the next victim, 7-0. Apollo was beaten, 7-6, while Edgewood and Turtle Creek Union, two of the best teams in the district, vanquished Coleman's boys in the closing battles. Edgewood was a 20-0 winner and Turtle Creek a 54-0 victor.

Champs Prepare

Scott High School, of North Braddock, defending state scholastic basketball champs, face a real fight on the floor this winter. Scott lost two of its most dependable stars in Tomko and Kuno from last year's team, and after January 27, the North Braddock quintet will be without the services of Vic Bache, one of the best centers in the W. P. I. A. L.

Johnny Reed

Johnny Reed, former Penn State luminary, will have to rebuild his championship team, and considering that the material on hand is none too promising, he faces a real task.

Despite the lack of veterans, Reed has arranged a tough program for his champions. Besides playing the regular schedule of league battles, the champions will invade Northwestern Pennsylvania and Eastern Pennsylvania on exhibition tours during the holidays. New Castle and Erie will be met on the first trip, while Steelton, Harrisburg and Williamsport likely will be engaged on the easter excursion.
